FLYER FREES SELF AFTER SEAPLANE IS SUBMERGED

Falls With Navy Racing Machine He Was Trying Out for Cup Races.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 12.—A Curtiss-Packard seaplane, entered by the navy in the Schneider seaplane cup races, was wrecked today when it dives into the water a quarter of a mile off the naval air station. Lieut. W. G. Tomlinson, the pilot, escaped.

The accident occurred while the craft was undergoing navigability tests preparatory to tomorrow's race. Lieut. Tomlinson, clad in heavy flying clothes and strapped to the plane, was submerged for some moments. He released himself and crawled to the top of one of the upturned pontoons from which he was rescued. He will be able to fly tomorrow and in place of the Curtiss-Packard will pilot a Curtiss-Hawk, with a speed of not more than 160 miles an hour.

MARLBOROUGH'S MARRIAGE ANNULLED BY DIOCESAN COURT

Semi-Official Statement at Vatican Adds That Action Has Been Confirmed.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 12.—The marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and the former Consuelo Vanderbilt of New York in 1895 has been annulled by the Roman Catholic Diocesan Court of Southwick, according to a semi-official statement given out today at the Vatican.

The semiofficial statement says the annulment was granted first by the Southwick Court and was then confirmed by the Holy Rota Tribunal in July of this year and that the interested parties were notified at the beginning of August.

IMPERIAL FAMILY OF JAPAN CALLED TO EMPEROR'S BEDSIDE

TOKIO, Nov. 12.—The Prince Regent, other members of the Imperial family and Premier Wakatsuki proceeded this morning to Hayama, where Emperor Yoshihito has been for some time sick in his palace. A bulletin is expected to be issued later.

The Imperial household department in Tokio has given assurances that the Emperor's condition is not critical, but it is understood that cables have been dispatched to all members of the Imperial family abroad and afloat.

According to custom, all announcements regarding the illness must be issued from the palace in Tokio, where the Emperor assumedly is domiciled.

LOS ANGELES' PIPES FROZEN

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—After experiencing difficulty with her water recovery system, the airship Los Angeles turned back late this afternoon to her base at Lakehurst instead of flying on to Norfolk as planned.

The ship circled over Washington several times before notifying the Navy Department of the decision to retrace her course. The freezing weather affected the recovery system in such a way that her ballast system was disarranged. In order to have descended at Norfolk she would have been compelled to expel valuable helium. It was indicated the flight to Norfolk might be made on Nov. 17.

SENDS OUT TRAVELING BANKS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Hamilton National Bank of New York announces an innovation in the form of a fleet of armored "traveling banks," which will go about the city receiving deposits and delivering payroll money. One car now is in service; five more will be added.

The use of armored cars by banks, it was said, heretofore has been barred by State and Federal laws forbidding banks to conduct business off their premises. To get around these restrictions this bank has formed the Hamilton Armored Car Corporation which will act as agent for the depositor in handling funds outside the bank, insuring the depositor against loss.

AIRPLANE DROPS BOMBS ON BIRGER FORT IN ILLINOIS

Two Fail to Explode, Third Does No Damage—Defenders Reply to Blast With Machine Guns.

SEQUEL TO ARREST OF TWO SHELTONS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 12.—The bombing of Charley Birger's Williamson County retreat, "Shady Rest," by an unidentified aviator—another innovation in gang warfare—today followed the arrest of two of the Shelton brothers on a mail robbery charge, and the shooting up of the homes of two of their friends by Birger gangsters.

The flare-up of the Williamson County whisky war was particularly signalized by the arrest of Carl and Bernie Shelton, who were taken into custody early today on the streets of Benton, 20 miles north of here, by six postoffice inspectors and three Deputy United States Marshals.

Their arrest disclosed that they and another man whose name is withheld, had been indicted by the Federal grand jury at Springfield, Ill., last Tuesday for alleged complicity in the $15,000 robbery of a 64-year-old postoffice messenger at Collinsville on Jan. 27, 1925.

Plane Bombs Roadhouse.

It was only a few hours after the Sheltons' arrest that an airplane circled over the Birger roadhouse, 10 miles east of Marion. Swinging low, the aviator dropped a bomb which hit near the roadhouse but failed to explode.

As the members of the gang ran out of the place he swung down again and dropped two more, one of which was a dud. The other exploded in the woods near the cabin as the gangsters on the ground opened up on the flyer with rifles and machine guns.

No damage was done by the explosion, but Birger was obviously wrought up over the new method of waging war against him.

"There'll be something popping off here now," he told a Post-Dispatch correspondent. "They can't try that stuff on me. If I can get an airplane by 6 o'clock tonight I'll get one—and use it, too."

Reprisal for Birger Raid.

Apparently the air raid was a reply to an early morning visit by Birger gangsters to West City, on the western edge of Benton, where they poured a heavy machine gun and rifle fire into two houses. One of them is occupied by Gus Adams, brother of the 300-pound Mayor of the town, Joe Adams, and the other is the home of Mrs. Mary Loughran, an elderly widow. Both homes have been described by Birger as Shelton hangouts and Mayor Adams has admitted to a Post-Dispatch correspondent that he had enlisted the Sheltons' aid to protect himself from Birger.

The Sheltons, it is learned authoritatively, owe their arrest to Birger, who has openly charged they committed the Collinsville robbery. Their bonds have been set at $60,000.

In connection with the indictment it is recalled that Art Newman, once the friend but now the sworn enemy of the Sheltons, was questioned about the Collinsville robbery after being arrested on the street in St. Louis last week. He has since come to Williamson County and is with Birger.

DEFENSE THINKS PAPER PROMOTED HALL-MILLS TRIAL

MRS. HALL HEARD MRS. MILLS PHONE

Pastor's Last Words at Home on Day of Murder Recounted by Louise Riehl, Former Servant.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 12.—Defense counsel in the Hall-Mills case today said in argument to the Court that it has a theory that the present trial was "promoted and inspired by the Daily Mirror," a New York tabloid newspaper.

The statement was made in cross-examination of one of the two witnesses of the forenoon session, Philip Payne, managing editor of the Mirror. Payne, who had testified as to the photographing in his office of a calling card the State asserts bears Willie Stevens' fingerprint, was asked on cross-examination how much the Mirror had spent "on this investigation."

Objection was promptly raised by the State and Robert H. McCarter, senior defense counsel, said in his argument as to the competency of the question that it is a theory of the defense that "this matter now being prosecuted as a solemn trial in this court was promoted and inspired by the Mirror for financial reasons and to promote circulation."

Court Bars the Question.

The question was excluded by the Court.

In approaching the question from another angle, defense counsel attempted to question the witness as to the newspaper's connection with attorneys' fees in a case of Arthur Riehl against his wife, who as Louise Geist was a maid in the Hall home. This, too, was overruled.

Barbara Tough, maid in the Hall home at the time of the crime, was the only other witness of the morning.

Miss Tough, under direct examination, said that she had been in the habit of taking a thermos bottle of water to the bedroom of Mrs. Hall every night, but did not take any to her room on Thursday night, Sept. 14, 1922, the night of the murder. She said also she did not pass the room of Willie Stevens in taking the water to Mrs. Hall's bedroom.

On Wednesday Miss Tough had testified that she had seen neither Mrs. Hall nor Willie Stevens in their home on the night of the killing, although she did hear Mrs. Hall enter the bathroom about 2 o'clock in the morning.

Willie Usually Home by 6 P. M.

Today Miss Tough testified that in her almost seven years of service in the Hall home, she rarely saw Willie Stevens out of the house after 6 o'clock in the evening.

Senator Case took up the cross-examination of Miss Tough.

"Was there anything unusual in the house when you came in on the night of the killings?" asked Case. "Nothing at all," she replied.

"You didn't pass the bedroom of Mrs. Hall in going to the third floor?" "No."

"You couldn't see it?" "No."

"Did Mr. and Mrs. Hall occupy the same room?" "Yes."

"And the same bed?" "Yes."

On cross-examination of James Mills, husband of the slain choir singer, Senator Case had brought out that Mrs. Mills and her husband occupied separate rooms.

"During the night, about 2 o'clock, you heard Mrs. Hall going to the bathroom?" "Yes."

"What did Willie say the next day?" "I saw him washing his hands in the bathroom during the noon hour and he said 'she woke me out of a sound sleep.'"

"You said you did not take a glass of water to Mrs. Hall on the night of the killings. Why was that?" asked Case. "Thursday night was my night out, and someone else took it then," the witness replied.

She described St. Mary's Guild of Dr. Hall's church as an organization "just like the mother's meeting" of the Presbyterian church, only that the members were not married.

Quizzed About Gossip.

Miss Tough spent several uncomfortable minutes on the witness stand when she was asked by Case to name the women who she had heard gossipping of the love affair between the Rev. Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

"I'd rather not," said the former maid. The court insisted that she

FRIENDLY WELCOME TO QUEEN MARIE ON AUTOMOBILE PARADE DOWNTOWN

Queen Marie, Photographed in St. Louis Today

WAVES HANDS IN RESPONSE TO QUIET GREETING

PRINCE NICOLAS HARDLY NOTICED

St. Louis U. Students Cheer Party on Its Only Halt and Present Bouquet to Rumanian Ruler.

Downtown St. Louis gave friendly, but undemonstrative, welcome to Queen Marie of Rumania at the lunch hour today in a parade which was the chief feature of her 24-hour visit to this city in the fourth week of her spectacular American tour.

The streets were well-filled—Washington avenue, Broadway, Olive and Twelfth—in numbers comparable to outpourings greetings others to whom the city in the past has given ceremonious welcome. Women waved their handkerchiefs. Men lifted their hats. There were some cheers, not many.

The Queen returned the salutes—bowing right and left, waving her handkerchief or hand. Prince Nicolas, in the third automobile, frequently went unrecognized. He sat rather stiffly, eyes front. He raised his hat once or twice in response to salutations.

Ileana a Favorite.

The crowds made Princess Ileana their favorite. Exclamations that she was "beautiful," "cute," "darling," "lovely," "peach" fell constantly upon her ears and she smiled continuously and cordially. When a city fireman, in raucous voice, shouted, "There's my baby," her smile broadened and she gave her boisterous admirer an answering wave of the hand. When a reporter remarked to her that she apparently had won the hearts of the onlookers, she replied in a foreign tongue. In English, however, she added she thought the reception "marvelous."

Few ventured to call out any greetings to the Queen, except that several persons, chiefly in Washington avenue, addressed her in a foreign language. The Queen did not reply, but when she heard the greetings, she turned quickly to search out some countryman and give him more animated gesture of friendliness.

Joking the Mayor.

Instead, the onlookers addressed their comments to Mayor Miller, who sat, silk-hatted, beside her. "Oh, look at the King," one exclaimed. "Hello, Vic, is that Marie?"

The Mayor served to identify the Queen to many. Her car was not distinguished in any way from the others in the procession. All were decorated with waving plumes and American and Rumanian flags on the hoods.

The Queen, Prince and Princess rode in open cars, the Queen bundled in a full-length moleskin coat with a fur lap robe over her knees. A closed car preceded her in the event the wind should become too biting, but she gave no indication that she noticed any chill. In fact, her greeting to Mayor Miller as she stepped from her car on arrival was: "Isn't it a wonderful day?" She was driven by her own chauffeur, who wore the simple uniform of a private in the Rumanian army.

The parade, first of a series of sightseeing tours about the city, started shortly after 11:30 a. m. from the Coronado Hotel, Lindell boulevard and Spring avenue, which is the residence of the visitors until the departure of the Queen, Prince and Princess for Springfield, Ill., and Chicago tomorrow at 9 a. m.

Admires Lindell Boulevard.

Apparently Marie is a born sightseer, for her chief conversation with Mayor Miller was concerning passing scenes. She wanted to know whether St. Louis paved its streets by assessment upon property or general tax, but other than that she was concerned with the buildings. On the way from the train she remarked the beauty of Lindell boulevard.

Scarcely had she seated herself for the downtown parade when she

$140,000 HOLDUP IN LAPORTE (IND.) BANK

Five Men Armed With Shotguns Force Dozen Persons to Lie on Floor, Loot Cages.

LAPORTE, Ind., Nov. 12.—The People's Trust and Savings Bank of Laporte was held up and robbed today by five armed men, who escaped with $140,000, of which $40,000 was cash and the remainder securities.

Apparently with intent to intimidate, one robber fired a sawed-off shotgun as the five entered the bank. The charge embedded itself in the ceiling. The other four men drew revolvers, lined up five customers waiting at the cages and took charge of the institution.

About a dozen persons, including employes, were in the bank. All were forced to lie on the floor while two robbers stood guard over them.

George McClane, the president of the bank, was forced to lie down with the others as was a woman who entered while the robbers were at work.

The robbers cleared the tellers' tills of about $40,000 in currency, and then forced Cashier Harry Keller to open the vault and there about $100,000, chiefly in negotiable securities was seized.

The robbers fled eastward toward South Bend, in an automobile they had waiting outside the bank.

The five, all well dressed and apparently in the neighborhood of 30 years of age, drove up to the bank with their weapons concealed.

The shot fired was not heard by persons on the streets although the bank is in the center of the city which has about 15,000 population.

George Petering, a teller, was talking on the telephone as the robbers entered. Before he realized what was happening the robbers had jerked him from the telephone and thrown him to the floor.

The whole robbery was executed swiftly and the men had departed before an alarm could be given. The robbery was the first bank holdup experienced here.

NOVEL ON HARDING REGIME 'SCANDALOUS,' SAYS COOLIDGE

He Hasn't Read It; Senator Deplores Story Because Some of It Is True.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Coolidge's comment on Samuel Hopkins Adams' novel, "Revelry," at Tuesday's White House luncheon at which several Senators were present, was limited to, "I think it is scandalous." The President had not read the book, which is a thinly disguised fictional picture of graft and corruption during the Harding administration.

One of the Senators expressed the view that the publication of the book was regrettable inasmuch as it contained some truth, and the average reader would not be able to tell where to draw the line between fact and fancy.

The President asked whether the White House was mentioned as the scene of some of the incidents, and on being told that it figured largely, delivered himself of his comment.

The book was reviewed in the Post-Dispatch Wednesday.

HOUDINI'S MAGIC SECRETS BEQUEATHED TO HIS BROTHER

Will Gives to Library of Congress $500,000 Collection of Books; Relatives Share Estate.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Harry Houdini willed his magic secrets and illusions to his brother, Dr. Theodore Franz Weiss, known to the stage as Hardeen, with the proviso that the apparatus for performing them be destroyed at the brother's death.

The bequest is made in a will filed here. It gives the bulk of the magician's $500,000 collection of books to the Library of Congress in Washington, provided the gift is credited to the donor. Houdini, known as an exposer of fraudulent mediums, left his books on spiritualism and occultism to the American Society for Psychical Research.

The size of Houdini's estate is not indicated, but his widow, brothers and sister are the principal beneficiaries. His widow, Mrs. Wilhelmina Ranner Houdini, is executrix and heir to his dramatic library.

NAT GOLDSTEIN DENIED REHEARING OF APPEAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Nat Goldstein, Mike Whalen and four of their co-defendants in the Jack Daniel whisky conspiracy of the summer of 1923 must return to Leavenworth prison and serve out the terms assessed against them at Indianapolis last December, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled once more today.

The ruling was contained in a terse memorandum written by Judges Alschuler, Evans and Page, denying the petition of the men for a rehearing on the case. The same judges had denied their appeals from their sentences last September. Today's action was expected by their counsel.

Sentences of Six Men.

The sentences of the six men, whose only recourse now is an appeal to the Supreme Court, are:

Goldstein, former Circuit Clerk of St. Louis, two years in prison and $5000 fine.

Whalen, former Democratic City Committeeman, two years and $5000.

Daniel O'Neil, former Deputy Constable here, 15 months and $500.

Morris Multin, former whisky dealer, two years and $5000.

Harry Levin, known as "Fat," gambler and former Deputy Constable, two years and $5000.

In its decision of last September, affirming the sentences of the six, the Circuit Court of Appeals granted new trials to William Lucking and George Landon, Cincinnati capitalists; Tony Foley, St. Louis County gambler, John P. Connor, his partner, Robert E. Walker, former Deputy Sheriff, and Edward J. O'Hare, St. Louis lawyer and politician.

Prince Nicolas and Princess Ileana as They Looked on Arrival

CROWD OF 1000 GREETS QUEEN ON HER ARRIVAL IN ST. LOUIS

DRIVES AT ONCE TO HER HOTEL

No Ovation on Trip Down Lindell Boulevard—Mayor and Chancellor Hadley in Welcoming Party.

Queen Marie's 12-car special train known as the Royal Rumanian, and including decorated special cars of the Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania and other trunk lines, entered St. Louis from the north, over the Burlington tracks, about 8:30 a. m., and made its first stop within the city at Tower No. 1, in the Union Station yards, at 9. At 9:30 the train arrived at the Union boulevard tracks of the Wabash, near Lindell boulevard, where the official Reception Committee waited.

At 10:10 Queen Marie appeared on the platform of her car. A salute of 21 guns fired by Jefferson Barracks artillerymen in Forest Park, announced the beginning of the official welcome, and the Queen stood at attention as the barracks band played the Rumanian national anthem.

Except for exclamations and murmurings of curiosity, it was a silent crowd of about 1000 which viewed the arrival of the royal visitors. The Queen appeared in a beige hat, and full-length moleskin coat with a platinum fox collar, the costume affording a blend of brown, gray and silver. She carried a bunch of artificial violets, though the train was laden with bouquets of real flowers. Her hosiery was brown, and she wore alligator slippers. Two large pearls hung from her ears.

Look Like College Youths.

Prince Nicolas, who is 23 years old, and Princess Ileana, nearly 18, looked like American college youths, save for the Prince's derby hat. He wore a blue overcoat and dark tie, and his sister wore a full-length squirrel coat.

Chancellor Hadley of Washington University, who had been invited to the train for a consultation with members of the Queen's party as to this afternoon's reception at the university by the local Rumanian colony, preceded the guests in leaving their car. Mayor Miller was on hand as the city's official greeter, and a committee of women, including Miss Martha Love, Veiled Prophet queen, and her four special maids, was ushered into the entrance of the Queen's car, "Yellowstone."

Runs Short of Photographs.

Photographers and electricians were on hand, besides newspaper and moving picture camera men. The electricians placed wires to the Queen's car, to permit the taking of photographs within. This, it was explained, was because the Quen is running short of photographs. She has given the pictures away lavishly in the places she has visited in the United States and the Western provinces of Canada. The Prince and Princess, it was said, were also out of photographs.

The flags of the United States and Rumania decorated the side of the "Yellowstone." On other cars of the special train, and on the automobiles of the Reception Committee the Rumanian red and orange were mingled with the national colors of this country.

Mayor Miller was the only person riding with the Queen as the line started down Lindell boulevard toward the hotel at Spring avenue. The Queen chose to ride in an open car, although a closed one was available. In the car with the Princess were Carl F. G. Meyer, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Meyer. The Prince was escorted by Boyle O. Rodes, representing the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. and Mrs. W. Palmer Clarkson.

No Ovation for Procession.

After a 20-minute delay, occasioned by the fact that there were more visitors in the party than the committee had provided automobiles for, the procession got under way and moved slowly east on Lindell boulevard to the Coronado Hotel.

The Queen rode in the first car, Prince Nicolas in the second, and Princess Ileana in the third. The sidewalks of Lindell boulevard were not crowded, most of the spectators watching from automobiles which they had parked at the curbs. Hawkers of balloons and Rumanian flags apparently sold nothing and there were no ovations.

At the hotel about 350 persons were watching as the procession drew into the drive and stopped at the canopied west entrance at 10:30. The visitors were escorted to the reception room of the hotel, where formal greetings were exchanged. The royal family, with Mayor Miller, took a position at one end of the room and the members of the Reception Committee passed one by one, the Queen shaking hands with each. "Delighted to meet you," was the salutation she repeated each time.

Members of the Royal Party.

Americans on board the train are Col. John H. Carroll, railroad attorney in charge of the train; Maj. Stanley Washburn, acting as special aid to the Queen, and Ira Nelson Morris of Chicago, consul-general for Rumania.

The Queen's own chauffeur, a member of the special train party, drove her car from the time when she left her train. The chauffeur did not share the animation of his royal employer, and did not conceal the fact that he was weary of traveling and anxious to get back to New York.

This is the first visit of royalty to St. Louis for more than seven years. King Albert and Queen Elisabeth of the Belgians, with their son, Crown Prince Leopold, were here in October, 1919. Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the then reigning Emperor William II of Germany, was here in 1903, and the Crown Prince of Siam was a World's Fair visitor in 1904.

Col. Carroll, former St. Louisan, Says All's Serene.

Col. John H. Carroll, a former St. Louisan, who is in charge of the "Royal Rumanian" train, bearing Queen Marie and her party, was questioned by reporters at Hotel Coronado today about dissension in the party, which has resulted in several persons leaving the train, by request or otherwise.

"Lots of persons tried to run the train, and said they were running the train, but they found out they weren't and I was," Carroll replied, and he added: "All is serene now."

Referring to the dismissal from the train of "Bob" Ayres, representative of Henry Ford, after Ayres announced Henry Ford was paying some of the expenses of the Queen's tour, Carroll said:

"Bob is a nice young man, but he gave out a statement that was not so."

Upon arriving at the hotel from the train, Carroll held a long-distance telephone conversation with Henry Ford in Detroit, the nature of which he would not disclose.

For 17 years, Carroll related, his home was at Delmar boulevard and Belt avenue, St. Louis. He still has a voting residence in Missouri, at Unionville, but for years has spent most of his time at Washington, as general counsel for railroads. He has been connected with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad for 45 years.

WANTS QUEEN AS GODMOTHER FOR HER DAUGHTER, MARIE

Mrs. Marie Weber of Smackover, Ark., arrived in St. Louis today to have her 2-year-old daughter, Marie, christened with Queen Marie of Rumania as her godmother. She registered at the Coronado Hotel in the hope that the Reception Committee would find a brief space in the royal program for the Queen to grant her wish.

Mrs. Weber's parents came from Rumania and she, before her marriage, studied music in Europe and met Queen Marie in Bucharest. Later, she was active in war work for the Rumanians and contributed needed articles to Queen Marie's own relief unit.

When the Queen was in St. Paul last week, Mrs. Weber telegraphed her request an dreceived a wire from Mme. Lahovary, lady in waiting, that the Queen would gladly see her in St. Louis if the committee arranged it. Mrs. Weber said if she failed in her purpose today, she would take her daughter to Bucharest next year.

spied the glistening white Masonic Temple on Lindell west of Grand. She wanted to know what it was. And the building just a little further on—the Scottish Rite Temple. Around the corner on West Pine boulevard, the procession passed the new gymnasium of St. Louis University and a pointed finger indicated her interest in that, also.

Another block, and she appeared both surprised and pleased at a scene on the Grand boulevard steps of the administration building of St. Louis University

Reception at St. Louis.

The Jesuits stood in rows in academic gowns and priestly collars. Nuns looked down from the windows. Students were massed upon the steps. Several thousand persons crowded around.

Marie's car was stopped at a point where stood the Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S. J., president of the university, bareheaded. For the second time the Rumanian national anthem rang forth in brass from a band. Marie stood in the tonneau of her car. As the band ceased, President Cloud began to read from a paper in his hand.

There was a greeting, a heartfelt welcome, the President said, for Marie in St. Louis, and doubly so at the university, because one of its professors had discovered that Marie's children, through their father, were in the blood line of descent from a famous Jesuit, Francis, Duke of Gandia, who renounced his worldly title to become a priest and who, by his subsequent sacrifices, became St. Francis Borgia.

As he finished, the Queen replied: "Thank you very much. I am extremely touched by the words you say."

President Cloud then brought forward Miss Louise Winkleman, a student in the College of Commerce and Finance, remarking, "Fair to the fair," as Miss Winkleman handed the Queen an armful of roses.

Signs Visitors' Register.

Again a "thank you" and the Queen asked Miss Winkleman how many women students there were in the university. She was told about 800. The distinguished visitors' register of the university was handed her and, declining a proffered pen, the Queen drew out her own and wrote a bold "Marie" on the page.

The procession then proceeded toward the downtown. Marie was well guarded. A Federal Secret Service agent rode in the front seat with her chauffeur. Four mounted police, after the downtown had been reached, rode black horses close to the four fenders of the machine. Close behind was a car filled with city detectives.

The Prince rode in the car directly following the Queen and the second car behind carried the Princess. The Prince and Princess have been close to the Queen in all the events of her more or less serine progress through social rivalries in the East and the publicity vexations of the Pacific Coast. W. Palmer Clarkson rode with the Prince and Carl F. G. Meyer beside the Princess. Mrs. Clarkson and Mrs. Meyer were in the cars with their husbands.

From Grand to Twelfth boulevards, along Lindell and Washington, there was almost a continuous fringe of onlookers, often several rows deep. When Twelfth had been passed, the downtown crowds greatly increased in numbers. Many flags were displayed, though some that had flown yesterday on Armistice day had been taken down. Crowds were dense throughout the downtown.

The Jefferson Barracks band had fallen in at the head of the procession at Thirteenth street and its stirring marches raised the spirits of the crowd somewhat and there was casual cheering in spots. The spectators displayed more than a perfunctory curiosity—quite a lively interest, and the comment in the wake of the Queen's passing was mostly friendly. One woman was heard to remark: "Well, as between Coolidge and the Queen, I will take Coolidge."

One Negro said: "Shucks, she ain't no queen; how come she don't look like no queen?" Marie herself displayed a very lively interest in Negro children, gathered in groups along Washington avenue, and when they called out ot her childishly she waved and smiled and bowed to them and seemed appreciative of their admiration.

Women obviously were interested in searching the Queen's face for signs of rouge. On the word of a reporter who got a closeup as she stepped from the train, she had none on her cheeks. They were not without color, however. Some women remarked that the carmine in her lips was high. It was pale beside the daily crimson of Olive street.

Stares at Tall Buildings.

Through the downtown, Marie tilted her head far back to scan the buildings and to wave at faces in the windows. She seemed particularly interested in the unusual architecture of the massive Federal Reserve Bank Building on Broadway at Locust.

The throwing of torn paper from office buildings lately has become a form of official welcome to distinguished guests from workers in the downtown district. Only a few basketful — on Broadway — were dumped out for Marie.

It required 25 minutes for the parade to move east from Twelfth street and to reach Twelfth again on the way back west. After leaving Twelfth the speed was increased and the Coronada Hotel was reached at 12:55 p. m.

Hall Defense Blames Newspaper for Prosecution

give them and she named "Mabel" and "Nellie," and about a dozen others, explaining that the last names which she gave for them had since been changed by marriage. Long pauses marked the giving of the names and the witness showed by her reluctance that she was most uncomfortable. She once expressed her fear that this information would cause her trouble, when she returned to New Brunswick.

On Wednesday Miss Tough had told of a man named Fisher having been employed at the Hall home after the double killing, and while Felix di Martini, a detective, already was living in the house. Case today brought from the witness the statement that this man, Fisher, was a night watchman and not a detective.

Widow Receives Threats.

"The fact is, that after this terrible murder, Mrs. Hall received all kinds of threatening letters, didn't she?" asked Case. "So I understood," answered the witness. The State has contended that Mrs. Hall employed detectives to prevent her becoming involved as a suspect in the double killing.

Asked by the State to detail again her movements on the night of the murder, which was her "Thursday out," she told of dining with friends and reaching home about 10 o'clock.

"Where were you between the time you left the place where you had dinner and the time you reached home?" "Automobile riding."

"With whom?" "Must I answer that?" With an affirmative ruling from the Court, she said: "Archie Cook."

"Where is he now?" "I don't know, and I don't care."

Referring to Miss Tough's previous testimony, telling how Di Martini had questioned her alone, Case asked the witness if the detective had not asked her to "tell only the truth." She said he had.

Lights On In Library.

The State prosecutor, taking the witness for re-direct examination, turned to her statement that she had found the library lights on in the Hall home when she returned there about 10 o'clock the night of the murder. She said there was nothing unusual in the lights being on, without any members of the Hall family being seen in the house.

The defense objected when the witness was asked to name any other Thursday night when she had found a similar condition, contending that it had not yet been proved that Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens were not in the house, the maid only having said she had not seen them.

Philip Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, was the next witness. He testified that he had received the calling card, bearing finger prints claimed by the prosecution to be those of Willie Stevens, from Edward Schwartz of the Newark police department.

"It was in exactly the same condition as now," he said. He paid nothing for it, he said.

Payne was cross-examined by Robert McCarter, chief of defense counsel. He said he met Schwartz two or three times in Newark in June and July at the St. Francis Hotel.

Tells of Meeting Schwartz.

"Why did you meet there?" McCarter asked. "I asked Schwartz where was a good place," Payne replied.

"Why didn't you meet him at his office at police headquarters?" "Better ask him that."

Payne said he first met Schwartz in June and at their several meetings they talked about the calling card. He received the card in July while in a taxicab.

"Was there any financial considerations?" McCarter asked. "No."

"What did you give him?" "I gave him nothing material," Payne continued. "I said that——" Defense counsel stopped him. Simpson argued that the answer be completed, and the Court agreed. 'I told him that he would be doing a service to the State of New Jersey if he helped solve this case," Payne concluded.

It was testified that another member of the Mirror staff was present at the first meeting between Schwartz and Payne and also at the one at which the card was surrendered.

The card, Payne said, was in his custody for some time, and was under lock and key in a steel cabinet in the Mirror office.

Had Card Photographed.

Payne said the card was photographed twice in the newspaper office, but the first photographs were not printed in the newspaper. The second photographing was done after the card had been taken to Middletown, N. Y., and shown to Joseph A. Faurot, fingerprint expert, who was summering there, the witness said.

McCarter, explaining that he wanted to show the interest of this witness," drew from him a statement that he was present when Mrs. Hall was arrested shortly before midnight last July 28.

"How much did the Mirror spend on this investigation?" McCarter asked.

Simpson objected.

"It is the theory of the defense," McCarter argued, "that this matter now being prosecuted in a solemn trial in this court, was promoted and inspired by the Mirror for financial reasons and to promote circulation."

"This trial is on an indictment," Simpson retorted, "and any such speech is an attack on that indictment."

Defense Overruled.

The question was overruled.

"It is not a fact that you receive a bonus from the Mirror for gains in circulation?" demanded McCarter, only to be overruled again.

"The first thing that broke after you took hold of this case, was the filing and publication in the Mirror of an annulment suit of Arthur S. Riehl, was it not?"

The question was overruled, but not before McCarter had argued that the Mirror paid the attorney's fees in the action brought by Riehl against his wife, Louise Geist, a former maid in the Hall home. Last week this suit was reported withdrawn.

A copy of the Mirror portraying Willie Stevens terrified, placing a calling card at the feet of the victims, was then marked for identification.

No Retraction Made.

"Has the Mirror made any retraction, apology or statement regarding the picture?" McCarter asked. "To whom?"

"In the paper?" "No."

"Is it not a fact that prior to the commencement of this trial copies of the Mirror were sent to every name on the struck jury list which was hung up in this courthouse?" The question was not allowed.

On redirect examination, Payne said the card was in his possession up to last Aug. 15, when he turned it over to an official investigating the crime.

"Has Willie Stevens, orally or by writing, demanded a retraction?" the prosecutor asked the witness, referring to the connection of his name with the crime through a fingerprint. "No," answered the witness.

Willie Made No Threats.

"Has he had you arrested, or threatened your arrest, for libel?" "No."

McCarter, who had walked to the back of the jurors' chairs, said, "Those things may come later."

John V. Hubbard, New Brunswick undertaker, who had charge of the burial of both victims, was called after the noon recess.

"Did you tell Dr. Cronk of New Brunswick that Senator Florence counsel for Mrs. Hall, had for an examination of Mrs. body?" Simpson asked. "No."

"Did you take the tongue windpipe and larynx from Mills' body?" "No."

"Do you know they were in body?" "I didn't look in mouth, I looked at the wound I didn't observe that they missing."

The witness testified that as he knew, no autopsy was formed on either of the bodies fore burial.

"At any time Mr. Hall's body in your place did Mrs. Hall there?"

The witness said that Sydney penter, cousin of Mrs. Hall, was only relative of Mrs. Hall that could recall who had looked at body.

"Did you inquire as to the of the hurry for burying this and in another state?" asked son, referring to the Rev. Mr. body, which was buried in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Undertaker Hurried Burial.

Answering a question cross-examination, the under said he had advised a burial of the minister's body cause of its condition. The defense counsel also drew from the ness the explanation that the was not actually buried, but merely placed in the family in the Brooklyn Cemetery. He that Hall's body was not placed the upper rack in the vault, which there was one remaining space, but instead, at Mrs. orders, had been placed on a rack so that hers eventually be placed beside it.

Payne, called for redirect nation, testified that his only est in the case was "as a citizen New Jersey, to see it cleared

National Surety Co. Charges It Was Deceived in $2,000,000 Hotel Project.

The National Surety Co. of New York today filed a claim in the Probate Court for $122,523.08 against the estate of John I. Beggs, St. Louis capitalist, who died Oct. 17, 1925, asserting that they were deceived by Beggs in a $2,000,000 hotel building project.

The surety company sets forth that in September, 1925, it signed a $500,000 bond for the W. G. Souders Construction Co., which was to do the work on a hotel at Atlantic City for the President Apartment Hotel Co.

Arthur W. Rankin, general agent of the bonding concern, says Beggs agreed to take $500,000 worth of bonds of the hotel project. Instead, the petitioner alleges, Beggs invested only about $300,000 in the hotel company, thus breaking the agreement under which the surety company says it signed the bond. The petitioner further charges that Beggs had an understanding without its knowledge, nuder which he obtained the $300,000 worth of bonds from the hotel company and represented that he had invested $500,000.

As a result of Beggs' failure to give the hotel project the financial backing he had promised, the National Surety Co. says, losses were incurred which the bonding company was required to make good. It estimates that these losses totalled $122,523, asked for in the petition.

PRESIDENT LIKES WELCOME HE GOT IN MIDDLE WEST

Pleased With Reception at Kansas City and Way Stations—His Special Due Back at Capital Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

ON PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S TRAIN, Nov. 12.—The welcome the Middle West gave President and Mrs. Coolidge on their trip to Kansas City was repeated today as their special train carried them back to Washington.

Speaking yesterday at the Armistice day dedication of Kansas City's $2,000,000 Liberty Memorial to the war dead, the President said the United States would adhere to the World Court only on the conditions laid down by the Senate. The crowd broke into applause in which cheers mingled.

Mr. Coolidge was deeply impressed with the great crowd which greeted him, those at the memorial dedication being estimated at 150,000. It was with pleasure that he found opportunity during his seven hours' visit to go to Kansas City, Kan., for a brief tour. All members of his official party expressed satisfaction at the program provided for him.

Due in Capital Tonight.

Secretary of War Dwight Davis, who accompanied the President to Kansas City, departed for Kansas after the dedication, but Everett Sanders, secretary to the President, and other members of the party are returning on the train to Washington. They are due to arrive in Washington late tonight.

Only operating stops are being made by the train, but this is providing opportunity for persons at the stations to extend a welcome. At other points the train has slowed down as crowds have appeared to shout a greeting.

At Independence, Sedalia and Jefferson City, Mo., the President and Mrs. Coolidge went to the observation platform last night and acknowledged the cheers of hundreds while flowers were given by the citizens to Mrs. Coollidge.

Movie Show on Train.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge last evening enjoyed a motion picture show. Views of their visit to Kansas City and others of life at the White House and at White Pine camp in the Adirondacks were shown.

The brook and rainbow trout in the Black Hills district of South Dakota, may possibly get a chance to nibble at presidential bait next year. The President expressed great interest in the invitation extended him at luncheon yesterday by John Bland of Tinton, S. D., representing the people in the Black Hills district.

"How's the fishing?" was the President's first question. "Fine," Bland assured him. "The brooks and streams are full of trout."

"Well, what's the altitude at this place?" the President next asked. "Five thousand feet."

"Where would you want me to put up?" Mr. Coolidge continued. "Near Hill City, S. D."

The President said he would take the invitation under advisement.

The train shed platforms in Union Station in Columbus were thronged with men and women who struggled to get a glimpse of the President. The executive, however, remained seated in his private car until the train started to move slowly out of the station. Then he and Mrs. Coolidge appeared on the observation platform and acknowledged the cheers and salutes of the crowd.

Running fully a half hour ahead of schedule, the special train carrying President and Mrs. Coolidge back to Washington from Kansas City, halted in Pittsburg for a few minutes shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. The President and Mrs. Coolidge appeared on the rear platform of the observation car to receive the greetings of a large crowd gathered at the railroad station. The President learned through a representative of the Associated Press of the death of "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Coolidges Pass Through City Twice in 24 Hours.

For the second time within 24 hours, President and Mrs. Coolidge passed through St. Louis last night on their special train, asleep. They were here on their journey to Kansas City Wednesday night and arrived again, on the way back to Washington, at 10:45 o'clock last night, traveling over the Missouri Pacific. Twenty minutes later, the train departed over the Pennsylvania.

The train was stopped in the yards near Union Station long enough to change locomotives. Secret Service men guarding the President alighted when the train stopped to patrol the vicinity.

Last evening, while crossing Missouri, the President had the opportunity of seeing a news reel motion picture of himself, taken yesterday when dedicating the Liberty Memorial at Kansas City.

SMOKE OBSERVER NEWEST JOB AT UNION ELECTRIC

A new job and a busy one, that of smokestack observer, has been created by the Union Electric Light & Power Co. to help abate the smoke evil of St. Louis. A young man in its employ is paid about $90 a month to sit all day at a high window facing the 12 stacks of the power plant at the foot of Ashley street and signal the boiler room when they belch excessive smoke.

This has been the youth's sole task, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., for several months, and it keeps him well occupied. Every few minutes there is occasion for him to act. His work effects some saving in operating cost, but the amount is not easy to measure. He sits at a big window in an old office building 200 feet away from the chimneys. Beside him is a switchboard with 12 switches, one for each stack.

When the observer sees a chimney smoking unduly he presses the corresponding switch and instantly a light flashes on a board in the boiler room, and a little siren blows. The siren calls the firemen's attention and the light tells them which chimney is misbehaving. There are 56 boilers, a group to each stack.

WOMEN OF ST. LOUIS LUNCH WITH QUEEN

A group of St. Louis matrons and society girls, chosen from official and civic life and from the Veiled Prophet's court, took luncheon with Queen Marie at the Coronado Hotel, following her return from the downtown parade.

The first floor "green room" of the hotel had been done in gold and the walls and tables were banked with golden chrysanthemums and yellow rosebuds. The tableware was coated with the Rumanian coat of arms, in gold.

Other guests were Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner, Mrs. Elliott W. Major and Mrs. Herbert S. Hadley, wives of former Governors of Missouri; Mrs. Ida Jane Miller, the Mayor's mother; Mrs. W. Palmer Clarkson, Mrs. F. W. A. Vesper, Mrs. Rolla Wells and Mrs. A. L. Shapleigh, wives of former presidents of the Chamber of Commerce.

Queen Marie readily assumed the chief speaking role. Her clear contralto voice was heard at both ends of the table, as she praised the arrangements for the day's visit and told foh re recent tour of the Northwest, on both sides of the international boundary line. The conversation was informal, and at times the Queen talked only to those on either side of her, while the Princess engaged in lively talk with the young women near her.

An orchestra at the opposite side of the room played at times, beginning with the Rumanian anthem and folk songs, following this with a gypsy dance, and venturing at length upon recent light opera favorites, such as "Indian Lave Call" and "Song of Love."

The luncheon lasted an hour, and at the end of this time, the guests withdrew, and the Queen was left to prepare for her visit to Washington University. There, her late afternoon program included a reception by Rumanian residents of St. Louis and surrounding places, with presentation of bouquets to Marie and Ileana, and the gift of a gold fountain pen to Nicolas.

A late afternoon view from Art Hill will possibly be one of the day's chief attractions for the Queen, who is of artistic disposition. The stop by the statue of St. Louis is to be made five minutes after the departure from the university. The rest of the drive, after leaving Forest Park near Barnes Hospital, will be made by Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard.

A two-hour rest period will follow the Queen's return to the hotel and at 7 p. m. tne royal party is to arrive at Hotel Chase. It is expected that 1000 guests will attend the dinner at the Chase. Carl F. G. Meyer will preside and the city's welcome to the Queen will be extended by Mayor Miller.

Leaving the Chase between 9:30 and 9:45, the royal guests will go to the Coliseum and spend an hour at the horse show, occupying special boxes on the east side of the arena.

Tomorrow morning at 9 the Queen, Princess and Prince, accompanied only by the Executive Committee of the reception body, will go from the Coronado to the special train, at Lindell and Union boulevards, and will leave for Springfield, Ill. The train will leave the city by way of the belt line tracks and the Merchants' Bridge.

SIDESLIPS 2000 FEET WITH PLANE ABLAZE

Pilot and Passenger Land Uninjured at Corning, Ia.—Machine Destroyed.

CORNING, Ia., Nov. 12.—With his engine in flames which threatened to reach a photographer in the front cockpit, Harlan Gurney, pilot for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation of St. Louis, skillfully sideslipped his airplane for almost 2000 feet to a safe landing here yesterday afternoon.

He and A. O. Russell, photographer for the Fairchild Aerial Surveys of New York, with whom he had been mapping the Missouri River, leaped from the ship as it landed and made a futile effort to put out the fire. The plane was a total loss, but was insured.

Gurney and Russell have been working for several weeks on a War Department survey of the Missouri from the Mississippi to Yankton, S. D., a distance of 900 miles. They already have completed 700 miles of the work and they resumed it today with a spare plane kept for them at St. Joseph, Mo.

They left St. Joseph yesterday afternoon to fly to a point about 60 miles south of Omaha, where they were to resume their mapping. Apparently a smoldering blaze caused by a back fire was responsible for the fire which the pilot noticed as it began to smoke from under the hood.

Knowing that it was only a matter of moments until the fire reached the front cockpit and enveloped Russell, Gurney immediately put his plane into a sideslip so that the flames would be blown out to the side of the ship rather than to its fuselage.

He flattened out precariously close to the ground and landed easily in a field. Russell jumped out with his camera and having laid it aside, joined in fighting the fire. It had too much headway, however, and speedily destroyed the plane.

PLAN ANNOUNCED FOR GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

Committee of Engineers Proposes Department of Public Works to Take Over Many Bureaus.

NATIONAL COUNCIL APPROVES PLAN

New Department Would Act as Engineer for Other Departments That Have Public Works.

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A plan to reorganize the administrative structure of the United States Government so as to co-ordinate its vast engineering functions involving the expenditures each year of hundreds of millions of dollars, was announced here at a meeting of the American Engineering Council at Cornell University.

A National Committee of Engineers yesterday submitted the details of the proposal. The committee recommended the establishment of a Department of Public Works and Domain to replace the present Department of the Interior. The committee's report was adopted by the administrative board.

Complete Regrouping.

The plan makes a complete regrouping of Federal public works activities. More than a score of bureaus, boards, departmental agencies and services are incorporated in the new department. Numerous other units are so adjusted that they can be served in their public works aspects by the Department of Public Works and Domain, which in this respect would act as consulting engineer.

Every function and activity of the Government that has been, or might be, considered for allocation to such a department was studied by the committee, it was stated by Dean Dexter S. Kimball of the Cornell College of Engineering, president of the council, which sponsored the inquiry. The report was prepared by a committee of which E. O. Griffenhagen of Chicago, is chairman.

Many Units Included.

The committee recommended that the following units be included in the new department:

Geological Survey, Bureau of Reclamation, the Alaska Railroad, National Park Service, General Land Office, all of which are now in the Department of the Interior; Bureau of Public Roads and Forest Service, now in the Department of Agriculture; the non-military river and harbor work of the office of Chief of Engineers, Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, Mississippi River Commission, California Debris Commission, Supervisor of the Harbor of New York, the Northern and Northwestern Land Survey, Board of Commissioners for Alaska and the Alaska Telegraph and Cable System, all now under the Department of War.

The new department would also take in the office of Supervising Architects, now in the Treasury Department, as well as the Federal Power Commission, the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital, and the American Battle Monuments Commission, which are now independent agencies. The architect of the Capitol, now under Congress, and departmental services for the maintenance and operation of buildings would be units of the department.

Serving Other Departments.

The Departments of Public Works and Domain, under the scheme of the engineers, would serve the other departments of the Government. For example, this department would be in relationship with the Department of War in the administration of National Military Parks, National Monuments and Memorials, the Inland Waterways Corporation, the Bureau of Insular Affairs, the Philippines and Porto Rico, and construction service.

The service relationship would cover a wide range of administrative bodies, including the Panama Canal and Canal Zone and the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation.

The proposed legislation, Dean Kimball said, would be in charge of Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington and Representative Adam M. Wyant of Pennsylvania.

ST. LOUIS HORSES AMONG WINNERS AT THE COLISEUM

$1500 SADDLE STAKE TO NANCY HIGHLAND

Chief Golden McDonald, Bakewell and Walsh Entry, Places Third in 5-Gaited Class.

Bootlegger, owned by August A. Busch Jr., and ridden by Miss Marceline Reyburn, won first in the ladies' hunters class. Nancy Highland, a mare developed by the late Charles Van Studdiford in St. Louis and shown here in previous years, took the $1500 saddle stake offered by the St. Louis Riding Club for the best three-gaited horse. Nancy is now owned by Miss Maud Fawn Banks of Los Angeles.

Chief Golden MacDonald, owned by Bakewell and Walsh of St. Louis, placed third in a strong field of five-gaited saddlers, and Mystic Dawn, bought during the show by George L. L. Davis of St. Louis, placed second in the combination saddle and harness class. Edward L. Bakewell's hunt team took fourth in that contest.

The attendance last night was the largest since the show opened and a capacity audience is expected this evening when Queen Marie will visit the Coliseum at 10 o'clock for a 45-minute stay. The Horse Show Committee has made special preparations for the event. It will cost first balcony patrons $3.30 each to have a look at the Queen, while in the second balcony, seats hitherto free, will sell for $1.10. There will be no free gate tonight.

There was an Armistice day matinee yesterday afternoon, attended largely by children, and the feature of the performance was the showing of five classes of ponies.

EDISON WINS GOLD KEY AS TELEGRAPHER

By Leased Wire From New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Thomas A. Edison turned to telegraphy yesterday and won a gold key.

A Morse operator back in the sixties, the inventor bested in speed and accuracy three officers of the Lackawanna Railroad, all of whom were Morse operators in the seventies.

The contest was held aboard a special train on the way to New Village, N. J., where Edison and his railroad friends were to inspect a cement plant.

It so happened that the contest was scheduled to start at 12 noon.

"Mr. Edison always eats his lunch at 12 noon," said William W. Meadowcroft, his personal representative. "Something must be arranged."

Lunch Not Delayed.

So, rather than delay the contests A. B. Folley, superintendent of all telegraph lines on the Lackawanna, arranged to place a receiving and transmitting set on Edison's table in the diner. Folley and the two other officials sat in the next car grouped around another set of instruments. Then the contest began.

"Is Thomas Edison on the train?" said Edward M. Rine, senior vice president of the Lackawanna, as fast as his fingers could work.

The receiving instrument at Edison's side began to patter. When it stopped, Edison interrupted his luncheon and began to send the answer as fast as his fingers could work.

"He is on the train; sure," clicked the message in the other car.

Rine listened carefully.

"I didn't get it," he said, ruefully.

"Neither did I," confessed Folley.

Two Contestants Bested.

"You're both disqualified," said P. J. Flynn, the third officer, who is vice president and traffic manager of the Lackawanna.

Flynn took the key.

"What do you think of Queen Marie?" he clicked off, rather laboriously.

"I don't very often," came the answer, even faster than before.

This time Folley got it, but Rine and Flynn did not.

So Edison, who will be 80 in February, won the contest and a gold telegraph key was presented to him.

Irony giggles as it is recorded that Folley, who is in charge of all the telegraph lines on the Lackawanna, was rated fourth.

HUMANE SOCIETY CRITICISES FIERY ARCH AT HORSE SHOW

Many Complaints From Spectators Reported; Secretary Recounts Activities for 10 Months.

Criticism of the manner in which Cavalry horses are forced to jump through flaming hoops at the St. Louis Horse Show at Jefferson Barracks was voiced at a meeting of the Humane Society of Missouri at Hotel Statler yesterday, as well as commendation for officials of the St. Louis Zoo in refraining from feeding their pythons live pigeons.

Robert F. Sellar, executive secretary, read a report detailing the work of the society in St. Louis for the first 10 months of this year. He declared that 144 horses had been beaten; 264 had been treated for lameness; 10 had been extracted from manholes, and that the society had discovered 41 cases in which horses were pulling a load beyond their strength. He said that 3645 dogs and 4000 cats had been destroyed when found homeless or ill.

"My telephone has been ringing all day," he said, "with people complaining that the fetlocks of a horse at the Horse Show caught on fire when the horse was forced to jump through a flaming hoop. They said that the horse had been severely burned. Although horses are seldom hurt in this stunt, the practice is barbarous."

Sellar commended Zoo officials for complying with public opinion in ceasing to feed the Zoo snakes live pigeons.

QUEEN'S FRIEND DENIES REPORTS OF FRICTION

Loie Fuller Says All's Serene on Royal Train — Miss Birkhead Corroborates.

An elderly, but animated woman, garbed in a grotesque Oriental negligee, and blue burnoose which covered her head, Arab-like, sat in her stateroom in a private car at Union Station yesterday afternoon and discussed dancing, the fine arts and Queen Marie of Rumania.

A generation or more ago, when Lillian Russell was the theatrical toast of the country, the lady of the private car was also a glittering figure in the eyes of the followers of the stage. She was Loie Fuller one time dancer, but long since gone into retirement in Paris where she conducts a stage lighting laboratory.

Today, and for a week or more past, Miss Fuller has returned before the public eye as a member of the party of Queen Marie of Rumania, whom she won as a friend by her Red Cross work during the late war. The notice to which she returned, was augmented somewhat this week by the fact that she and Miss May Birkhead, a Missouri girl who is secretary of the Maryhill Museum of Fine Arts precipitately left the royal party after a reported tiff with Col. John H. Carroll, the Queen's official host.

"Talk of Friction Trumped Up."

But if there had been unpleasantness of any sort in the party it was not observable on the surface of things, Miss Fuller declared volubly, almost garrulously. As for herself having a disagreement with Marie—"The Queen is my friend," she said rapidly, as Gabrielle Bloch, her French traveling companion, nodded and fluttered her hands. "We parted as we met, in friendship. All this talk of friction in the royal party is trumped up, I believe. I don't know who could be served by the circulation of reports of friction, but someone seems to be following a systematic course in fabricating the stories."

Miss Fuller took a seat on a low stool at the foot of the bed and motioned the reporter to sit down beside her. A small dog shrieked shrilly as it got underfoot but the once famous dancer only smiled as Miss Bloch picked up the little animal and spoke rapidly to it in French.

"You see, it is this way," Miss Fuller began, patting her bright kasha tunic into place and pulling off her tortoise-shell glasses. "I must get back to New York. I have 21 children there—young women some of them are—ready for a theatrical production.

Defends the Queen.

"I had intended to stay with the royal party only until the dedication of the museum at Maryhill, Wash., but I was persuaded to continue on the train for a few days. Finally it came to a point where I just had to leave to get back to New York. I shall be there tomorrow night."

Smilingly brightly she launched into a discussion of the old days—"long before your time," she said to her interviewer. She talked of her skirt dance with its billowing waves of crepe thrown into brilliant swirls by beams of light. She talked, too, of the new art, with outlines obtained only by the suggestion of line, of her 18 adopted girls, now grown to young women. And of the Queen.

"How can they talk so of her?" she added. "How can they say she has quarreled or that there has been a quarrel in her party? A Queen can not reply to every little rumor that springs up. She can show her feelings only through her actions. They demonstrate, I think, that we are still friends."

And so she skipped rapidly from subject to subject, a woman who has taken age philosophically, who, losing the nimbleness of youth from her physical self, has yet remained young in mind and heart.

Miss Birkhead Visits Relatives.

Meanwhile, Miss Birkhead had left the train with Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rule of 5666 Cabanne avenue, her cousins. The party spent the evening at the home of her uncle, Virgil Rule, attorney, at 5250 Westminster place, where another uncle, A. O. Rule, of the City Club, also joined the party.

If Miss Birkhead suffered a nervous collapse upon her departure from the Queen's party, as reported in press dispatches, she has recovered rapidly. She received reporters courteously, and made animated denial of friction in the party.

"It's all so very foolish," she said. "I have to be back in Paris by the first of December. I am sailing from New York as soon as I can book passage. It was simply that circumstances of business forced me to leave the Queen's train at the same time Miss Fuller left. But there was no unpleasantness."

The private car in which she and Miss Fuller traveled came in attached to a Burlington train at 3:30 p. m., and at 9:30 p. m. was pulled out behind a Baltimore & Ohio train for New York.

TESTIFIES TO LAKE CHANGES DUE TO DRAINAGE CANAL

Federal Expert Says Records Show Lake Superior Is 1.67 Feet Lower Than in 1860.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Federal Government observations disclosing a fall of 1.67 feet in the level of Lake Superior between 1860 and 1925, were in the Supreme Court record of the Great Lakes Diversion litigation today.

Complainant counsel in the action seeking to curb the Chicago sanitary district's diversion of Lake Michigan waters for sewage disposal called Lieutenant-Colonel George P. Pillsbury, in charge of the United States Lake Survey Office at Detroit, for further examination.

Pillsbury submitted records bearing on changes in the 4345 miles of American shore line on the great lakes system and upon the relative changes in water levels before and after the opening of the Chicago drainage canal in 1900.

Passenger in Mail Plane Killed.

By the Associated Press.

VAN NUYS, Cal., Nov. 12.—Donald Rossiter, 21 years old, of Los Angeles, a passenger, was killed when a northbound air mail plane of the Pacific Air Transport Co. fell from an altitude of 3800 feet into Whitley Canyon, three miles south of here, early today. The pilot, Charles E. Widmer, also of Los Angeles, jumped to safety with the aid of his parachute.

Two Radio Stations Merged.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—A permanent hook-up of radio stations WEBH of the Chicago Herald and Examiner and Station WJJD of the Order of Moose, at Mooseheart, Ill., was announced by the newspaper today. The two stations have been sharing a 370-meter wave length on an hourly basis, and the merger of their broadcasting will permit a more flexible program and interchange of features.

SAFEBLOWERS GET $7000 IN BANK

Dig Way Through Brick Wall Into Vault of Ash Grove, Mo., Depository.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 12.—After digging their way through a brick wall into the vault, thieves blew open the large safe in the bank of Ash Grove, Mo., 20 miles northwest of this city, about 4 o'clock this morning, and escaped unnoticed with approvimately $7000 in cash.

The thieves broke a rear window to gain entrance to the bank building. The robbery was discovered at 7:30 o'clock this morning when Cashier J. H. Perryman arrived to open the bank. An accurate check of the loss will be made as soon as Sheriff Alfred Owen of this city takes impressions of fingerprints and footprints found in the vault. O. W. Perryman is president of the bank.

INDICTMENTS DISMISSED AGAINST SIX IN MORSE TRIAL

Three Sons of Shipping Magnate Among Those Charged With Stock Frauds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Charges against six of the 16 defendants in the Morse stock fraud trial were dismissed in court today. Three sons of Charles W. Morse remain among the defendants.

Today's action leaves as defendants the three sons of Morse, Harry F., Erwin A. and Benjamin W. Morse, George W. Burdett, Rupert M. Much, Mark L. Gilbert, George E. Wells, Milton Quinn, also known Quimby; Henry E. Boughton and William H. Dennis.

The motion to dismiss was granted on the basis of a previous ruling by Judge Thatcher excluding testimony on the sale of stock of the United States Shipping Corporation, a Morse subsidiary, as not having been covered by the indictment.

The action was brought by the Government on a charge of conspiracy to defraud investors in the Morse shipping enterprises by sending false financial statements through the mails.

20,000 INDUSTRIES READY TO TURN TO WAR PRODUCTION

Could Be Transformed in Four Months Whereas Last Time it Took Fourteen.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The United States is far better prepared for war than most people imagine because since 1918 more than 20,000 industries have been made ready to convert their plants into war-time production units, it was disclosed at a meeting of the United States War Industries Board last night.

"If this nation were again called to war," said Col. H. E. Ferguson of the War Deparktment, "the industries would be put on a wartime basis within four months. The last time it took 14 months. We learned our lesson then, and since 1918 we have devoted our efforts to preparing."

E. R. Weidlein, head of the Mellon Institute in Pittsburg, said that American chemical research now was on a plane with Germany's.

DOCTORS DOUBT VACCINATION WAS FACTOR IN BOY'S DEATH

Inquest in Case of Russell Skyles, 6, Put Off Till Next Wednesday.

An inquest to determine if Russell Skyles, 6 years old, died of tetanus following vaccination at Webster School, was continued today to next Wednesday for a bacteriological report, after several physicians testified they believed the disease was "sleeping sickness" following a respiratory illness and not connected with the vaccination.

The boy died Monday at Westminster Hospital, 8520 Hall's Ferry road. Funeral services were held yesterday from the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Aplin of Keyes Summit. He was the son of Alva Skyles of 1705A North Thirteenth street.

Dr. William A. Knight testified that he diagnosed the case as tetanus, with a pneumonia condition complicating it and causing death, but that he had not stated that the tetanus was caused in the process of vaccination. Dr. James S. McFadden, said that when he examined the boy Nov. 6 the jaws were not locked, and there was drowsiness and other indications of sleeping sickness. He stipulated, however, that all evidence was inconclusive until completion of the bacteriological examination being made for the Coroner by Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl.

INTIMATE SKETCH ACTORS IN HALL-M AS THEIR FRIENDS

Mrs. Hall, a Poor, Little Stevens, a Boy Who Ne Henry Stevens, an Ou

By DOROTHY DIX.

(Copyright, 1926.)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 12.—For more than a week we have sat in the little courtroom at Somerville and watched the drama of the Hall-Mills trial unfold, as one would watch a picture in a cinema.

Hour after hour, as scene followed scene with lightning rapidity we have been told the tale of a clergyman who forgot his vows to God and man, and of a weak and frail woman, and of how they were slain together at their secret rendezvous. Now, while the tale goes on to its unknown ending, let us get a close-up of the three characters most involved in the tragedy.

First, Mrs. Hall.

A woman who knows Mrs. Hall well said to me: "Why, she was the last woman in New Jersey to quit wearing a flannel petticoat." I don't know what that will mean to men as a certificate of character, but to women it is a proof of conventionality, of adherence to tradition, of impeccable respectability, strong enough to draw money on at the bank. For every woman knows that it is the ladies who wear georgette undies who do strange, temperamental things—not the women who pin their faith to good red flannel.

As Mrs. Hall sits silent, still self-contained in the courtroom, her white, tired face like a tragic mask, I think of the story of her life, and try to picture her horror at having to listen to the things she is accused of doing. It must seem to her like the final climax to an existence that has been drab within, however much it has been gilded without.

Puritanical Rearing.

Mrs. Hall's father died when she was 2 years old and she was reared by her mother, who was austere, hard and puritanic, and bitterly opposed to all change and new thought. She was a good woman, just and honorable to the last degree, but cold and hard—one of the women who think it a weakness to show tenderness to their children.

In this atmosphere of repression the little Frances grew up, schooled to Spartan self-control, taught to repress every inclination.

Such girls are not what we call popular. They never have many friends. They have few beaux. And so Frances Stevens' life lacked many of the pleasures that poorer young girls enjoy. She was literally a poor little rich girl, very lonely, with little companionship except that of her austere mother.

As with so many women of her kind, she found in religion a vent for her pent-up energies and emotions and she became a devoted church worker. Then came the new rector, the Rev. Edward Hall, handsome, young, magnetic. She was 38, he was 30. There was about him the glamour of his holy calling, for the cassock attracts women as much as does the uniform of the soldier, and it was not long before the self-seeking young clergyman found that he might marry his rich parishioner if he would.

Her One Love.

Perhaps it was always a marriage of ambition with him, but with her it was the volcano breaking through the ice, a woman who was cold and reserved giving her whole heart, the love of a whole life time, to one man. And be it said for Dr. Hall, that he made a good husband in the technical sense. He was pleasant, amiable and agreeable at home, kind and affectionate to his wife, and he made her happy. So that it was literally true when she said that her love for him was the one beautiful thing in her life.

She had few intimates and confidantes. She was not the kind of woman to whom one would easily go and gossip about her husband. She believed in him with all her heart, and her friends say it is literally true she had no suspicion that he was untrue to her until that dreadful day when with the news of his murder they also brought the news that he had betrayed her.

So self-controlled is she, so impossible does she find it to express her emotion, that even those who are nearest and dearest to her do not know whether she is eating her heart out in grief for her dead husband, or whether she has rolled the stone upon the grave of her dead faith.

Willie, Who Never Grew Up.

On one side of Mrs. Hall sits her brother Willie, who has never grown up. He is just a boy of 10 or 11 in mentality, although he is a gray-haired man. He is interested in the things that a boy is interested in, and he likes to play with little children.

Those who know him will say he has the kindest heart in the world, never harmed a thing in his life and has a passion for truth. Nothing can induce him to tell even the slightest lie.

For this unfortunate brother, Mrs. Hall and Henry Stevens have had the greatest tenderness, and they have watched over him so carefully and dealt with him so patiently, that not until the murder of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills dragged the family into the spotlight, had Willie ever known that he was as other men are. INTIMATE SKETCH OF CHIEF ACTORS IN HALL-MILLS TRIAL AS THEIR FRIENDS SEE THEM

Mrs. Hall, a Poor, Little Rich Girl; Willie Stevens, a Boy Who Never Grew Up; Henry Stevens, an Outdoor Man.

And it has hurt and wounded him beyond measure to have had the knowledge forced upon him of his affliction.

Henry Stevens, the other brother, is an outdoor man, a sportsman, a fisherman. In all of his life he has hardly spent a single day in the house and so the confinement in the jail chafes him terribly and especially now, when guns are beginning to crack and iridescent pheasants whiz up through the stubble.

In Le Vallette where he has a house on Barnegat Bay, so close to the water that he can almost fish out of the window, he is adored by his neighbors. In fact, a Sunday or two after he was lodged in the jail in Somerville, the whole population of La Valette, men, women and children, piled into their automobiles, in spite of rain, and splashed through the mud all the way up to tell him that they stood by him through thick and thin.

Henry Stevens is particularly fond of children, and they follow him in a queue through the streets of the little town. They sit around him on the bulkhead as he fishes, they write him letters to the jail and one little fellow to whom he had given a little turtle, lugged it in a jar of water all the way from La Vallette to Somerville to show it to him, and another cried because he hadn't brought his kitten along for Mr. Stevens to see, too.

And when that happened, was only time that Henry Stevens has broken down since his arrest.

And these are the three people the State accuses of having committed an atrocious murder.

WEBB OF UNITED HOME BUILDERS GOES TO PRISON

Former Preacher, 62, Who Organized Housing Trust Hopes He Can Have Bible in Cell.

TO SERVE 5 YEARS FOR HAWKINS CRASH

Surrenders at Leavenworth, but Papers Haven't Arrived, So He Must Wait to Get In.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 12.—A distinguished looking man with silvery hair strode slowly up the long approach to the Federal penitentiary here yesterday and called to the guard in the tower that he wanted a pass to enter the prison.

It was Armistice Day and the guard called down that visitors could not enter.

"I want to see the warden on official business," the visitor explained. The guard wrote a pass and let it down to him on a rope.

The visitor entered the institution, but came out a few minutes later. As he emerged he was recognized by the Post-Dispatch correspondent as William M. Webb, 62 years old, formerly head of the United Home Builders, a St. Louis housing trust that failed, and prior to that a Baptist minister in Texas for 30 years.

Must Wait to Get in Prison.

He had gone to the prison unaccompanied to begin a five-year sentence for using the mails to defraud, but his commitment papers had not arrived, so he was not received. He was told to return in a few days.

Tears ran down his cheeks as he left prison to go downtown to a hotel. He remarked that he hoped the Warden would allow him to take his Bible with him when he re-entered the prison.

Webb founded the United Home Builders concern in Texas and later moved the headquarters to St. Louis and purchased the Holland Building, on Seventh, between Olive and Pine streets, for offices.

In 1923 he sold his interest in the concern to the Hawkins Mortgage Co., of Portland, Ind., which failed and carried the Home Builders down with it. A Federal investigation resulted, involving Webb, because he joined the Hawkins forces on a salary after disposing of his interest in the Home Builders, and he and nearly all the Hawkins company officers were sentenced to the penitentiary.

The Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the convictions and the Supreme Court last week refused to hear a petition for an appeal, thus disposing of the last hope for a new trial.

Hawkins Already in Prison.

Morton S. Hawkins, president of the defunct Hawkins concern, a high pressure promoter who held out by falsified audits that his company had assets of $9,000,000, is already in prison here, serving 15 years. Carl B. Anderson, his erstwhile vice president, is also behind the walls with a sentence of a year and a day.

They saw Webb yesterday and called a friendly but sad greeting to him.

In a few days the others who were convicted of having part in the fraud that robbed thousands of working people throughout the country of their savings, will call at the prison as Webb did yesterday.

The Hawkins Co. operates a chain of chattel loan offices in a score of cities for making small loans to working people. They sold stock in this corporation that was worthless and it was in the stock sales that the concern swindled investors of more than $5,000,000.

BILL TO PERMIT RAILROADS TO USE MUNICIPAL BRIDGE

Measure To Be Presented by Alderman Riefling Fixes Charges on Equal Basis for All Lines.

A measure designed to permit use of the Municipal Bridge by all railroads on an equal basis will be introduced in the Board of Aldermen this afternoon by Alderman H. P. Riefling of the Fifteenth Ward. Control of the bridge would rest with a bridge commission of seven persons—the Mayor, the Comptroller, the President of the Board of Aldermen, and four persons to be elected by direct vote of the people.

The proposed ordinance would repeal the present bridge ordinance and all conflicting ordinances. Charges to be paid by each railroad using the bridge would be as follows: $1 for each loaded freight train car; 50 cents for each empty freight train car; $1.50 for each passenger train car, and $2 for each locomotive, with or without tender.

Alderman Riefling says he is opposed to "secret negotiations now going on between the city administration and the Terminal Railroad" concerning use of the bridge by railroads, and is opposed to any plan which might give control of the bridge to the Terminal.

AGENT SOUGHT FOR FRAUD

Warrant Issued for Man Recently Freed of Embezzlement Charge.

William R. Bodine, 549 North Thirty-third street, East St. Louis, an insurance agent, was sought today on a warrant charging him with obtaining money by fraud and operating a confidence game.

He recently was freed by Justice of the Peace Brady of a charge of embezzling $4000 from Mrs. Mary E. Kettler, 65 years old, a widow, living at 1523 Gross avenue, East St. Louis. Justice Brady said that the charge of embezzlement was not substantiated by the evidence. Mrs. Kettler alleges she gave him the proceeds of two life insurance policies to invest, but that he has failed to make an accounting for two years.

APPEAL SAVES SEVEN OFFICIALS FROM JAIL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MACON, Mo., Nov. 12.—Palmyra's Mayor and six City Councilmen, who have been on the verge of entering the Macon County jail for several days for their failure to comply with Circuit Judge Vernon Drain's order in a damage suit, today again evaded imprisonment by taking a direct appeal to the State Supreme Court. They were given until Nov. 29 to furnish $20,000 bond.

Judge Drain yesterday ordered Sheriff M. S. Meisner to take the officials into custody for contempt of court in the suit of Julia Tipton Heather, wife of former State Senator H. Clay Heather of Marion County. Mrs. Heather was given judgment for $7000 against Palmyra more than three years ago, but the city officials have evaded payment of the claim despite frequent court orders. Today, instead of the defendants appearing, Charles M. Hay, St. Louis lawyer, represented them and presented their case.

Defendants All Business Men.

Besides Mayor Frank G. Bernhardt, the following Aldermen were included in the court order: H. G Frankenbach, E. G. Nill, F. C. Heinze, E. G. Schnitzer, J. W. Metcalf and August Berghofer. All are Palmyra business men.

When the matter was before the court Monday, Judge Drain gave the Palmyra officials until 10 o'clock this morning to make a satisfactory settlement of the judgment.

In September the city made a report to the court showing that the city had levied and collected $654.80 toward the settlement of the judgment, but that the city collector, Mrs. Anna Dingle Metcalf, had refused to turn over the collections to the City Treasurer without first deducting 2.81 per cent as her commission for collecting the money. At the hearing Monday the court ordered that the collector's commission be allowed and that the balance of the money be applied to the judgment.

Judge Orders Arrests.

When the case was called yesterday the attorney for the city officials told Judge Drain that it was impossible to comply with his order, and the court stated that unless the warrant for the money was ordered drawn by the city council by the afternoon session, he would direct the Sheriff to arrest the seven men. At the opening of the afternoon session the lawyer stated that owing to an Armistice Day celebration at Palmyra it had been impossible to get in touch with the Mayor and aldermen. Thereupon Judge Drain ordered Sheriff Meisner to go to Palmyra and take the men into custody. He declared that he had been more than lenient but that the "integrity of the court must be upheld."

Case Through Several Courts.

Mrs. Heather obtained judgment against the City of Palmyra for injuries suffered in a fall on a sidewalk in February, 1922. The case was filed in the Marion County Circuit Court at Palmyra and taken to the Macon County Circuit Court where she was awarded judgment. The judgment of the trial court was affirmed in the Kansas City Court of Appeals, after which the defendant declined to satisfy the judgment. A mandate was issued by Judge Drain ordering the city officials to levy certain taxes to satisfy the judgment. From this order the city appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court. That court upheld Judge Drain's order.

G. O. P. Gave Faust $750.

JEFFERSON CITY, No. 12.—Campaign contributions from the National Republican Congressional Committee totaling $750 were reported by Charles L. Faust (Rep.) of St. Joseph, re-elected as Representative from the Fourth Congressional District, in an expense account filed today with Secretary of State Becker. Faust received one other contribution of $25, making a total of $775 and reported expenditures totaling $985. L. N. Searcy (Dem.) of Birch Tree, elected as State Senator from the Twenty-second senatorial district, filed an account showing expenditure of $453 in his campaign, chiefly for newspaper advertising.

CANTONESE REGIME ORDERS DRASTIC CHANGES IN SCHOOLS

Boards of Private Institutions Are to Be Composed Entirely of Chinese.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, Nov. 12. — Drastic changes in the management and operation of missionary and other foreign schools are contemplated in an order issued by the Nationalist, or Cantonese Government.

The order directs that a board of trustees shall be responsible for the maintenance of any private school and that the board shall be composed entirely of Chinese, except that in special cases foreigners may act as advisers. Foreigners may not be principals or presidents of private schools, but under certain conditions a foreigner may act as adviser. Teachers shall be engaged and dismissed by the principal.

Pupils cannot be required to study religious subjects, says the order, nor will religious propaganda be allowed during a lesson in a required subject. Religious propaganda, however, in an elective subject or aside from the curriculum is not objectionable to the Government. Private schools must not compel students to attend or participate in religious services.

Two Cuckoo gangsters were arrested by East St. Louis police early today in the home of a member of the "East Side Mob." The raid was made on the home of Clifford Crouch at 210 North Sixth street.

DRINKS 62 CUPS OF COFFEE IN 12 HOURS, THEN BANQUETS

Minnesota Champion Has Hard Time Going to Sleep, but Finally Dozes Off.

By the Associated Press.

FERGUS FALLS, Minn., Nov. 12.—Gust Comstock, world's champion coffee drinker, had a hard time going to sleep after sipping 62 cups of coffee in 12 hours yesterday. He tossed about for some time last night, but eventually overcame his insomnia. Ordinarily he sleeps well though he averages 20 cups of coffee a day.

His performance yesterday, marked by the tripling of records set by 11 contestants, resulted in the breaking of his own record of 56 cups, established at Hibbing two years ago. In recognition of his feat he was presented with a belt studded with 62 coffee beans."

In the Armistice day parade he rode in an automobile set aside for him. In the evening he was an honor guest at an American Legion banquet. The champion is a barber shop porter.

PART OF $220,000 IN COUNTERFEITS SHOWS UP; 6 HELD

Police Arrest Man Who Cashed Bad $20 Bill — Friends Call for Him and They Are Locked Up.

Six persons are under arrest here in an investigation of the circulation of counterfeit $20 Federal Reserve Bank notes among St. Louis storekeepers. The notes are part of "$220,000 worth," printed from plates which were abandoned in St. Louis County in October, 1925.

Harry F. O'Brien, 32 years old, of 1914 South Twelfth street, who came here a month ago from Pittsburg, Pa., was arrested yesterday after Philip Yakin, proprietor of a cigar store at 1845 South Twelfth street, had turned over to police a counterfeit bill, for which O'Brien earlier in the day had received $19 and $1 worth of cigars.

Questioned at the Soulard Street Police Station, O'Brien said he had been drinking and gambling with two men he knew as "McClelland" and "Dwyer," and had won $85, including the $20 note, from McClelland. Later McClelland and Dwyer, both intoxicated, appeared at the station to inquire about O'Brien, and were arrested.

Didn't Wait for Change.

Others arrested were O'Brien's wife, Mary; John Majatich, 28, proprietor of a pool room at 2106 South Twelfth street, who lives at the same address as O'Brien, and had introduced O'Brien to Yakin as his brother-in-law; and Nicholas Werling, partner of Majatich. All disclaimed knowledge of counterfeiting.

Among other stores where the counterfeit $20 bills were presented was the pharmacy of Jesse G. Luse, 7600 South Broadway. A clerk there gave a man $1 worth of drugs and took a $20 bill from him. He was delayed in making change, and the man, evidently suspicious, left the store without waiting for change.

Plates Found on Bridge.

In October, 1925, a pedestrian found five zinc plates for such bills on the Gravois avenue bridge over the River des Peres. Last May the counterfeits began to appear in Indianapolis. Federal agents then arrested five men at Universal City, Ind., and seized nearly $220,000 in counterfeits. The men pleaded guilty last June and are in prison.

More of the counterfeits appeared in St. Louis last month, resulting in the arrest of Mrs. Anna Petrini, 32, a saloonkeeper at 110 North Theresa avenue, and O. G. Fielder, a Negro, of 3403 Lawton avenue. They are under bond.

The bills are crude imitations bearing a picture of President Cleveland, purporting to have been issued in 1914.

TWO MEN FINED $500 EACH FOR TRYIIG TO LURE WOMAN

Called at Home, Telling Her Husband Was Injured and They Would Take Her to Him.

Fines of $500 were imposed today by Police Judge Rosecan upon William A. Keane, 31 years old, an electrician of Mehlville, Mo., and Arthur Meine, 26, milk wagon driver of St. Louis, on charges of disturbing the peace of Mrs. Lillian Schillinger of 8402 Alabama avenue, who said the men attempted to lure her from home. In imposing the fines, Judge Rosecan declared he would continue to deal harshly with men who annoy or attempt to harm women.

Mrs. Schillinger testified Keane and Meine awakened her at her home Tuesday night and told her they had come to take her in their automobile to her husband, who had been injured in an automobile accident in St. Louis County.

She telephoned the factory where her husband is employed at night and found that he had not been injured. Then she called the police and Keane and Meine were arrested. Keane testified Meine concocted the scheme to get Mrs. Schillinger away from home, and Meine blamed Keane. An additional fine of $300 was imposed upon Meine for having obscene pictures in his possession.

HENRY HUDSON, 91, OLDEST MISSOURI MASON, DIES

Former Senior Deacon Was Initiated Into St. Louis Lodge No. 1 in June, 1857.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., Nov. 12.—Henry Hudson, 61 years old, died at his home here last night. He was known as the grand old man of the Benton Masonic Lodge. He was initiated in Missouri Lodge No. 1 at St. Louis, in June, 1857, and received succeeding degrees the following winter. This made him the oldest Mason in Benton Lodge and one of the oldest in the country.

When Mr. Hudson was guest of honor at Missouri Lodge No. 1 on the occasion of the sixtieth anniversary of his initiation it was said that not a single person could be found in St. Louis who was a Mason when he was initiated.

He was a senior deacon of Missouri Lodge in 1859 and senior warden the following year. His moving away the next year prevented him succeeding to the position of worshipful master.

He moved to Chicago in 1861 and came to Franklin County in 1864. In the early seventies he became affiliated with Benton Lodge No. 64.

In December, 1897, he was elected secretary and served in that capacity 23 years. During his residence in St. Louis Hudson was associated with his father in the manufacturing of perfumes and hair goods. When he was 18 he assumed chrage of his father's business, the elder Hudson returning to his former home in England. This business was carried on until the outbreak of the war when it was removed to Chicago. On Jan. 5, 1858, while Hudson was located in St. Louis he was married to Miss Mary Virginia Donnel of Davenport, Ia. She passed away two years ago, when Hudson came to Benton to become an abstractor, following that work until his retirement from business a few years ago. He was born in Hemmel Hempstead, Hertfordshire, England, Jan. 22, 1835.

GROCER WOUNDED BY COMPANION OF MAN HE HAD FED

Sam Yaffe, 37, Shot by Negro After White Man Had Been Given Bread on Plea He Was Hungry.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION MAY SAVE HIS LIFE

Robber, After Shooting Victim, Loots Cash Register of $35 and Flees With Pseudo Beggar.

After feeding a white man, who begged for something to eat in his grocery at 1217 Whittier street Sam Yaffe, 37 years old, was shot and dangerously wounded by the beggar's Negro companion, who stood over him while the white man looted the cash register.

Yaffe was alone in the store at 6:30 p. m. yesterday when the white man, shabbily dressed and unshaven, shuffled up to the counter and in a whining voice announced he was hungry and broke. Yaffe gave him a loaf of bread and the man lounged over to the stove gnawing at it.

Negro Shoots Down Grocer.

A moment later, the Negro, more neatly dressed, entered with a revolver in his hand. Yaffe said the Negro did not speak, but pointed the revolver at him and fired.

The storekeeper fell to the floor, and the beggar dropped his loaf "Gee, you shot him!" the white man exclaimed.

"You shut up," replied the Negro, "and get the money."

Empties Cash Register.

While the Negro guarded Yaffe, the white man emptied the cash register, taking about $35. Then they fled together, and presently the storekeeper found strength enough to walk outside in search of help.

At City Hospital, physicians found that the bullet had entered his left groin and emerged at the back. He was able to tell detectives what had happened, but was unconscious this morning. Physicians planned a blood transfusion today in an attempt to save his life. Yaffee lives at 1015 Clarendon avenue, with his wife and four children.

SHAW DIDN'T WRITE A LINE IN YEAR HE WON NOBEL PRIZE

What He Does With the Money Is None of the Public's Business, He Says.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 12.—George Bernard Shaw, when told the Nobel prize for literature for 1925 had been awarded him, expressed surprise, then remarked: "I suppose this is because I did no work at all in 1925. I did not write a line."

It is believed the award was based largely on Shaw's play, "Saint Joan," which was published in 1924.

Asked what he would do with the money, Shaw said: "What I do with the rest of my money—which is none of the public's business."

Shaw has injected himself into what is regarded as a most significant bye-election, that at Hull, where Commander Kenworthy, who recently bolted the Liberal party to join the Laborites, is campaigning for re-election.

Shaw wrote to Kenworthy:

"Yours was an inevitable step for so active and important a representative because in the last election the Liberal ship sank under your feet and you are bound to get aboard something that will float instead of trying uselesly to walk on the waters. Your Liberal friends could hardly expect you to swim to the Conservative fleet when the Labor one was within your reach. Now that the Irish party is gone, the House of Commons is at two-party house and all sensible Liberals must recognize that they must be represented by the Labor party or not at all. You will be victor on your personal merits and the hope that Kenworthy-for-Hull will continue as a national institution."

THREATENS A DICTATORSHIP

Alternative to Co-Operation of Congress, Cuban President Says.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Nov. 12.—President Machado exploded a politica bombshell among the members of his party in his Armistice day address before a Liberal party gathering in Havana.

Declaring that if the co-operation of Congress were not forthcoming, the ideals of those who died for Cuban freedom might be lost, he intimated that he was ready to carry on the task by dictatorship if necessary. "I know that many among those who hear me," the President said, "will think this statement unconstitutional, and I know that some will reach the conclusion that I am a masked partisan of dictatorship. But if dictatorship is necessary to keep alive the memory of those heroes who fell on the battlefield, I, with those among you who are willing to follow me, will be enough to attain that end."

STOLEN AUTO RECOVERED; THIEF ALREADY IN PRISON

Car Was Taken in August by Man Convicted of Another Robbery in September.

An automobile belonging to Ralph Bohne, American Hotel, stolen from in front of 419 South Twelfth street Aug. 16 last, was recovered by Detectives Lesyna and Whitmore yesterday in possession of a man living on Ann avenue, who explained he was an innocent purchaser of the car.

The man, taken to headquarters, identified the photograph of Julius Grunder, known also as Meyers, as the man who sold him the car three months ago. He said he had paid Grunder $50 as first payment on the machine and was to pay more, but Grunder never showed up after that to collect.

Investigating Grunder's record the detectives learned why he had not collected. He is now in the Chester (Ill.) Penitentiary serving a sentence of from one to 14 years on a plea of guilty to a highway robbery charge brought in East St. Louis. In Septhember he had been arrested in East St. Louis in an automobile stolen in St. Louis and had been brought to this side for questioning, where he was identified in connection with an East St. Louis holdup and shooting. The East St. Louis charge being more serious than the auto theft, he was turned back to the East Side officers and sent to court.

The man in whose possession the detectives recovered the car was not held.

The dismissal was entered on the district court records at Livingston this week. As dismissed, the case canot be renewed by Gottlob.

YOUTH FACES ELECTRIC CHAIR

Convicted of Killing Grandmother to Get Money to Marry.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 12.—Robert Lee Bennett, 20 years old, charged with killing his grandmother last July to obtain money so that he might marry, faces the electric chair. The jury at his trial last night returned a sentence of death after deliberating an hour.

Throughout the trial and during the time the jury was out he was consoled by Miss Evelyn Cook, his fiancee. The girl says she intends to marry Bennett, even though he is under sentence of death.

COURTESY AND SERVICE—OUR MOTTO

TWO GROUPS WILL SEEK TO REFORM MISSOURI LAWS

One Will Try to Simplify Criminal Procedure and Other to Reduce Number of Departments.

FINDINGS RESULT OF LONG SURVEYS

Some Recommendations Will Be Omitted From Draft of Measures to Avoid Controversies.

Two series of measures to reform legal and administrative processes of government will be presented for consideration of the session of the Legislature, which begins in January, by two well organized public groups.

The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice will offer a sheaf of bills to simplify and strengthen the State's system of preventing crime, apprehending and convicting criminals and safeguarding the innocent. This organization was created at the suggestion of the State Bar Association and has received strong backing throughout Missouri.

The Association for Economy in Public Expenditures will present proposals to reduce the number of bureaus and departments in State government, reorganize their functions and introduce a general budget system. This group is an outgrowth of the Associated Industries of Missouri, strength of which was shown in the recent election by adoption of its workmen's compensation law and defeat of one it opposed.

Careful Investigations.

A lengthy survey of conditions, with study of thousands of cases, was made by the Criminal Justice Association as the foundation of its work. Experts conducted the investigations under direction of leading lawyers and business men. A similar inquiry was made into conditions of the administration of government in Missouri, compared with other States, by representatives of the Public Expenditures Association, supervised by leading business men.

Essentially, the measures of both groups are nonpolitical in nature, though politics might be inserted into the effect to make them laws by officeholders whose powers might be trimmed or incumbency ended. A consolidation scheme fostered by former Gov. Hyde in 1921 was wrecked when the Democrats submitted the proposals to a referendum the next year, and the voters vetoed them. Ineffectual attempts have been made in the past to have the Legislature reform criminal procedure; those supporting the movements did not have the organized support and public interest now given, and their plans were not comprehensive.

Proceeding Cautiously.

Details of the proposals of the Public Expenditures Association have not been made public. Recommendations of the Criminal Justice Association, which are numerous, covering all the agencies involved in law enforcement, have been discussed at length in the press.

It is not expected that all of the criminal justice recommendations will be presented as bills at this session of the Legislature. To begin with, there would be too many to receive proper consideration. Again, directors of the movement do not think the time is ripe for others. Finally, some of the subjects are of controversial nature, and the association does not care to endanger its whole project by creating opposition over a bill or two.

State Police Proposal.

For instance, there is the recommendation for State police made because of the inability of rural Sheriffs to cope with modern conditions brought about by good roads and other factors. Finances and restrictions of law tend to tie the hands of Sherifs. However, it does not appear that a widespread public sentiment has been stirred up for State police, but labor groups have indicated opposition, fearing the police might be held as a club over their heads.

Similarly, it has not been determined whether the matter of home rule for the metropolitan police of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph will be submitted at this trip.

The Survey Committee of the Criminal Justice Association met here Wednesday for preliminary consideration of what recommendations are to be drafted as bills, but more meetings will be held before action is taken.

Many Berliners Get Divorces.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—Berliners are rushing to the divorce courts with nearly twice the frequency they sought those tribunals before the war. At the same time the number of marriages shows a slight falling off. Statistics reveal some 8000 divorces in 1925, as against 4600 in 1913, while marriages dropped from 36,000 in the year before the war, to 35,100 last year.

New Gold Ore Deposits Found.

ROME, Nov. 12.—New deposits of gold and silver bearing ore have been discovered near Giaveno, in the Cottian Alps, according to dispatches to local newspapers. The deposits will yield from 33 to 35 grams of gold a ton and from 23 to 230 of silver. The conformation of the ground permits the construction of galleries for the extraction of the ore.

QUEEN PLACES FIRST WREATH ON WAR MEMORIAL

CROWDS BREAK POLICE LINES

Immense Enthusiasm Shown in Greeting Royal Party—More Cities Added to Itinerary.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—As her country's tribute to the soldier dead of the United States Queen Marie yesterday placed a wreath at the base of Liberty Memorial here amid the cheers of thousands who a few hours earlier had listened to President Coolidge who dedicated the shaft.

Coupling her homage to those who sacrificed their lives in the World War with a plea for world peace, Queen Marie termed the monument a "Symbol of peace, a symbol of the great desire all the world over that there should be no more fearful wars to destroy those we love."

Filled with emotion at being the first to lay a wreath on the new monument, Marie said she did so "in loving remembrance of those for whom it was erected. I think you all know that we fought for a same cause and our sons and brothers and fathers lie in different fields over the wide world."

"May this monument never be forgotten. It will be a day of remembrance to you as it will be to me. When I see the wonderful monument that you have built I think of the great sacrifice of all who are not here today to rejoice with us."

Visits a Private Home.

Marie, who wore a brilliant red cloak, spoke in a rich, strong voice that was carried by amplifiers to the far corners of the memorial park.

She said she brought a greeting from King Ferdinand and expressed regret that her late arrival did not permit her to see the city by daylight. The wreath, weighing 25 pounds, is chemically treated so that it will last for five years.

After a private dinner the visitors concluded their Kansas City visit by spending a few moments at a concert and ballet performance, then dropping in at the home of Mrs. Jacob L. Loose.

Thousands cheered the royal party in the crowded station, along the short drive to the Memorial and again as it moved through the city to a hotel where the Queen's party dined.

Crowds Break Police Lines.

The enthusiasm of the city that had in one day celebrated the anniversary of the end of the World War and greeted a President and a Queen, carried the crowd almost beyond control. At the station the spectators broke the police lines as soon as the Queen had passed and other members of the entourage had to fight their way to the waiting automobiles.

Prince Nicolas tried his hand at running a locomotive again yesterday. At Napier, Mo., the first stop within the Missouri State line, he put on a close-fitting cap and a leather coat and climbed into the engineer's cab. Puffing on a pipe, he moved the train at good speed into St. Joseph.

It was decided that while Prince Nicolas and his sister are traveling to and from the Army-Navy football game in Chicago, Queen Marie and the rest of the party shall visit Atlantic City and Lakewood, N. J. She will be joined by her children at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on the following day. Ileana will root for the Army at the game and Nicolas, a former gob, for the Navy.

SIX PERSONS SERIOUSLY HURT IN TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS

Man, 80, Struck When Crossing Street, Family of Five Injured in Collision With Truck.

George Gojdos, 80 years old, of 1215 Emmett street, was seriously injured at 6 p. m. yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Marcellus Lutz of 5023 Fendler street as Gojdos crossed Twelfth street at Emmett. He was taken to City Hospital suffering from internal injuries and a fractured left leg. Lutz was arrested and furnished bond.

Five members of the family of Cecil Whitney, 25, of 8220 Minnesota avenue, were injured, one seriously, at 5:50 p. m., when their automobile was struck by a truck driven by Joseph Rick, Jefferson Barracks, at Haven street and Vermont avenue. Jane Whitney, 6 months old, was thrown from the lap of her mother, Mathilda, 23, and suffered a fractured skull. The mother and two other children, Mary, 2, and Cecelia, 4, were shocked and bruised. Whitney was cut and bruised. The baby was taken to City Hospital. Both drivers were arrested.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER FIND BURGLARS IN THEIR HOME

Latter Pursues One With Revolver; Two Women Seized by Purse Snatchers.

Six women reported encounters with burglars, purse snatchers and other criminals yesterday afternoon and evening. A mother and daughter found two burglars in their home, two women were seized by purse snatchers, and a young woman fought with a man who tried to drag her into a park.

Mrs. Felicia Lembach and her daughter, Marquette, 24 years old, found their front door at 1150 Kingshighway Park, open when they came home at 7:15 o'clock. Miss Lembach saw a man run down the basement steps. She obtained her father's revolver and pursued him out the basement door. Returning, she saw another man come down the second floor steps and flee through the front door. A purse and $25 was gone.

Miss Lillian Hulsey, 18, of 1515 Missouri avenue, opposite Lafayette Park, was seized at 6:45 o'clock by a man who tried to drag her into the park. She fought, screaming, and the man fled.

Miss Welma Seal of 4257 Delmar boulevard was strong-armed by two men near her home at 6:15 o'clock. Her purse containing $10 was wrenched from her hand.

Mrs. Philamena Lucks of 1721 North Thirteenth street, returning from a neighborhood store at 1:30 p. m. was stopped by two Negroes, one of whom snatched her purse containing $5 from her hand.

Mrs. Hazel Hoskins of 4539 Greer avenue, entering by the rear door last night, discovered a man prying at the basement door. She called to him and he fled. Last week, she told police, she fought with a man who seized her in the 4400 block on Labadie avenue.

CHAMP CLARK MEMORIAL TO BE DEDCATED TOMORROW

Life-Size Statue of Late Speaker at Bowling Green Will Be Unveiled.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOWLING GREEN, MO., Nov. 12.—Several thousand persons are expected to attend the unveiling and dedication of the $25,000 memorial to the late Speaker Champ Clark here tomorrow morning Senator Reed will deliver the principal speech and Gov. Baker and former Gov. Major will attend the ceremonies. It is uncertain whether former Governors Hyde and Dockery will be here. An invitation was extended to Queen Marie of Rumania to be present but her regrets were received today.

The memorial is a life-size, bronze statue mounted on a huge, red granite base. It will depict Champ Clark dressed as he appeared for many years in Congress, in a long Prince Albert coat and flowing string tie. Funds for the monument were appropriated by the 1925 Missouri Legislature. The statue is at the entrance to the Courthouse grounds.

MISSOURI PACIFIC TO ISSUE $13,156,000 OF NEW BONDS

Securities Will Retire Like Sum in 7 Per Cent Notes, Effect Saving of $200,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—An annual saving of $200 000 in fixed charges of the Missouri Pacific Railroad will be accomplished through the replacement of a 7 per cent note issue by $13,156,000 new 5¼ per cent bonds, to be sold by Kuhn, Loeb Co., tomorrow at a price of 99½.

The proceeds will be applied to the redemption of approximately the same amount of the 7 per cent notes which will be called early next year. The new bonds will mature in equal annual installments from 1931 to 1956.

LONDON CELEBRATES ARMISTICE

Observance in Nature of Religious Rite; Crowd Sings in Street.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Year by year London's celebration of the armistice grows more impressive, more of a religious rite. All notion of a gay celebration, even at night, has gone. When a religious procession entered St. Martin's Church last night a vast crowd choked Trafalgar Square and sing hymns in an entirely unorganized demonstration. Mounted police late at night were still marshalling the silent reverent crowds filing past the Whitehall cenotaph in the drizzling rain; all traffic was stopped there for 12 hours.

A truck driver who refused to stop his horse in the two-minute silence yesterday was arrested and put on probation for a year. There were several similar incidents.

OWNERS REJECT PLAN TO END COAL STRIKE IN BRITAIN

"LAST WORD" GIVEN IN MEMORANDUM

Unions to Concede Longer Hours and District Settlements, With Old Rate of Pay Temporarily.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Revived negotiations for a settlement of the British coal strike took a dramatic turn today, when a statement was issued from No. 10 Downing street indicating that the mine owners were not in accord with the projected terms of settlement.

The statement said that if the miners should accept the terms offered by the Government, the Baldwin Ministry would proceed with legislation to make them effective, despite the mine owners' objections.

What was described as the Government's last word to the coal miners, who have been on strike since May 1, with a resultant loss to them of millions of dollars in wages and untold inconvenience to business and suffering on the part of householders, was in the hands of the miners' executive today.

Throughout last night and until 1 o'clock this morning there were conferences between the Coal Committee of the Cabinet and the Executive Committees of the coal mine owners and miners. These conferences grew out of a resolution adopted by the miners' delegate conference which gave the Executive Committee carte blanche to negotiate a settlement of the strike without imposing stipulations with regard either to hours or wages.

Discussions Were Friendly.

The discussions were friendly and regarded as being full of hope. The miners' representatives on leaving the conference, spoke in a non-committal manner, with an apparent tendency to be critical.

"The match was abandoned owing to fog," was a remark made by one of the miners' executives.

The contents of the Government's "last word" were contained in a lengthy memorandum for perusal by the miners' executive and then for later submission to a delegate conference.

The memorandum of the Government, which was framed after many hours of discussion with the miners and mine owners, was given out today.

The main point at issue — the question of increasing miners' hours of work beyond the statutory seven hours daily—was conceded in principle yesterday. The contingent question of district settlements for both hours and wages also was conceded. The memorandum embodies both these points.

While the miners are thus called upon to abandon part of their position, the mine owners undertake to pay temporarily in every district except Northumberland, Durham, Cumberland and North Wales, the wages at the general rate prevailing before the strike began, May 1. They also undertake to reinstate strikers as opportunity offers without prejudice to the men now working. Other matters are mainly left for settlement by district agreements.

Government's "Last Word."

When the memorandum was handed by the Government to the miners' representatives in the Premier's room in the House of Commons, it was described as the Government's "last word." The inference was that if the miners did not accept the terms the Government would formally wash its hands of the matter and then leave the miners and mine owners to settle their dispute as best they could.

The attitude of the members of the miners' executive in discussing the situation with the Government remained obscure this morning. Some of the miners' representatives made remarks on their own behalf which were not regarded as wholly encouraging. A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Union, said: "Nothing was done to convince me that substantial progress was made. We propose to examine the memorandum very carefully. A settlement has not been reached."

Attack on Mussolini Denied.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 12.—Reports from abroad that another attempt had been made against the life of Premier Mussolini were characterized last night by the Stefani News Agency, the semiofficial news organization, as absolutely false. Mussolini, says the Stefani statement is in perfect health.

DISCIPLINE AND ECONOMY KEYNOTES OF MUSSOLINI'S REGENERATION OF ITALY

Fascist Regime Unquestionably Has Put Country to Work — Premier Boasts of Nation United, Welded, Harmonious.

This is the third and last of a series of articles based on an interview with Premier Mussolini.)

By SAMUEL DASHIELL.

(Copyright, 1926.)

ROME, Nov. 10.—There are two ways of observing progress: one way is to see it with one's eyes, the other is to scan tables of statistics.

In 1920 Italy was a political morass. The red flag of bolshevism floated over half-built ships at the Ansaldo plant in Genoa. Communists rioted and shot and killed one another in Florence. The trains arrived when they got there and departed when convenient; there were apparently thousands of railroad employes, they were very polite and genial and entirely unconcerned with the railroad business. In Rome streets were guarded by cordons of soldiers against possible Communist outbreaks. Telegraphic communication was impossible.

The morale of the people was relatively sound, but Italian leadership was dead. The venerable Giolitti, then Premier, represented, even by his age, the close of an epoch in Italian history.

All Changed by Fascists.

The Fascist revolution was a revolution in the full meaning of the word.

Today, one of those same ships that rusted in the Genoa shipyard, which was the Duilio, is flying the Italian tricolor along with an increasing fleet of beautiful trans-Atlantic liners.

The Communists are allowed to exist as if by some grim manifestation of Premier Mussolini's sense of humor.

"Now the railroad personnel is no longer a burden on the state. the trains run on time, tickets are scrupulously controlled, and the operation shows a net gain on the budget.

The bureaucracy has been steadily made less formidable and there is a new word that came with Fascism—discipline.

Discipline is Mussolini's formula, and it is the watchword of Fascism.

He described Fascist discipline in two phases, thus: "If by Fascist discipline you refer to the internal discipline of the party, I can say that its present status is indeed excellent. The most recent laws of the Fascist party which abolished within the party organization the last remnants of electoralism have eliminated definitely the last possibility of conflict. There can be no further violations of the spirit and mentality of Fascism. If you refer, instead, to the discipline which Fascism has given the country, you yourself have observed the results."

Premier Points to Results.

Mussolini laid great stress on this visual evidence of progress. He interpolated a little theory to the effect that facts are most convincing when they can be photographed.

He went on: "The Italian people who have been considered the most undisciplined and the most unorganized people in the world are today, grouped and organized under the aegis of the most severe and lofty discipline—they form virtually a marvelous and compact army of peace.

"This discipline is not obtained by coercion. The Italian is animated by a new spirit, with a new comprehension of life, of its scope and its requirements. The Italian people have accepted this discipline, they want it, they demand it. This sense of the necessity of a discipline for the good of all, in which today every one of them is a personal sponsor, is so profound that we might say every citizen, in addition to submitting to the generally accepted plan, is voluntarily disciplining himself, his activity and his life.

"What is the result? It is too vast to be enumerated in each single category. I speak generically when I say that, with this discipline, the Italian people have multiplied their production, they have redoubled their power and their prestige, and they are constructing out of all this a great people and a great nation; a race united, harmonious, welded together, in which rests their greatest hopes and in which everything can be consummated for the good of the nation."

Cultural Development.

Having organized the nation on such principles, Mussolini has begun to take great interest in Italy's cultural development.

The grandeur of Rome must be preserved and its tradition continued. All vestiges of Italy's gift to civilization must be carefully maintained and once more projected into light.

Mussolini has founded new universities, new schools and the educational system is being studied at his command.

The practice of giving prizes and honors for every kind of merit has been encouraged, farmers get prizes for increasing wheat yield per acre just as little boys get prizes for recitations from Dante or Latin composition.

At Work on Problem of Vatican.

What is perhaps one of the most difficult situations in the world, the relationship between the Vatican and the Kingdom of Italy, is approaching a solution under Fascism. There were signs of hostility in the beginning, but the practical realism of Mussolini has brought a decided change.

The Italians are deeply religious by nature. On every hand there are signs of increasing friendliness and understanding between the Pope and the heads of the Italian State. It has reached out to the King himself, who was only recently received at Assisi with regal honors.

Mussolini has disclosed his reverence for spiritual worship in urging all people to consider the life of the Great St. Francis, whose 700th centenary is being commemorated at Assisi. In the relations between the new Fascist Italy and the church, Mussolini has the right to speak, it might be said, from the viewpoint of a leader of his people to the leader of his flock.

Mussolini gave an opinion on this question which fully expresses the Government attitude. He said: "Fascism believes that religion is for all men the loftiest impulse in the conduct of their lives and in the fruitful development of their labors. It esteems that a people in whom religion is an ascendant influence will be a people who will always conserve intact its faith and keep pure its ideals.

"Fascism desires, therefore, that religion be respected, and that it serve all in the fullest measure of its prerogatives. Numerous acts and regulations attest this principle. As for the relations with the Holy See, they are inspired by the highest regard and with the utmost deference."

Economy at Basis of It All.

But in the end, the basis of Fascist Italy's rebirth is economy. The entire program depends on the personal economies and the patriotic sacrifices which individual Italians must make.

Mussolini does live in luxurious apartments, he has fast motor cars, his every command is obeyed as if he wore a magic talisman—such is his leadership and power. Yet his actual gains are not monetary, except for his country. His salary is negligible, less than a head bookkeeper's in America.

He sets the pace and the example for his countrymen. He labors continuously. By this spreading himself out over many departments, he avoids useless technicalities and sees the whole plan in perspective.

At 8 o'clock in the morning he has already been groomed, and dressed and sped off to work. The days tick through like a clock. Appointments, orders, decrees, decisions, commands, leave his sphere of action like kites, but he holds the strings.

He reads works on history, philosophy and science. He writes, plays the violin, entertains, and at times appears to have considerable leisure. This is due to his own personal discipline, and Mussolini's little trips to Forli, where he walks with his wife and children, are not infrequent. He is a fond, proud parent.

But for the program of economy, one must look at statistics and study the Italian budget. Financiers are skeptical about these foreign budgets, with their rows of zeros and indicated exchange rates on a paper and gold basis. The Italian budget might look tricky at first, but it is very sound, for it is a kind of triple budget. In keeping with Mussolini's philosophy, it is better to underestimate than to overestimate.

Three Categories In Budget.

Having three separate distinctions or categories, it is typical of the way the average thrifty old lady might keep her house. There is perhaps just enough money in her purse to make the grade, there is also some put away in the bank, and for some unknown emergency, there is, of course, something tucked away in the cracker jar.

George E. Marcy Announces Retirement; Sells Seat on Board.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—George E. Marcy, chairman of the board of the Armour Grain Co., is retiring from active business. His membership on the Board of Trade sold for $6800 yesterday and Marcy announced his plans to spend much time on his California ranch, and in traveling.

Ill health is thought to have prompted his retirement. He is 63. He was president of the Armour Grain Co. for the 18 years prior to its reorganization last year, and has been a member of the Grain Exchange for 37 years.

SENATE FACING NEW TANGLE OVER FRANK L. SMITH

Should He Be Appointed to Fill Out McKinley's Term, Could He Be Unseated, Is Question.

SENATORS DIVIDED IN THEIR OPINIONS

Some Say Charges of Reed Committee Would Apply Only on Term to Which He Was Elected.

By CHARLES G. ROSS

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Senators now in Washington are pondering the nice question that will be raised if Senator McKinley of Illinois dies before next March 4 and Governor Small appoints in his stead Frank L. Smith, the Senator-elect for the term beginning on that date. McKinley is not expected to survive his present critical illness.

Repeated reports have reached here from Illinois that Governor Small intends to name Smith for the vacancy in the present Congress, if one occurs, on the ground that the election of Nov. 2 showed Smith to be the people's choice.

It is virtually certain that the exposures of the Reed campaign fund investigating committee will result in the expulsion of Smith from the seat to which he was elected. The only question appears to be whether Smith shall be denied a seat when he presents his credentials at the opening of the Seventieth Congress, or shall be permitted to hold his seat pending the formality of an investigation by the committee on privileges and elections.

Senators Divided on Point.

Another question will come up if Smith attempts to take a seat in the present Congress by appointment. Senators are divided on this point. Some argue that if Smith presents credentials of appointment, he must be seated, even in the face of the prospect that a few months later he will be kicked out. Among those who hold this view are some who will vote to unseat Smith for the elective term. The unfitness of Smith, they argue, arises only from the tainted character of the Illinois primary. The Smith who might try to come in by appointment would be the same Smith, but the Senate would be debarred in that case from going behind his credentials.

The test, in other words, according to this argument, is not the character of the man, but the manner of his choice for the Senate.

Against this legalistic view, the argument is advanced that since Smith is Smith, the objections that apply in the one case would apply in the other. If the Senate has official foreknowledge of his unfitness, it is contended, the Senate has a perfect right, under the clause of the Constitution which makes it the sole judge of the qualifications of its members, to reject him, whether he makes his first appearance in this Congress or the next. Senators adhering to this theory point to what they term the absurdity of admitting a man who is subsequently to be ejected on grounds that existed prior to his admission.

Want Early Report From Reed.

The discussion of the subject has brought out this point: That it is much to be desired, from the point of view of those who would reject an appointment of Smith to the Senate, that the Reed senatorial committee make an early report on its Illinois investigation. The Senate must have official knowledge of the conditions that are held to disqualify Smith.

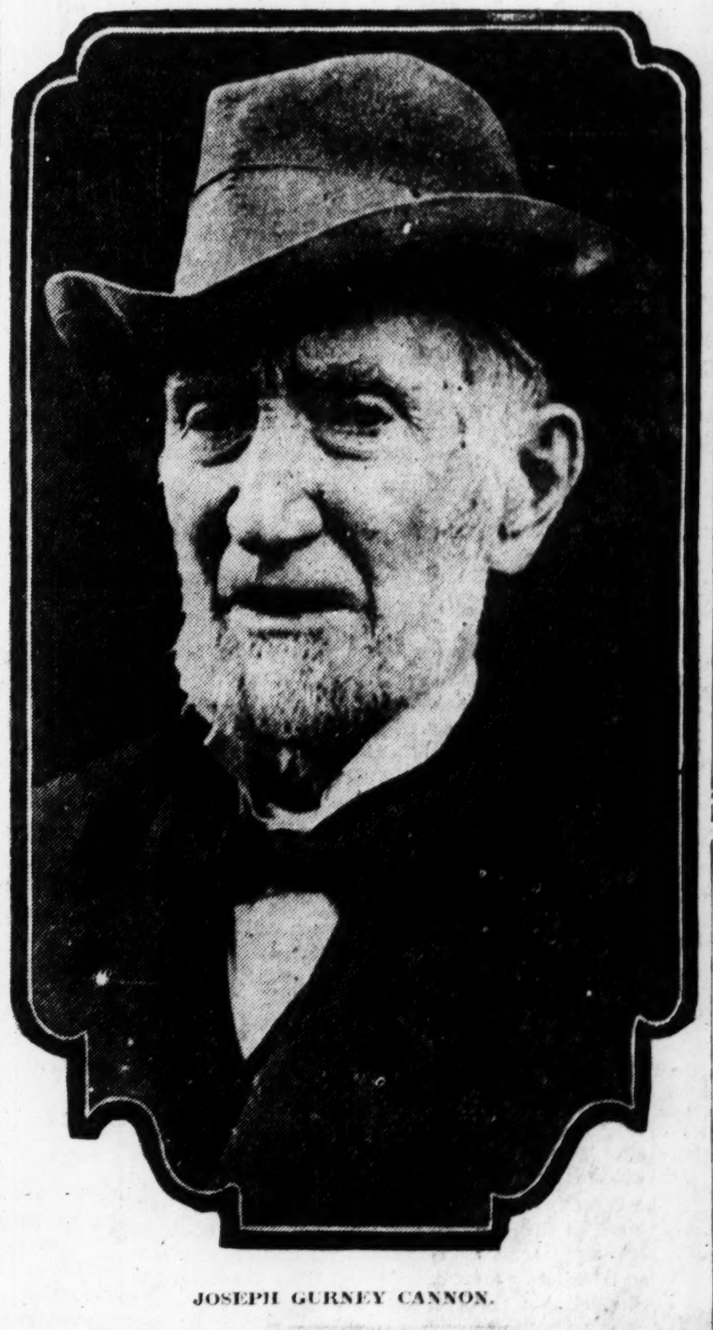
If Smith should present his credentials to the next session of Congress before the filing of the Reed report the senators opposed to his seating would be unable to make out their case. His credentials would have to be accepted at their face value. If, however, Smith should come knocking at the door after the Senate had become officially apprised of the result of the Reed investigation, it would be possible to keep him outside.

The question of the seating of Smith in this Congress is purely academic at present, but it is one that may become intensely practical before the coming short session is over. If the earnest hope of the senators who want to guard against the seating of Smith in this Congress is realized, Senator Reed will have his Illinois report ready, or at least a preliminary epitome of it, for the opening day of the session.

"UNCLE JOE" CANNON'S CAREER OF 50 YEARS IN PUBLIC LIFE MARKED BY STIRRING FIGHTS

Picturesque Statesman Was Shorn of Power, but Not Unseated as "Czar" of House in 1910.

Fought for First Appropriation for Aviation and Lived to See Langley's Machine Fly.



JOSEPH GURNEY CANNON.

By the Associated Press.

TIME scarcely had touched with silver the thin locks of Joseph Gurney Cannon years ago, ere the nation had rechristened him "Uncle Joe." And under that title, confirmed by millions who never saw him, yet knew every line of his worn face and every whimsical trait of his intense personality, "Uncle Joe" came at last to end his career as eldest statesman of the nation; the man of longest service in Congress; the object of honors among his colleagues who took no thought of party or political differences.

In the files of the Congressional Record there is a moving tale of this man's service.

It begins back in 1873, when first he came out of Illinois to take his seat in the House, even then a picturesque, fire-eating political gladiator to whom the uproar of debate and the tense moments in committee were the breath of life. The yellowed pages snow day by day how the hot blood of youth drove him into every affray, his tongue lashing out at his opponents, his quick mind formulating at call the instant expedients that are the weapons of political combat. Month by month he climbed toward leadership, growing more knowing as each session brought its new conflicts; hardening with time into the forceful, relentless champion of his party, until that day when the gavel was placed in his hands and he mounted the Speaker's rostrum as master of the House to rule alone as few men before him had ruled that body.

His Fall in 1910.

"Uncle Joe" was then a veteran and in the heyday of his power. Around him had gathered a lore of tales, some true, some false, but all picturesque, and through the news columns and cartoons his personality had been stamped indelibly on the minds of men all over the land.

Yet great as his place and power had grown, great, too, was his fall when the House in 1910 revolted against his Czar-like rule and stripped him of his power through a combination of insurgents in his own party with the Democratic minority. Even then, however, when the battle in the House reached a pitch of excitement that swept every other happening in the world into the background for Americans, "Uncle Joe" was to know something of the feeling men would have for him later. The triumphant rebels of the House refused to take the last step and oust him from the speakership. Content with stripping the post of its power, they voted to hold him still in place.

Basis of His Power.

Cannon's power as Speaker was based on his right to appoint committees, his own chairmanship of the Rules Committee, and his right to refuse to recognize a member who sought the floor to make a speech or introduce a motion.

The insurgent fight against him was led by Victor Murdock, then a Republican member from Kansas, and George Norris, then a member from Nebraska, now United States Senator. The claim was made that Cannon used his power to block progressive legislation.

The insurgent-Democratic coalition, in its victorious fight against "Cannonism" stripped the Speaker of the right to name committees, deprived him of the Rules Committee chairmanship and provided for a "calendar Wednesday," on which bills on the House calendar could be called up without the necessity of a special rule.

Cannon, in an article in the Saturday Evening Post, two years ago, gave his own reason for the refusal of the insurgents to join the Democrats in depriving him of the speakership when he offered to entertain a motion to declare the speakership vacant. He said the insurgents knew the Democrats could not trust them.

The Republicans lost the House in the 1910 election, and in the new House Champ Clark became Speaker. Both Cannon and Clark served as Speaker for eight years, the longest consecutive service in American history.

Defeated for Second Time.

In the political deluge that fell upon his party two years later, "Uncle Joe" failed of re-election for the second time in his career. Once before he practiced law in Danville after his defeat for Congress. When he came back again at the next election, age had begun to cool his ardor. He sat many days without sharing in debate and it was only in flashes that his old fire showed when he took the floor.

But never to the last was he in doubt as to the hearing the House would give him, never did he fail of a full audience among his colleagues.

Born in a little Quaker settlement near Guilford, N. C., May 7, 1836, and named for Joseph Gurney, a famous Quaker, Cannon often remarked that he seemed to have drifted away from the faith and habits of the pious people whom Gurney led. For he was a fiery, rough and tumble fighter always. On the floor he fought with whirling arms and contortions of his body to drive home his words.

In one exciting battle, the late Champ Clark dubbed him "The Dancing Dervish of Danville" and brought down upon his head the wrath of "Uncle Joe." Once, in the heat of debate, Clark said he saw Cannon do a trick—not duplicated by a speaker since the confusion of tongues at Babel—make a complete circle on his heel.

"Uncle Joe" smoked incessantly, his cigar tilted sharply upward toward his hat brim, and cartoonists never failed to draw him that way. When he celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday on May 7, 1921, President Harding sent a box of cigars and a letter telling him that if they were not to his liking to come to the White House and pick out something else. But notwithstanding the sharp bite, "Uncle Joe" bravely attacked them, declaring it was not right to "look a gift horse in the mouth" when the gift horse was in the White House.

In the same way Cannon always smiled when reporters exaggerated stories about his swearing and gambling. Lampooned from one end of the country to the other, he merely shrugged his shoulders and went back at night to the game. "Raising the tariff in the afternoon and the ante at night" was one of his pet remarks, when asked how he killed time.

Never Denied "Interviews."

Because he never rushed to deny remarks attributed to him, he became a rich source for some reporters to draw on for imaginary interviews. During the World War somebody wrote that Cannon had said the army officers in Washington wore spurs to keep their feet from slipping off War Department desks. Hundreds of officers were bitter in denouncing the former Speaker, but he never denied it—he just smiled and gave his cigar a different tilt. Of course he never said it. It was merely an illustration of how words were constantly put in his mouth.

As Speaker Cannon knew how to control a turbulent body. Holding the gavel in his left hand—for he was left-handed—he gave the slab of his desk a glancing blow that sounded like a rifle shot, and brought unruly members to attention. Curses frequently were flung at him as members surged out of the chamber, but invariably he smiled and smoothed the ruffled feelings of a member denied recognition by handing him a cigar. That was Cannon's way, and while they hated him in the chair, they loved him in the lobby.

As chairman of the Appropriations Committee back in the days when there were no billion dollar budgets, Cannon fought eternally to hold down expenditures. He was the actual floor leader in all appropriation fights. Never preparing a speech, he stood in the center of a hostile body, sometimes speaking with the voice of a child sometimes screaming and biting off his words, often prancing up and down the center aisle, with his left arm waving. And at the end when the rattle of votes showed that he had won, the veteran danced up and down the floor and then retired to the cloak room to do a highland fling.

That was his style of debate. He never pretended to be an orator and he was not. Once as he was waltzing up and down the aisle, Speaker Reed, eyeing him closely, called out, sotto voce: "Joe, you can't make this speech on mileage."

First Aviation Appropriation.

In his latter years, "Uncle Joe," standing at the entrance of the Capitol, heard the whirr of many airplanes, and saw a flock of machines overhead. It recalled his own part in aircraft development. Back in the days when Prof. Langley was secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, he went before Cannon's committee with an estimate of needs. Always modest, the professor was about ready to pick up his papers and leave when the chairman asked if that would be all.

"I would like to have $10,000 for experimenting with a flying machine," he said.

Cannon jumped half way out of his chair. He glared at Langley, imagining he had lost his mind.

"Great heavens:" he shouted. "A flying machine to ride up in the air?"

Langley told him it was exactly that. The committee roared. Being willing, however, to take a gambler's chance, and impressed by Langley's sincerity, the chairman, without a word to other members, approved the expenditure, fought for it in the House and got it.

And then, when the Langley flying ship fell into the Potomac River, the newspapers attacked "Uncle Joe" from Maine to the Pacific. He was cartooned as Mother Shipton riding through the air on a broom. But years later the Wright brothers took the old Langley ship from the national museum and Cannon saw it flying over Washington.

In those days he was all energy and never shunned a fight. He got his first notoriety, as he expressed it, during a clash years ago with "Sunset" Cox, who was attacking the Republican side. Cannon tried to break in for a word, but at first Cox refused to yield. Finally Cox agreed.

"And for how long?" asked Speaker Blaine.

"As long as the gentleman will

IRRECONCILABLES SEE VINDICATION IN COOLIDGE'S SPEECH

President's Declaration in Support of World Court Reservations Also Please Democrats.

REFLECTS VIEW OF SENATE, SAYS WALSH

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Senate irreconcilables think the President's Kansas City speech means that he has turned his back on the World Court. The Democrats see in it a declaration in support of the Senate's reservations and agree with it.

There is more accord in these impressions than appears, for the Democrats unquestionably have grown extremely cold not to the idea of the court, but to the fate it has met on foreign shores. They have no thought of relaxing their reservations.

The irreconcilables interpret the President's Armistice day address as a vindication of their position and think the elections have persuaded the President to drop the court as quietly as possible out of the Republican picture.

"I Agree," Says Borah.

"It is all right. I agree with it as far as it goes," observed Senator Borah of Idaho, leader of the irreconcilable opposition to the court. Borah thought Mr. Coolidge had done all but repudiate the court.

Senator Bruce of Maryland, one of the most ardent Democratic advocates of both League and Court, construed the speech as meaning the President had rung down the curtain on the court.

"It accurately reflects the sentiment of the Senate," Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, said, commenting on the President's assertion that the European powers must take the Senate reservations as they stand.

"Fortunately for the country," said Senator Moses (Rep.) of New Hampshire, one of the original bitter-enders, "the President remains a sterling American and no better occasion could have been found for the concluding declarations of the President's Kansas City speech than Armistice day which marked the culmination of American participation in world affairs.

"The President's speech set the index for the American attitude toward world events and I go with him in declaring that the deliberate action of the Senate in ratifying the protocol of the so-called World Court marks the limit of American entanglement in old world politics."

It would not surprise Washington if the President shifted his interest to a new Hague conference plan for codification of international law and for reviving the Hague tribunal as an instrument of international adjudication.

London Times Says Speech Destroys Hope of U. S. Adhering to Court.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—References by President Coolidge to debts in his Kansas City speech and his statement that the United States would enter the World Court only on the terms the United States Senate desired are attracting chief notice in the editorial comment in the press today.

"The speech," says the Times regretfully, "must virtually destroy the expectations confidently held out a few months ago that the United States would adhere to the Court. Detachment from the Court, if it becomes definite, must be chiefly attributed to misunderstanding and will be a symptom of the wide divergence of outlook which still separates the New World from the old."

The Daily News is convinced that the United States "will be impelled before many years have passed not only to join in the work of the League of Nations but to concern herself actively in the affairs of Europe, for the American people are building up great economic interests here which will make permanent isolation an impossibility."

"President Coolidge," says the Daily Chronicle, "has a perfect right to be firm about payment of debts, but nothing is to be gained by debating the ethics of the matter. The sooner the debt business can be settled and talk of it dropped the sooner will mutual respect between nations be restored."

PARIS, Nov. 12.—President Coolidge's speech at Kansas City, the French press remarks today, shows that the Washington administration's policy has not been modified by the results of the recent elections, at least as far as foreign affairs are concerned.

Thoughts on Conscription.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN his Armistice day address at Kansas City, President Coolidge pronounced his approval of conscription not only of armies but of all wealth in any future wars in which we may engage.

The serious student of affairs should remember that up to 1917 the United States had never employed a conscript army in a foreign war, nor was it considered possible to do so within the terms of the Constitution. In the Mexican War and the Spanish-American War the soldiers were all volunteers. It was everywhere conceded that the Constitution authorized universal military service in the states in their militia, but the Constitution had limited the employment of the militia by the Federal Government to cases where it was necessary "to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrection and repel invasion."

The relative powers of the state and Federal Governments were thus viewed as containing salutary checks against military aggrandizement. However, the Supreme Court upheld the act of Congress of May 18, 1917, authorizing the raising of a conscription army for foreign war, and so far that power must be held constitutional. But that decision was rendered in the midst of war when the expansion of governmental power over the citizen is nearly always readily acquiesced in.

It is well to understand the implications of this new policy, and nowhere is it more thoughtfully considered than by Prof. John W. Burgess of Columbia University, in his small volume, "Recent Changes in American Constitutional Theory." He says:

> From the point of view of the constitutional immunities of the individual against governmental power, this distinction will be seen, with a little reflection, to be most vital. For while Congress, that is, the Government of the United States, can always, of its own motion, declare a foreign war, it cannot, of itself alone, produce an invasion of the United States or an insurrection within the country. It depends upon other wills as to whether these conditions shall or shall not exist. That is, the Government of the United States cannot, of its own motion, and at any time, create the occasion upon which it may exercise the power of conscription, provided such exercise be limited to the purpose of repelling invasion or suppressing insurrection, but it can do so if it may require the compulsory service of its citizens or subjects in foreign war. Now the power in a government to conscript its citizens or subjects into its military service upon an occasion which it may, of its own motion at any time, invent and perpetuate, amounts to a power to hold the people of the country under permanent military law, that is, to hold them under a law which is not limited by any constitutional immunities protective of the individual against governmental power, namely, the law governing the army, into which they may be all conscripted, which law Congress is authorized by the Constitution itself to construct and ordain without any limitations whatsoever.
> In view of these considerations I cannot believe that the framers of our Constitution vested the power in the Government to raise and employ conscript armies for and in foreign war. It is the most despotic power which Government can exercise. It can be so exercised at any moment as to sweep away every vestige of individual liberty and put the last drop of blood of every man, woman and child in the country at the arbitrary disposal of the Government.

If there is to be added to universal conscription of armies for foreign wars, universal conscription of property, which would furnish the sinews, would it not also furnish the temptation for the Federal Government to create such wars as it may at any time and of its own motion?

An Appeal for the Kids.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ABOUT 10 days ago Judge George Mix was kind and thoughtful enough to furnish a football to a number of downtown school boys who have been using part of the ground around the Courthouse for their games. Within this short time these boys have been stopped twice by policemen.

These children are entitled to playground facilities just as much as those more fortunately situated; if anything, more so, as the boys in the outlying districts can go to one of the parks for recreation. They play only one hour a day; have never broken a window; engage in a good, healthy sport and it does seem that the police should encourage such activities rather than try to stop them.

SUBSCRIBER.

THE DAUGHERTY CASE.

Mr. Buckner, the Federal District Attorney at New York, is not satisfied with the outcome of the Daugherty case. He had worked that case up as few criminal prosecutions were ever worked up. He collected his evidence in fields as far apart as Germany, Switzerland, Ohio, Boston and New York. He failed by a vote of 10 to 2 to get a conviction, but he has not given it up. He is going to try it again.

There has been a great deal of criticism of the way in which the Daugherty case was handled. People who watched it were not sure that Mr. Buckner was doing all he could do to get a conviction. He is a Coolidge appointee. Was he afraid of besmirching the Republican administration? There is a disposition to believe that this is so. A heavy political atmosphere characterized the trial. The implication that graft by the Ohio gang had paid the deficits of the Harding campaign were unmistakable. Buckner could have called Will Hays and probably found out something about it.

To onlookers it seemed that the case came to a point where Buckner hesitated. He did not follow up Daugherty's written statement when the former Attorney-General refused to appear before a grand jury. It has been openly charged that Colonel Miller, Daugherty's co-defendant, had obtained the Liberty bonds which were such a factor in the case from Vincent A. Carroll, city prosecutor of Philadelphia. Carroll sat in the courtroom for two days, but Buckner didn't place him on the stand and ask him where he got the bonds to give Miller. There were other people in the courtroom who claim to know that Carroll was given the bonds by Ned Thurston, of the Republican State Committee of Massachusetts, who left them for Miller. There were others present who wanted Buckner to send for J. J. Roskob, head of the General Motors, a Du Pont concern, and ask him where the money with which to pay the bills for T. Coleman du Pont's Senatorial campaign came from. Still others wanted him to follow up Mal Daugherty's testimony.

Buckner did none of these things. He did not even undertake to find out why Harry Daugherty destroyed the ledger sheets at Mal Daugherty's bank. There was an impasse there some place. Whether it was Harding, Du Pont or Buckner's feeling that there was some political restraint upon him is not known. What is known is that the case stood at the threshold of what the Ohio gang did. It reached a point at which Buckner could have opened the floodgate and brought down the deluge. He was unwilling to do that, and the criticism of him for not doing it has been galling. After all, to tell the whole story of what happened under Harding would purify American government for 100 years. The reaction from it would destroy every political bandit gang such as that which rode into Washington behind Harding and virtually looted the city. No State would shield such a band.

Perhaps Buckner has decided that he made a mistake the first time in shielding the Harding administration. If so, his announcement that the case will be tried again must mean that he has determined to retrieve that mistake. We hope so.

THE QUEEN.

Queen Marie of Rumania is what we call in our breezy American argot a live wire. Her zest and gusto have a distinct Rooseveltian flavor. Her swing around the circle is a unique royal pilgrimage. Various emotions have been registered in the 23 galloping Western days, but of fatigue there has never been a suggestion. A tireless, vibrant personality who manages somehow to give the impression everywhere that she is having the time of her life. We hope she will enjoy her St. Louis visit as much as St. Louis will enjoy her.

ROW! ROW! ROW!

They were called the Big Three—Harvard, Princeton and Yale. But on the gridiron for the last few years they have been the Big TWO AND A HALF. Part of the time Harvard was the half and the rest of the time Yale, and together they seldom were more than one and a half, leaving Princeton teams at par. It was a situation which wore the nerves of Harvard men so that their fingers trembled as they held their teacups.

This year, when Princeton came down in its might to Cambridge, the Harvard Lampoon could stand the gaff no longer. The Lampoon has a swift and deadly line, with four jokes in the backfield that can break through any defense. Princeton won on the football field, but the Lampoon was victorious in the Princeton stands. The Lampoon put on a shifty game and pierced the Princeton undergrads through fur coats, striped custom-made shirts, athletic underwear and all. It was the triumph of mind over chatter, Harvard's wits knocking Princeton's wise-crackers for a goal.

Should intellectual Harvard rob Princeton's brawn of the full meed of victory? Not while the Tiger stands defender of the Orange and Black. So Princeton has severed athletic relations. Foolish phrase. Harvard's tacklers have not been able to get close enough to Princeton backs to have athletic relations. We hope that after the boys get through calling each other names Princeton will concede the Lampoon a decisive victory in the arena of bad manners.

We should think Princeton's best answer to Harvard's sneers is to continue to do to Harvard on the gridiron what it has been doing since 1877, with some few exceptions.

JUNE NOCTURNE.

Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese Ambassador, did other things in St. Louis besides making an important talk to the Chamber of Commerce. He visited Forest Park and the chrysanthemum show at Shaw's Garden, and that led him to say:

> It is not difficult to visualize the glamour of those great trees under the summer sky at your municipal amphitheater. I was here one evening last June. We dined in a roof garden. The air was cool and pleasant, and I remember the moon rising as the blue sky darkened and the stars came out. I shall remember it a long time. Since then I have always looked forward to another visit in St. Louis.

We are glad Matsudaira, who knows Washington and Tokio, should remember for a long time a glimpse of the St. Louis moon. Matsudaira is a professional diplomat; he is also an instinctive diplomatist. He could not have paid St. Louis a more subtle compliment than by recapturing the enjoyment a certain beautiful June evening here gave him.

WE ARE ADVISED.

St. Louis has been advised by municipal experts not to build subways, because subways are skyscraper feeders, and skyscrapers increase the congestion of the downtown section. They think it better to limit the height of buildings to 10 stories and thus force the downtown section to spread out over a greater area.

We believe, however, that the people of St. Louis, like the people of other American cities, prefer to have the downtown section restricted in area for the convenience of shopping and are willing to undergo the discomfort of congestion. What the people do want, however, is a transportation system that will take them swiftly into and out of the congestion.

After all, we have a pride in the skyscrapers, which are America's most notable contribution to city life, and which increase each year in architectural beauty and grace. We like a busy, crowded downtown section. Is there any doubt that the people would join the real estate men in denouncing any attempt to limit our buildings to 10 stories, and thus eliminate the possibility of any more structures of the beauty and grandeur of the Bell Telephone Building?

After a day spent downtown, however, we like to depart from it in speed and comfort, and subways would make that possible.

SHAW, NOBEL PRIZE WINNER.

The process of making an institution of George Bernard Shaw goes merrily forward. It is not enough that he should be forced to lock himself up in Adelphi Terrace to prevent constant readers from plucking his beard for souvenirs. He must also be made a Nobel prize winner, and thus be placed in the category of those who have performed "conspicuous service for humankind," or words to that effect. Of course, Shaw's services have been enormous, but he, above all men, is not to be embalmed in bromides.

It is a little ironic that the only other English-speaking author to receive the Nobel prize for literature is Rudyard Kipling, the singer of songs of empire and the eloquent but vociferous mouthpiece of narrow nationalism. Shaw and Kipling are ill-assorted bedfellows. This is but one example, however, of the catholicity of taste of those who award the Nobel prize. Consider Maeterlinck and Hamsun, Tagore and Romain Rolland, Hauptmann and Sienkiewicz.

Shaw did not need the Nobel prize to tag and label his fame; nevertheless, it is a type of recognition which should please him. Think of the wagonload of dull and ponderous fellows that were passed up for a man who never had a stilted moment in his life, whose wit has known no laws and whose wisdom is put up as intellectual bon bons. It is refreshing when a Nobel prize committee dares to make a brilliant choice.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT.

William Allen Scott Rutherford, a young man of social position and some financial resources, was charged with second-degree murder here. He was allowed to plead guilty of manslaughter and paid a $500 fine.

Frederick Ebbs, a 40-year-old barber, without wealth or position, was tried here on Tuesday for second-degree murder. The jury convicted him and set his punishment at life imprisonment. When he offered to plead guilty, prior to his trial, he had been told his minimum sentence would be 20 years.

Demonstrating that the Circuit Attorney's office can prosecute a second-degree murder case when it tries. Demonstrating that a Circuit Judge can make it hard for a malefactor, even on a plea of guilty. Demonstrating that juries can convict and hand out severe sentences, even when the evidence is no stronger than it was in the Ebbs case—or the Rutherford case.

A COMPARISON.

In Moscow they have just executed an official who gambled away 18,000 rubles belonging to a public fund. In the United States, men who steal public funds are indignant if they are compelled to serve a two-year term in the penitentiary.

WHY THEY HONOR DEBS.

Why did 300 persons gather at the Odeon to honor Eugene Debs, who is dead and gone? The answer may be glimpsed in this quotation from Debs' classic speech before the Judge who sent him to Atlanta:

> Your Honor, years ago I recognized my kinship with all living beings, and I made up my mind that I was not one bit better than the meanest of earth. I said then, and I say now, that while there is a lower class, I am in it; while there is a criminal element, I am of it, and while there is a soul in prison, I am not free.

This is poetry. It could be uttered only by a great human being, and it explains the love in which Debs' followers hold his memory.

Smokestacks tall,
My little girlie,
Though the word
Is hard to rhyme,
Do more harm
Than good, Luella,
When they're smoking
All the time;
While we've commerce,
Little girlie,
Smoke must always
Be allowed,
But it should be Kept in check, dear,
Not belch forth
Like a small cloud.

My sweet Luella,
When the leaves
And grass turn green,
It's a shame
If palling smoke clouds
Must obscure
The vernal scene;
In the spring
Our clothes are gayer
Than at any Other time,
And I think
They should be spared from What may taint
With soot and grime.

In the summer,
Little girlie,
When the sky's
Serenely blue,
It's not right
That rolling smoke clouds
Interrupt
A charming view;
Furthermore,
My little girlie,
August days
Are hot enough,
And we need

In the autumn,
Sweet Luella,
When the leaves
Turn gold and brown,
There's no warmth
And little comfort
In the blankets
Smoke lets down;
When the tang
Of frost, Luella,
Makes more sharp
The autumn air,
Too much carbon
Spoils our breathing
And it may
Our lungs impair.

When it's winter,
Little girlie,
Small enough
The season's cheer;
Must the smoke
Increase our troubles:
Snow and sleet,
Days cold and drear?
If at any Time, Luella,
Smoke can make
A man see red,
It's in winter,
Little girlie,
When all nature's

From the World's Work for November.

NOW one hears German spoken almo as much as English along the boule vards, and many French citizens are to b found in the hotels along Unter den Linden The politics of the Reparations Commissio has given way to the politics of Locarno finally realized when Germany took it place at the Council table of the League The old hatred seems to be going. We rea that the coal and iron industrialists of th Ruhr and the Comite des Forges met the early summer to decide on a plan of action "to eliminate, so far as possible, th unjustified causes of reciprocal distrus which up to the present have prevented th two countries from approaching under fav orable conditions the consideration of the real interests." Belgium, France, Germany and Luxemburg have formed a steel com bination the details of which were recentl made public. French and German potas producers have struck a bargain for to gether selling their wares to the world. Mo important of all, after many months of talk ing, France and Germany have signed a treaty of commerce and amity. The closes commercial bond ever made between thes two countries, this treaty "covers almos the whole range of commercial relation It gives France the minimum German tarif on practically all agricultural products a well as on a great variety of other com modities, while France in effect grants most favored-nation treatment to German prod ucts." Although this treaty will lapse n February 20, it is provided that "one mo after France has passed a new tariff la representatives of the two countries wil meet for the negotiation of a permanen treaty."

REBUKED BY OWN STATE.

From the New York Times.

MASSACHUSETTS, God forgive her, she's kneelin' with the rest. The elec tion news from the Bay State is simply ap palling. The voters in President Coolidg own Commonwealth have cut off his righ hand man. Senator Butler was testified t by the President as one of the most eminen members of the Senate, was especially cer tified to by Mr. Hughes, imported from New York for that purpose, and also by young Col. Roosevelt, who apparently went to Boston on his own. Once there he had th tact to say in his address that Senator But ler ought to be elected not for his ow merits but because his defeat would b everywhere interpreted as a "heavy blow right in the face of Mr. Coolidge himself." Well, the awful disaster has now happened Yet unfeeling Boston, instead of bein bathed in tears, is wreathed in cheerfu grins. She seems to see a sweet reveng taken for slights to some of her leadin citizens by the rather cavalier Senator Bu ler. One can hardly wonder at the resu of the Massachusetts senatorial electio when the fact is made known that a daugh ter of the late Senator Lodge sent her pro ise of support and best wishes to the Dem cratic candidate. She must have remem bered the way in which Senator Butler "di ciplined" her father at the Republican Na tional Convention of 1924.

"Time's up," shouted Cox, and it was.

Elected by Cartoon.

The next year Cannon was cartooned over the country. It was a good joke and posters of him were stuck on every tree in his district, with the left hand out, sometimes with additional fingers sprouting from the top of his head. But Cannon said it elected him.

"Uncle Joe's features were often said to be of the Lincoln type. From ears to chin he wore a fringe of close-cropped beard, the upper lip clean-shaved.

Joe Cannon was a Quaker by chance. His grandfather, a Scotch-Irish Presbyterian from Northern Ireland, settled in Montreal shortly after the Revolution, and later moved to North Carolina, where "Uncle Joe's" father was born. Within a week after his birth both parents died and the baby was adopted by two elderly Quakeresses, both spinsters, and reared in the Quaker faith. He married a Quakeress, but Joe and his two brothers inherited the fighting spirit of their Scotch-Irish grandfather.

When Joe Cannon was four years old his father, a country school teacher and self-taught doctor, migrated from North Carolina with 10 other families, because he hated slavery. Following the old National Road in prairie schooners, they eventually settled on the banks of the Wabash, near Terre Haute, Ind.

There the father, while swimming the swollen river to aid a sick neighbor, was drowned, and Joe was left the main support of the family. He went to work in a country store, where he spent four years.

"Those were the four most valuable years of my early life," he said shortly after he had announced his retirement from Congress. "Within three months I had mastered bookkeeping and was handling the store's records. It was there I learned the value of a dollar. I began reading law in a friend's office while I was working at the store, and slept in the law office at night to save lodging.

"When I went to Cincinnati Law School I explained to the dean that I had enough money to pay a dollar a week for my board, but that I couldn't pay the tuition. He said 'very well, we'll take your note and you can pay it when you are able.' So I got through law school, and when I graduated I had to walk back to Indiana because I couldn't afford railroad fare.

"I practiced in Indiana a short time, and then decided to come to Illinois, where I hung out my shingle at Tuscola."

Elected State's Attorney.

In 1860 he ran for State's Attorney, but was defeated. The next year the Legislature created a new judicial district, and he ran again, and was elected, serving for eight years.

In all his political career he had but three defeats at the polls, the other two times being in races for Congress.

In 1922 "Uncle Joe" announced his retirement, after 46 years of service, and when Congress adjourned late in September, he carried out a long cherished ambition to go West again over the route he traveled in his mother's arms 82 years before. He started from Washington by automobile, but because of fatigue was forced to abandon the trip at Indianapolis.

"I've had enough," he said, in discussing his retirement to private life. "It's 50 years since I first went to Washington, and with the exception of those two unsought vacations (referring to his two defeats) I've been there ever since. I decided to retire voluntarily, but," he added a bit wistfully, "I am just a bit sorry now."

When he first went to Washington, Cannon was induced to put $1000 into a scheme for the transfusion of metal and he never saw the money after that. Later, Alexander Graham Bell, then experimenting with the telephone, invited Cannon into the company "on the ground floor," but after being "stung" once, as he expressed it, he resisted the temptation, only to see other friends take up this and other stocks to become millionaires many times over.

But Cannon's own bank and other business ventures were successful, and he amassed considerable wealth.

The fact probably has been forgotten by most publishers that it was Cannon, while a member of the Postoffice Committee, who fought for reform in the postal laws and put through the bill providing for a low rate on second class mail, which is still in effect. In his closing years, mindful of this service, he often remarked that the newspapers, which had lampooned him, had gained much through a law giving them the right to send their publications at less than the letter rate.

Candidate for Presidency.

In 1908, when in the glory of his rule as boss of the House Cannon looked toward the Republican nomination for the presidency. When leaders proposed that he take second place on the ticket, he refused emphatically. He was one of the candidates for the presidency in the Chicago convention in which Taft was nominated for the first time.

The old warrior's love of children was greater than his love for cigars. He once told a friend that of the multitude of cartoons, friendly and vicious, the one he liked best pictured him as a baby in swaddling clothes, with the Lincoln-like fringe on his face, and the cigar in his mouth pointing skyward. The original of this cartoon, with many others presented to him by cartoonist friends, hung on the wall of his study at Danville.

"Time softens an old man's heart," he said recently, "and when I think of the House doing me such great honors, not forgetting how it once tried to tear me up and feed me to the wolves, I ought to go to my grave with a serene countenance, knowing that my heart was glad with the last faint beats."

Church After Retirement.

One of the first acts of Cannon, after he quit public life and went home to Danville to spend his waning years a private citizen, was to join the Methodist Church near his home, where his wife, Mary, worshipped for many years before her death. Never a church member during his congressional career, Cannon became a regular attendant and a substantial contributor.

Soon after his ninetieth birthday he turned the first spade of earth for a new church, erected on the site of his late brother's home and expressed confidence that he would live to atend services in the edifice.

In the broad and rambling brownstone mansion which Uncle Joe built for his bride many years before, the veteran lived quietly with his two daughters. Nearly every day, donning his black fedora and clenching between his teeth a cigar, he walked down the shady street to the bank where he retained an office. There he sat for several hours, greeting friends, reading papers, and reminiscing.

The business district of Danville crept around the home which once had been in the outskirts of the city, but it remained his fortress.

In his study lined with cartoons and with autographed photographs of famous friends, he sat daily to peruse his personal mail and to dictate to his stenographer. As his strength ebbed, he found increasing pleasure in listening to the radio and every day he read from his Bible.

He smoked less in his later years, but insisted that he never had smoked as much as the public imagined. He always smoked mild cigars, he said.

In the later months of his life he remarked that he could not speak or think connectedly for very long, and recalled that he never was a consistent speaker, but that his oratory was made up rather of firebrands. He seldom attempted after his retirement to give interviews or to make a public appearance of any sort.

RUSSIAN CONCERT AT PRINCIPIA

The Russian Symphonic Choir, an organization composed of 11 male and 11 female voices, under the direction of Basile Kibalchich, will give a program of sacred and classical music and Russian folksongs at a concert tonight at the Principia, Page boulevard and Belt avenue. The choir, unlike most other choral organizations, is modeled on the symphonic orchestra with the value of a different instrument given to each voice.

$3,000,000 Theater Merger.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Negotiations have been concluded by which the moving picture and vaudeville theaters of the Harry Davis enterprises pass under the control of the Stanley Company of America, Dec. 1. More than $3,000,000 is said to be involved in the transaction. Included in the deal are 24 houses in Pittsburg and other Western Pennsylvania cities recently taken over from the Rowland and Clark interests and the Nixon Theater in this city. In acquiring also the group of Davis theaters, the Stanley company increased its chain of playhouses to 233, located chiefly in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Perils of Childhood

"IT must be all of twenty years ago that mother first gave me Syrup Pepsin

For those Fevers, Colds and Bowel Troubles of Childhood

How time flies. My good mother has gone to her rest, but I have faithfully relied upon her judgment and have given Syrup Pepsin to my two children since they were born. It is certainly a noble medicine and never fails of its purpose. I like to recommend it."

(Name and address will be sent upon request.)

And in the Evening of Life

When age comes creeping on, with bowels relaxed, muscles weak, digestion poor and blood thinned, then is when constipation does its evil work in a night. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is so palatable, sets so well in the stomach, works so easily, so gently, so kindly with old folks as to accomplish its purpose without gripe, pain or other distress. For biliousness, sour stomach, coated tongue, headache, fevers, colds and constipation from infancy to old age Syrup Pepsin is recommended everywhere and sold by all druggists.

HELD FOR INTERSTATE THEFT

Man Arrested With Women's Coats From Traction Shipment.

A Federal warrant, charging theft from an interstate freight shipment, was issued yesterday against Harry Bridwell, 39 years old, a police character, after two women's cloaks, which he was carrying when arrested at Fifteenth and Olive streets at 8 a. m. had been identified as part of a shipment from the Straus-Seidel Coat Co., 613 North Broadway, to Benld, Ill., over the Illinois Traction System.

Bridwell denied stealing the coats, saying they had been given him by a woman roadhouse proprietor in St. Louis County. However, the woman he named denied giving him the coats.

HIGH GASOLINE TAX TO SUPPLANT AUTO LICENSES URGED

Cited as Lowering Cost of Collections and Equalizing Expense of Upkeep of Highways.

SUGGESTION MADE TO ST. LOUIS CONFERENCE

Wisconsin Official's Idea Before National Meeting Opposed by Attorney for Oil Company.

The problem of administration of gasoline tax laws was discussed by speakers at today's session of the National Conference of Gasoline Tax Administrators and Oil Inspectors at Hotel Statler. About 75 officials of states and petroleum companies from all parts of the country are attending the conference, which opened yesterday and closes tomorrow with the report of committees.

Speaking on the "Future Development of the Gasoline Tax," Solomon Levitan, State Treasurer of Wisconsin, advocated elimination of motor license fees and a tax levy on gasoline sufficient to construct and maintain State highways. He predicted that the gasoline tax will take the place of all other forms of motor taxation because "it has not only proved the fairest, but the easiest and most economical to administer."

Lowers Cost of Collection.

With a 2-cent gasoline tax Wisconsin last year collected $5,026,053.41 at a total cost of $9646.94, while it cost $550,800 to collect $2,922,098.86 motor vehicle tax Levitan asserted. A five-cent tax in Wisconsin would yield approximately $15,000,000 annually, which, with $2,000,000 from the Federal Government, would be sufficient to construct and maintain the highways, he stated.

"A gasoline tax alone would place the expense of upkeep on those who use the roads and every man would pay in proportion as he uses the highways," Levitan declared.

"Such a tax would compel motorists from other states to contribute their share to the upkeep of the highways, and the man who pays $15 for a license would not be paying twice as much for the privilege as the man who runs his machine 15,000 miles annually."

Levitan recommended a nominal registration fee of $1 to cover the cost of license plates for identification of cars.

Opposed by Oil Attorney.

The recommendation of Levitan for an increase of the gasoline tax was opposed by Frank E. Packard of Chicago, tax attorney for the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, in an address on "Administration of Gasoline Tax Laws From Viewpoint of the Distributer." He asserted that a 2-cent tax yields all the revenue the State can economically apply to road construction and maintenance.

"It is an axiom of statecraft that a lean treasury begets economy and conservation and a fat treasury extravagance and dissipation," Packard said.

Collection of the gasoline tax has placed a heavy burden on oil distributers and they should be given consideration when laws are drafted, the speaker stated, adding that workable laws have been enacted in the Middle West.

Advocates Stricter Laws.

The tax should be collected by the distributer, rather than the retailer, and the collector should be required to put the money collected in a trust fund until turned over to the State, he recommended. Failure to pay the tax into the State Treasury should become a serious criminal offense, he averred.

In the year ended Sept. 30, the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana paid $16,573,681.29 to the nine states in its territory having gasoline sale tax laws, Packard said. With the probable enactment of such a tax in Illinois this winter and increases in other states he estimated the company would collect $25,000,000 under the tax this year.

Discourage Radical Changes.

"To let the only really popular tax stay really popular the gasoline taxes in different states should not be subject to radical changes," advocated W. S. Booton, Director of the Excise Tax in Tennessee. "Some of the advantages claimed for uniform laws are substantial and convincing but many of the merits are shadowed by attendant defects," he said.

Assistant Attorney-General Potter of Missouri discussed the gasoline tax laws as the relate to Interstate Commerce in his speech on "Constitutional Phases of the Gasoline Tax Law."

Other speakers today were a representative of the Auditor-General of Pennsylvania and T. W. Bass, chief of the Gasoline Tax Division of Nebraska. Gov. Baker and Gov. Trapp of Oklahoma, scheduled for addresses today, were unable to attend because of other engagements.

I. C. C. EXAMINER APPROVES READING CONSOLIDATION

Favors Its Absorption of Lehigh & New England Railway, but With Stipulation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Reading Railroad's project for consolidating with the Lehigh & New England system was tentatively approved today in an examiner's preliminary report submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In spite of objections by some of the trunk line railroads, including the Pennsylvania, C. V. Burnside, the commission's assistant director of finance, advised the commission to permit the consolidation.

The Reading should be required to hold the line of the Lehigh & New England open, insofar as it is open at present for co-operation with other railroads in [illegible] ments to New England, the [illegible]iner stipulated.

MISSOURIAN WANTS ASSAILANT TO HANG

Sedalia Deputy, Wounded by Slayer of Iowan, Undergoes Operation on Eye.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 12. — Deputy Sheriff Grover Brent of Sedalia, Mo., who was wounded when Deputy Sheriff Dewey Marshall of Des Moines was slain Oct. 30 as they attempted to arrest William Boyd at Mitchellville, Ia., for hog stealing in Missouri, wants Boyd punished to the full extent of the law.

The widow of Deputy Marshall, however, declared that she felt no particular desire to see Boyd receive the death penalty. After evading officers for eight days, Boyd, a Negro, surrendered here and is now awaiting trial on a first degree murder charge and a charge of assault with intent to kill Brent.

"I'd save the State a lot of money if they would turn Boyd over to me," is Brent's opinion according to his fiancee, Miss Adeline Stewart of Sedalia, Mo.

"I think Grover's thirst for revenge against Boyd is not so much on his own account as on Mrs Marshall's," declared Miss Stewart after a visit with the wounded officer.

"Dewey is gone and nothing they can do now will bring him back to us," Mrs. Marshall said "I suppose I may feel revengeful later, but I don't know. As yet the blow of losing Dewey so suddenly seems to have stunned me."

Brent, who was shot in the face underwent a second operation today in an attempt to save the sight of his left eye. His right eye is in good condition except for irritation. Boyd, who has pleaded not guilty to the murder charge is to go on trial Nov. 22. Mrs Marshall today was awarded compensation of $4500 as provided under the State law for dependents of peace officers killed or disabled in the line of duty.

FLOODS IN DANUBE AGAIN SUBMERGE JUGOSLAVIAN TOWNS

By the Associated Press.

BELGLADE, Jugoslavia, Nov. 12. —Floods in the Danube threaten again to bring desolation to the Baranya and Banat regions. There are now 40,000 acres of land over which has formed a large lake. The villages of Podunravije, Tikvesh and Sokolavatz are submerged, as during the July floods, while Pustana and Zlatna also are inundated.

Dams at Tikvesh burst under the pressure of the rising waters. The Government estate at Belje was inundated. King Alexander's palace, however, thus far has been saved by a temporary dam erected around it. The local authorities everywhere are working hard to keep down the damage. The town of Sombor reports another rise in the Danube of at least a foot is forecast.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Druggist proves a friend in need

Kalispell, Mont., March 1:—"Two years ago my face was an awful sight. The skin broke out with pimples and blackheads and itched all the time. I washed it frequently and applied various salves, but they helped little. One day I asked a druggist for a good cure for my case, and that night I took home a small jar of Resinol Ointment. Every morning and night I washed my face and applied the ointment, rubbing it in good. After a few treatments I noticed the pimples were starting to decrease and in two or three weeks they were practically gone. I was so well pleased with the results that I now keep Resinol on hand and recommend it whenever I can." (Signed) Elkin E. Rosa, 1028 Third Ave. West

HOUSE TO PUT ALIEN BILL AHEAD OF TAX MEASURE

Chairman Green Not Hopeful of Non-Partisan Consideration of President's Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The income tax credit proposal of President Coolidge will have to await its place on the congressional calendar.

Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee announced yesterday that his committee would give the alien property bill right of way. The committee had been called to meet here next Monday to consider this measure.

Green conferred with Secretary Mellon and obtained information on the condition of the Treasury. While he appeared none too optimistic over the prospect of a tax battle at the approaching session, Green said he would study the administration's plan and probably would make an announcement of his views shortly.

Neither is the committee chairman hopeful that the President's suggestion for nonpartisan consideration of the tax proposal will get very far and it is understood he painted a rather gloomy picture to Mellon of the obstacles tax legislation might face at this session.

He held brighter views, however, about the alien property bill and he invited Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Winston to appear before his committee next week and outline the stand of the administration on the proposal for the immediate return of all alien property still held by the Government.

It is believed that Green will indorse the administration tax credit plan, which would permit income taxpayers to obtain a credit on their first two payments of next year, if he approves of any tax legislation at this time.

Consideration of the alien property bill, however, would delay committee action on the tax credit proposal until December and probably would not permit final action by the House before January, which would leave only two months for the Senate to fight over the problem and for the two houses to work out their differences.

Green believes it is not feasible to go ahead now on a program of permanent downward revision of the tax rates and he will insist that this go over until next session.

Asks for Repeal of Tax on Grain Futures.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Relief from the 1 cent tax on each $100 involved in sales of grain futures is asked of the next Congress by C. D. Berry, member of the Chicago Board of Trade, in an open letter to President Coolidge. Berry urged the removal of the tax rather than the proposed 10 to 12 per cent refund on personal and corporate income taxes for 1926. Berry said that the Canadian farmer, with whom the American farmer competes, already has been relieved of the tax. The tax originally was 2 cents on each $100 involved to 1 cent in 1924.

MISSOURI PROSECUTION OF OIL ANTI-TRUST SUIT CONTINUED

Special Commissioner's Report Is Lacking and State Has No Fund for Hearing.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 12.—The antitrust suit filed by Attorney-General Gentry against the Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) and three other oil companies, for alleged price fixing and restraint of trade, was on the docket of State Supreme Court for argument yesterday but was continued, pending a report by the special commissioner appointed to take testimony. The other three defendants in the suit are the Texas Company, White Eagle Oil & Refining Co. and the Standard Oil Co. (Kentucky).

Another antitrust suit against 19 plumbing companies in St. Louis, charging an illegal combination in restraint of trade and to fix prices of plumbing work and supplies, also was on the docket of this term of the court, but has been continued, pending a report of the special commissioner.

As has been told, the appropriation of the Attorney-General for antitrust prosecutions and other suits involving State laws virtually is exhausted and no money is available to pay the expense of conducting hearings and taking testimony in the antitrust cases. Gentry will have to depend upon the next Legislature to make additional appropriations.

Mrs. Louise George, Writer, Dies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Louis McGavock George, writer and editor of a hotel publication, died here yesterday. She was about 50 years old. She was on the staff of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch until she came to California 24 years ago, and later she was on the staff of the Los Angeles Times. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Louis George Dorr of Pasadena; a sister, Mrs. James Baker of St. Louis, and a brother, Randolph McGavock of Chicago.

PRINCES TEASES UNCLE

Astrid, a Tennis Star, Belittles Playing of King Gustav.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 12.—Princess Astrid of Sweden, bride of Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium, is the best woman tennis player of the European Royal houses.

Her royal uncle, King Gustav, who is a familiar figure on the tennis courts of the Riviera during the winter, was her professor. He is an enthusiastic player and in spite of his advanced years, never asks for mercy from his opponents. In 1925, the King and his partner reached the third round of men's doubles. The joy of victory in the early rounds was killed in a telegram coming form Stockholm. It read: "Your adversaries must have let you win." It was signed "Astrid."

HERE IS A MEDICINE THAT HAS PROVEN SATISFACTORY TO MORE THAN MILLION

Don't Experiment on Some Cheap Imitation Claimed to Be Just as Good.

The unusual demand for this great Herb Extract, called Herb Juice, is proof of its superior merit. Ask your friends that have tried it. Take it, insures health.

Now selling at the rate of two bottles a minute. In 30 cities alone 1,165,000 bottles sold in 12 months.

Seems almost impossible that any one medicine could attain such a remarkable sales record. But when you realize how quickly it gives relief even in the most severe cases of chronic constipation you will readily see why it has been proclaimed the greatest tonic laxative of all times.

WITH GOOD HEALTH LIFE IS WONDERFUL

Said Popular St. Louis Woman in a Recent Interview, Who Attributes Her Present State of Health to the Use of Nature's Herb Extract, Called Herb Juice.

"In the mad rush for wealth, old people as well as young people should look to their health as the most important means to happiness. Regardless of how much money one may have, without good health you cannot expect very much happiness in this life—hence this message in behalf of better health conditions," thus remarked Mrs. J. T. O'Malley, who resides at 7 Benton Place, St. Louis.

MRS. J. T. O'MALLEY

"My condition of health has improved wonderfully," continued Mrs. O'Malley, "with the using of your great herb remedy." In continuing her statement, telling of her condition before using the Herbal preparation, she told the representative that she had never experienced such wonderful results from any other medicine. "When I started using your medicine I was in poor health and had been for quite a long time. For the greater part of my life I have been troubled with constipation and, of course, other ailments arose which put me in a very bad state of health. I believe I have suffered more than I can tell you, but anyone who knows the discomfort of chronic constipation, gassy stomach, blinding headaches and dizzy spells, may have some idea of what I have gone through. In recent years it has been about all I could do to get about; I was so nervous on account of severe indigestion pains that I could not sleep well at night and everything worried me during the day. My food would not digest in the natural way, would only sour and cause gas to form which caused me untold suffering at times. I took courage from the many testimonials appearing in the papers from day to day, telling of the wonderful results others were getting from the use of Herb Juice. I decided that if it was good for others suffering with similar ailments, surely it would help me, too. A fair trial of this medicine has convinced me that the people who have used it have not overstated the facts in regard to the merits and health restoring powers of this herbal remedy. I have obtained wonderful relief from the use of this medicine, more so than from any other remedy I have ever used. It has completely eliminated my constipated condition and now my system is free of the impurities which caused me so much trouble. my food digests properly, I eat whatever I please without any bad after effects. This I could not do before using Herb Juice. My complexion has cleared up, headaches and dizzy spells do not trouble me any more and I feel wonderfully improved in a general way. Herb Juice is just wonderful, so is life with good health, and I know from actual test that this medicine will do all it is recommended to do. If you are in need of such a medicine, try a bottle on my recommendation."

Don't fail to see the Herb Juice man, direct from the Herb Juice Laboratories, who has established headquarters at Walgreen's drug store, 514 Washington avenue, and learn more of this great medicine that has relieved thousands of people right here in St. Louis. This great Herbal Extract remedy, called Herb Juice, now selling at the rate of more than a million bottles yearly.

TEXAN IS HELD FOR MURDER OF THREE NEGROES ON RANCH

By the Associated Press

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 12.—H. B Crowder Jr. is under arrest facing a charge of murder following the killing of three Negroes, two men and the wife of one of them, at a cabin on the Bassett Blakely ranch, 25 miles from Houston, Wednesday night. Crowder is a brother of Wallace Crowder, who was shot and killed by a Negro Sunday.

The shooting of Crowder, officers believe, led to a raid on the cabin by seven unmasked white men, who fired hundreds of shots into the building, set fire to it and then shot three of the four occupants as they attempted to escape. The life of Frazer Holmes, 90 years old, Negro, was spared because of his age.

Investigation was begun when Negroes from nearby houses returned from the woods, where they had been hiding, to tell of the raid.

Soon afterward H. B. Crowder Jr. surrendered to officers and asked for protection, saying he feared mob violence.

A Negro who admits shooting Wallace Crowder is in jail here. He said he fired in self-defense.

STATE CORN SHUCKING CONTEST

William Fry of Keytesville Wins First Prize.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KEYTESVILLE, Mo., Nov. 12.—William Fry of Keytesville won the State corn shucking contest held near here yesterday with 27 bushels, 37 pounds shucked in 80 minutes. Fry got away to a good lead in the 30-minute preliminary contest, leading the shuckers entered in the heat with him.

Three out of five of the prizes offered were won by Chariton County men. Layton Roberts of Mendon won second prize, Pearl Mansfield of St. Louis, third; E. H. Ously of Brunswick, fourth, and Earl Meyers of Worth, fifth. Sixty shuckers were entered. A crowd of 1500 persons saw the contest on the farm of T. H. Carskadon & Sons.

NORWAY WILL DIRECT ALL SALES OF LIQUOR

First Anti-Prohibition Bill Will Authorize State-Owned Distribution.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway.—Reorganization of the entire liquor trade will be the first result of the crushing defeat of prohibition through the referendum.

Until now all kinds of beer and wine have been sold through a monopoly, half the shares of which are owned by the Government, the other half being in private hands.

The Minister for Social Welfare is already busy preparing a bill to permit the Government to redeem all the privately owned shares—a total of 20,000,000 kronen (approximately $5,000,000)—and to reorganize the monopoly as a State owned institution affecting the sale of all alcohol in Norway.

The Cabinet will propose to the Storthing to abolish the prohibition law and there is no doubt that the Storthing will accept the proposal.

Rules under which liquor will be freed for sale are very simple. The Cabinet has decided to put no real restriction on the trade, but will take steps to prevent 'unworthy' persons from getting what is now a privilege very much coveted in Norway.

No person under 21 will be allowed to purchase strong liquor nor will any person be allowed to make such purchase if he has infringed the existing rules for the sales of liquor. Nor will a person be allowed to purchase alcohol if he has committed some crime while under the influence of liquor.

To make these restrictions effective, the authorities will give legitimation cards to all law abiding citizens and simultaneously the police will be authorized to deprive of the card any persons who commit the mentioned offenses. The Cabinet's bill will be presented as soon as the Storthing meets in January.

WORK ON MISSISSIPPI BRIDGE AT LOUISIANA IS STARTED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISIANA, Mo., Nov. 12.—Barring a tie-up of operations on account of bad weather, contractors who have charge of the erection of a traffic bridge across the Mississippi River at this place, expect to make rapid progress with the work before winter sets in. The Missouri Bridge and Iron Co. of Leavenworth, Kas., contractor for substructure, has been working for several days, equipping a fleet of barges with hoisting apparatus and pumps.

The company is using a force of 50 men in getting its equipment installed and material yard cleared. Ground was broken Monday on the approach work by E. C. Johnson of Carrollton, Mo., contractor for grading and paving. Eight teams and a tractor were put to work the first day. The working force will be largely increased.

The work on the Illinois side of the river includes the building of a dump or embankment 1100 feet long, which will entail the handling of 44,000 yards of earth at an estimated expense of $19,360. Contractors, it is stated, expect to use as many farm teams as possible in order to give employment to farmers whose corn crop was destroyed by high water during the late summer.

Wife Granted Custody of Children.

Mrs. Florence Mandeville of Los Angeles, Cal., was granted permanent custody of her two children, Richard, 9 years old, and Raymond, 11, by Circuit Judge Wurdeman at Clayton today. A temporary order was granted Wednesday by Judge Wurdeman. The children lived with their father Kenneth W. Mandeville, of Webster Groves during the last two and a half years.

COMPLAINT REGARDING EXPORT OF INFERIOR GRAIN DISMISSED

Federal Trade Body Withdraws Charges Against Two Large American Shippers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Dismissal of a complaint charging the Barnes-Ames Co. of New York, and its subsidiary sales and shipping agent, the Barnes-Irwin Co. of Philadelphia, with injuring the reputation of United States exporters by delivering inferior wheat to foreign buyers, was announced today by the Federal Trade Commission.

Beyond saying that dismissal was recommended by its chief counsel, the commission made no explanation of its action, which was begun two years ago after Italian buyers had complained they had paid for wheat of high quality, but had received inferior grades.

The Barnes-Ames and Barnes-Irwin firms, which are described as the largest exporters of grain from the United States, denied all allegations of the complaint, and submitted that, if wheat leaving this country contained unusual amounts of foreign matter, the blame lay with Federal inspectors who tested and graded all shipments.

Relief comes instantly.

A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

Don't stay stuffed up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Paying tenants are quickly found through Post-Dispatch wants. Phone your want ad or leave it with your nearest druggist.

250,000 REDUCTION IN FRENCH ARMY PLANNED

Bills Sponsored by War Minister Also Cut Period of Service From 18 to 12 Months

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Reduction of the total number of men under arms in France from 650,000 to 400,000 is called for in three bills which will be introduced in the Chamber of Deputies on the re-opening of Parliament.

The measures also call for a reduction in the period of compulsory military service from 18 to 12 months.

The bills, which will be introduced by Minister of War Painleve, provide for the calling of conscripts at 21 instead of at 20 and for the recruiting of volunteers numbering more than 100,000. The volunteers will relieve the conscripts from "fatigue details." Under this system the young soldiers will devote their entire year's training to military instruction.

The contingents of conscription will be called up in half yearly sections in order to insure the presence under the flag of half the entire army with at least six months training.

War Minister Painleve estimates that the new law will increase the expenditures of the War Department at the beginning, but he proposes to make up additional sums needed from the sale and rental of idle property of the Department of War.

Calm such as is unknown in French political circles since the war prevails on the eve of tomorrow's reconvening of Parliament. The lobbies of the chamber were absolutely deserted this afternoon, a condition that is almost unprecedented in its history.

POLICEMAN AND COMPANION ON HUNTING TRIP WOUNDED

Both Struck with Buckshot When Shotgun Is Accidentlly Dropped on Rock.

Allie Lorton, 26 years old, a painter, of the Ritz Hotel, 1807 Market street, and Patrolman Charles S. Foster, 43 years old, of 4349 Lee avenue, suffered buckshot wounds Wednesday when Lorton's shotgun was accidentally discharged while they were hunting in a woods near Briscoe, Lincoln County. Lorton had been conducting a hunting resort at Briscoe.

Lorton's shotgun slipped out of his hands and over an embankment, striking a rock, and was discharged, the shot striking Foster's face and Lorton's hands and face, one slug penetrating his right eyelid. They were treated by a physician in Lincoln County, and later returned to St. Louis. Foster, who is attached to the Magnolia Avenue Police District, is back on duty. Lorton was removed yesterday from his hotel room to City Hospital.

WHICH IS PREFERRED?

Intestinal Putrefaction

Acidophilus

IF you want to have a clear skin, want to erase the dark circles from under your eyes, want glossy hair, and new strength, health and energy, re-supply your system with its natural Acidophilus and rid yourself of Intestinal Putrefaction.

Doctors and Medical scientists in both Europe and America claim that this prevalent condition is the great destroyer of youthful health and beauty and also that it causes many serious organic troubles. Today it collects its toll, unnecessarily, from practically every man and woman both young and old. Its marks are easily recognized—dull, graying hair, dark circles under the eyes, sallow, pasty complexion and that tired, "wan" look distort the appearance of countless victims.

MOYER'S Acid-O-Phil Tablets, harmless, economical and easy to take, simply restore and put back into the body the needed supply of the natural Acidophilus, which is nature's own perfect method of preventing and correcting Intestinal Putrefaction. In normal healthy infants the natural protecting acidophilus content is large and Intestinal Putrefaction unheard of. Each year of life, however, diminishes the acidophilus supply until, often by the time young manhood or womanhood is reached, this diminished natural supply is no longer able to overcome and prevent the insidious action of the common and poisonous germs of decay which are taken into the system along with food and cause Intestinal Putrefaction—re-supply the body with acidophilus is all that is required to banish Intestinal Putrefaction.

As a simple and economical test just try taking two Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets after every meal and at bedtime for four short weeks. You'll be surprised at how clear and firm your skin will become—at your improvement in looks and health. You'll have more strength and energy and feel like you've taken a new "lease on life." Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets are positively guaranteed to give you new health, beauty and energy, or your money back. Try them and see—there's not [illegible] like it, so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get the genuine Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets at all good druggists.

FOOD Home Economics GROCERIE

Canned Foods Week, a Boon To American Housekeepers

This Is the Time to Lay in the Season's Supply of Canned Foods for Winter Use.

THE United States is marking "Canned Foods Week" and it is but natural that American housewives will contribute largely to the success of the week.

Americans eat more canned foods than any other people, more both in quantity and variety. In the United States, canned foods, far from being a luxury, are an every-day food of all classes of people, used because they are at once convenient and economical and because they add variety and needed food values to the diet. This condition results from the fact that the American people as a whole are not only able to buy all they want and need, but also to choose the variety that their taste or their knowledge of food values suggests.

Successful canning, which means a product retaining to the highest degree the nutritive value and tastiness of the raw product, and the certain preservation of the food against spoilage, requires that the raw product be canned when it reaches its best state of ripeness, that there be applied the proper degree of heat to insure sterilization without detracting from the appearance and flavor, and that the cans or other containers be so sealed as to be perfectly air tight.

The outstanding characteristic of present-day canning is its work in the development and improvement of varieties of fruits and vegetables peculiarly adapted for canning.

Another, closely associated with this, is the location of canneries so that the raw materials go directly from the field to the factory and into the can. Quality in canned foods depends almost as much on prompt handling as on the character of the material handled, and modern canneries, with their wonderful mechanical equipment, have steadily reduced the time from the gathering of the products in the field to their final sealing in the can.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended by the canning industry in the last 20 years in the scientific study of canning problems. One of the most important of these is to find just what amount of heat is required, and for just what length of time, to sterilize various products. As a result of these studies both commercial and home canner have benefited, and canned foods have come to occupy a deservedly higher place in the food supply of the country.

Canned foods are just one more of the things that we in the U. S. have come to use and enjoy as a matter of course, and because they are so easily had and so easily prepared for the table most people fail to realize what a contrast there is between the varied diet of the American people and the more limited diets in less fortunate countries.

Well, supposing "Americans live out of the can." It is a trusty can and canned goods are our good standbys. We order canned goods when we like, and we vary our winter menus with the same ease that we assemble our summer menus when, we of the great Middle West, enjoy fresh fruits and green vegetables.

And what is as much to the point, the meal built around canned food products will be a perfectly balanced meal if the proper attention is given to its planning.

Then in the case of emergency the canned meal is oftentimes a lifesaver. It needs no cooking whatever and can be selected in many variations from the corner grocery; the small outpost store or taken entire from home. A canned or potted meat, a fish like tuna or mackerel in tomato sauce, asparagus tips with mayonnaise; these substantials and plenty of canned fruit and fancy—crackers make a meal that requires only a can-opener as the magic key to its preparation. Here are several carefully prepared menus in which canned goods are used exclusively. Each meal is fit to serve to Queen Marie as well as to the modern American family whose taste, probably, is far more exacting than any mere Queen's.

CANNED WISDOM

Terse Reasons for Using Certain Canned Products.

Remember that canned pineapple retains all of the health-giving properties of the fruit. Among these we find a principle that is very useful in helping the digestion of meat. The pineapple salad is one of the best combination salad and dessert courses to follow a rather heavy dinner.

Evaporated milk can be whipped stiff by the following process. Scald a can of evaporated milk in a double boiler for 5 minutes, cool it and put on the ice to chill. Stir the milk both while scalding and chilling to prevent a crust from forming. When it is thorougly cooled, whip it as you would fresh cream.

Sliced pineapple is primarily a ready-to-serve fruit — America's favorite. Its use in made-up dishes is limited to quick desserts and salads and to certain special dishes which require full slices of the fruit.

Crushed pineapple, on the other hand, is primarily a culinary ingredient. Served, chilled, right from the can (as "Pineapple Sauce") it is a delightful breakfast fruit—a particular favorite with children. But its peculiar advantage lies in the convenient, economical preparation of ices, sundaes, salads, pies, fruit-cups, punches and cooling, thirst-quenching drinks.

The most attractive way to serve condensed milk for your coffee is from a covered container (a marmalade or jam jar). Replenish from time to time and keep covered when not in use.

Chicken Pie.

Disjoint a baking chicken and place in a frying or baking pan which has been greased with a tablespoon of butter and two of lard. Brown the chicken well. Then add sufficient hot water to pan to cover fowl. Add salt and pepper to taste, a bit of sage, a a small bay leaf and a small onion, minced fine. While fowl is boiling, peel three large potatoes, or four of five small ones. Dice them and boil soft in salted water. Make a pastry as for pie, roll it thin and line a dripping pan with it. When fowl is half cooked remove from water and place in pan. Add the diced potatoes. Thicken the water in which fowl was boiled as for gravy. Pour gravy into pan, over the fowl and potatoes. Cover with a top crust, cutting several slits in the upper crust. Bake in a rather hot oven for about half an hour or until crust is well baked and browned.

BUY CANNED MUSHROOMS

Keep a Supply on Pantry Shelves.

French cooks, to who we are so deeply indebted for much that we know of culinary art, make extensive use of mushrooms. As the main element of a dish, in combination or in sauce, they are constantly to be found on good French dishes. Keep a few cans on the shelf for mushroom sauce on beef, particularly when yesterday's roast is reheated. They make an excellent sauce for spaghetti, and a mushroom omelet is something to tempt any epicure. Creamed mushrooms on toast or in pattys are a luncheon dish par excellence. The domestically canned mushrooms give the same results of flavor and food value as the more expensive imported variety.

Mixing Mustard.

Mustard must be freshly mixed with cold water to insure its true and full value. Mix the mustard with cold water, in the proportion of two teaspoons of mustard to two teaspoons of water. Stir well into a smooth paste. Allow to stand 10 minutes before using. Mix only a small quantity at a time and mix it fresh every time you serve it. Do not mix with vinegar or hot water.

BUY PREPARED SOUP FROM YOUR GROCER

Soup Is a Wholesome and Healthful Stimulant to the Appetite.

EVERY housewife knows that if the family appetites are good, her meals will be enjoyed. She realizes that more than half her daily battle is won if those who assemble at her dining table are attracted at once by the food and start the meal eagerly.

To win this victory, good hot, appetizing soup is most helpful. Soup is invaluable as a wholesome, healthful stimulant to the appetite. The blended flavors of many different ingredients in soup appeal instantly to the sense of taste, arouse it, make it vigorous and keen.

Serving soup regularly is one of the most important secrets of successful planning of the meals. Apart from the splendidly nourishing value of soup, which it shares with other foods, it helps to keep the appetite active and healthy. In doing this it also has a beneficial effect on the digestion. Soup causes the digestive fluids to flow more freely. The result is that food is eaten in greater quantity and assimilated into the body tissue more promptly.

Visit your grocer and familiarize yourself with all the delightful and different kinds of soups you will find there, already prepared and cooked for you by makers of world-wide reputation. Tempting vegetable purees, such as tomato, pea, celery, asparagus and bean soups which, by the way, you will often serve as cream soups. Hearty substantial soups, such as vegetable, vegetable-beef, beef, ox tail, mock turtle, mulligatawny, chicken, chicken-gumbo, pepper pod and clam chowder. Dainty clear soups such as consomme, bouillon, bulienne printanier, clam bouillon. An almost endless variety.

Above all do not overlook soup as one of the ideal foods for your children! And what a help the different soups are to the mother so anxious to keep digestions sound and little bodies sturdy! The vegetable soups, and the cream soups especially, are splendid for the children.

Get the Iron You Need By Eating Baked Beans

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

In the composition of the human body a great many minerals are found. Some of them are there in comparatively small quantities, but nevertheless they are vital to the growth and operation of the body.

Nature is very provident. Many of the essential elements are stored up in the body. There are reserves which can be called upon when for one reason or another a regular intake is impossible. For instance, in the bones of the body are found reserves of lime and phosphorus. If the feeding does not furnish these elements in sufficient quantities, the reserve can be called upon, and unless the ordinary supply is cut off for a long time, no harm results.

This is not true of all the minerals. For instance, reserve stocks of iron are not found. On this account it is necessary to have an unfailing intake of iron or serious harm results.

There is an element in the blood known as hemoglobin. It has a most important function. Without a steady supply of iron this function is disturbed.

The red blood corpuscles are in a sense freight cars carrying oxygen to every part of the body. These corpuscles crowd through the tiny blood vessels in a part of the lung where the wall of the blood vessel and the wall of the air cell are so thin that the oxygen of the breathed-in air passes through into the blood where it is picked up by the red corpuscles.

While the figure is somewhat strained, it may be said that the hemoglobin corresponds to the persons who load freight cars. Even though there is an abundance of cargo waiting to be put on the freight cars, unless these men work the cargo is not loaded upon the cars.

It is just the same way with the disposal of the oxygen and its transportation to the remote parts of the body. Unless the workmen, the hemoglobin, do their part, the red cells will make their trip without being loaded.

The chief constituent of the hemoglobin is iron. Without iron the hemoglobin in the red corpuscles cannot function. The wise man sees to it that his iron supply is provided for every day.

You cannot get the iron you need by taking iron fillings or chewing carpet tacks. You cannot get the iron you need by taking pills or powders. You cannot get it out of a bottle. The way to get iron is by a proper selection of foods.

One of the foods richest in iron is the bean. Of course nobody is going to chew a lot of dried beans in order to get iron, but everybody loves baked beans. By eating baked beans as well as the other foods which contain iron there will be no trouble about getting a sufficient quantity of this mineral to supply the needs of the body.

Boston is supposed to be the home of the bean and the cod. Boston baked beans have become famous. There is no locality on the face of the earth now, however, but has its own supply of baked beans. Every grocery and every delicatessen store shows an assortment of canned or tinned, baked beans. They can be bought with or without tomato sauce, but no matter what their flavoring may be there is no better way of getting iron than by eating baked beans.

Cranberry Salad

Cranberry and Banana Salad

On a chilled salad plate, arrange crisp leaves of lettuce. In the center, place a banana from which the ends have been cut. Garnish with mayonnaise, and just before serving, place two heaping teaspoons of ten-minute Cranberry Sauce on each side of the banana.

Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce

1 lb. (4 cups) cranberries, 2 cups boiling water, 1½ to 2 cups sugar (¾ to 1 lb.). Boil sugar and water together for 5 minutes; add the cranberries and boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins are broken. Remove from the fire when the popping stops.

Here's a NEW and tempting salad—just the thing for luncheon, tea or supper. Perfectly balanced flavors—the tart, tangy cranberry taste blends so well with mellow banana and smooth mayonnaise. In salads—cranberries blend well with oranges, pineapples, pears or peaches, and any of these may be substituted for bananas in the recipe.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

New Ways of Preparing and Serving Your Favorite Foods.

One pound canned salmon, two eggs, one-half cup breadcrumbs or cracker crumbs, three tablespoons margarin, one teaspoon minced parsley.

Break the cold salmon into bits. Add the beaten eggs. Combine the margarin with the crumbs and parsley and season with salt and pepper to taste. Combine the mixtures until there is a smooth mass. Place in a buttered and covered baking dish and steam or bake for one hour. Serve hot with brown gravy.

Orange Layer Cake.

Three cups flour, one-half cup butter, two eggs, one orange, two teaspoons baking powder, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup boiling water, one-quarter teaspoon bicarbonate of soda.

Cream the butter and sugar and add the beaten eggs. Have ready the grated rind of the orange and stir in one teaspoon of this. Sift the dry materials and measure and sift again, combining the baking powder, salt and flour. These are added to the first mixture. Have the soda dissolved in the water and add this with the orange juice alternately. Stir until very creamy. Bake in greased layer cake tins in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

Prepare the filling as follows:

Two egg whites, grated orange peel of one orange, juice from two large oranges, two cups confectioners' sugar.

Beat the eggs well with the sugar and add the orange juice. Then add the grated peel and spread between the layers and on top of the cake, taking care to have the filling quite thick.

Twin Mountain Muffins.

Two cups flour, one-quarter cup sugar, one egg, five level teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter cup butter, one cup milk.

Cream the butter and add the sugar slowly, then the beaten egg. Sift the dry materials together and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Bake in a buttered muffin pan for about 25 minutes.

Kidney Ragout.

Soak lambs' kidneys in lukewarm water for about an hour. After draining and cleaning the kidneys, they should be sliced and seasoned with salt and pepper and dredged with flour. Have ready a sliced onion, which has been browned in butter. Add to this three tablespoons of flour and one-quarter of a cup of brown gravy. Cook this sauce until smooth and set aside until kidneys are sauted. Reheat the sauce and pour over the kidneys. Serve hot on toast.

If this dish is desired for luncheon add one-half cup of mushroom caps to the sauce.

Jack Straw Salad.

Clean and scrub tender carrots; scrape and cut in straw-shaped pieces. See that they are very crisp and cold and serve these "straws" artistically arranged on lettuce beds. There is opportunity here for considerable individuality. The "straws" may be arranged in fanciful designs. The dressing may be any desired salad dressing.

Baked Apple Dumplings.

Sift together one pint flour, one tablespoon sugar and a pinch of salt. Add a tablespoon of butter or sweet lard, mix same as for biscuits. Roll to one inch thick, cut with biscuit cutter. After rolling each biscuit as thin as pie crust, place upon each a few slices of tart cooking apples with one spoon sugar and a little grated nutmeg. As you fold, moisten the edges of the dough to keep it together, leaving hole on top. Butter a deep baking dish, place the dumplings in it with a small piece of butter on each and fill in between with sugar and a little nutmeg, then pour boiling water on the sugar until the dumplings float. Bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Snow Pudding.

To make this ever favorite pudding take six tablespoons cornstarch, one-half cup milk, two tablespoons sugar, two cups water, juice of one lemon and two egg whites. Boil sugar and water together, add cornstarch dissolved in milk and lemon juice and continue boiling. Add egg whites. Take off stove, pour in mold and allow to cool. Serve with this apricot sauce. One cup of dried apricots, sugar to taste and three cups of water.

Wash and soak the dried fruit. Cook it in three cups water until very soft. Rub through sieve and put back into a saucepan. Add sugar to taste and bit of lemon juice. Use with snow pudding.

Do You Know Why?

Canned vegetables should be used because:

1. They contain vitamines essential to growth and health.
2. They supply the body with bulky material and water necessary for normal elimination.
3. They help to balance a diet which contains meat, fish, eggs, cheese, peas, beans and cereals.
4. Some contain valuable minerals.

Because they are essentially the same as fresh except in antiscorbutic properties, they may be substituted for fresh vegetables when conditions require. They do not take the place of raw or fresh vegetables.

FOOD

Onion Souffle.

Cook onions in boiling salted water until soft, drain and force through a sieve; there should be one and one-fourth cups onion pulp. Melt four tablespoons butter, add four tablespoons flour and pour on gradually one-third cup water in which onions have been cooked and one-third cup cream; then add onion pulp and bring to the boil point. Season with salt and pepper. Beat yolks of three eggs until thick and lemon colored and add to first mixture. Cut and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a baking dish and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once.

It sure is keen!

USE CANNED FRUITS FOR FANCY DESSERTS

Dishes Attractive to the Eye, Palatable and Easily Digested.

It is the dictum of the dietician that if we wish to be nourished at a high level of efficiency, the day's meals should include at least two servings of fruit.

No food lends itself better to varied service than fruit and it may both begin and end the meal. Salads, pies, beverages and many other dishes may be made wholly or in part of fruit. Tempt the family appetite with a few of these delectable dishes made from canned fruits, satisfying their dietetic need without extra effort.

Cherry Pudding.

Strain the fruit from one can of red sour cherries. Put the cherries in a greased baking dish. Sift two cups of prepared cake flour and mix it with two-thirds of a cup of water, beat well and pour over fruit. Bake in a moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes. A sauce is made by thickening the cherry syrup and flavoring it with lemon extract.

Canned Peach Pudding.

Put six large halves of canned peaches through a colander, add one beaten egg, one-half a cup of milk, one-half cup of sugar, one cup and one-half of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Lastly, stir in two tablespoonfuls of melted butter The batter should be quite stiff, and more flour should be added if it is too thin. Pour one-half of the mixture into a greased pudding dish, place over it six whole halves of peaches, hollow side up and the cavity filled with red jelly or strawberry jam, pour the remainder of the batter over, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for half an hour, or until done. Sift granulated sugar over the top, and set under the gas flame or on the top shelf of the oven until the sugar is melted and turns brown.

Canned Fruit Pie.

Drain liquor from cherries and peaches. Line deep dish with crust, lay in halved peaches and a half cherry in each hollow, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Lay the second crust over and put more halved peaches and cherries in, sprinkle with sugar, put on top crust and bake.

—her old-time recipe with choice buckwheat flour added

Every so often there comes to men a longing from boyhood days—a hankering for "buckwheats" that are really good—for fragrant cakes with that old-time "kick". MAKE TASTY SALADS OF CANNED FRUITS

Easily Made Are These Delicious Dishes of Canned Fruits.

Canned fruits offer great possibilities for salads. Cherries, particularly, are the basis for several delicious salads the recipes for which follow;

Cherries and pears seem to make a friendly combination of flavor and color. Place the halves of pears on crisp leaves of lettuce and surround with stoned cherries. Serve with a dressing made of cream cheese, salad oil and fruit juices or with a boiled dressing thinned with cream.

Another salad finds the cherry in combination with cucumber and almonds. Take a pint of cherries. Pare and dice a medium-sized cucumber. Chop one-half cup of almonds. Mix together and chill. Serve with a slightly sweetened French dressing made with the cherry, and lemon juice and salad oil.

In another salad pineapple and cherries are used. Remove pits from either dark red or white canned cherries. In place of each pit place a blanched almond or a pecan meat or stuff the cherries with a cream cheese mixture or combine the cheese and nuts and use as stuffing.

Mix with shreds of pineapple or heap the stuffed cherries in the center of a slice of canned pineapple and serve on lettuce with any modification of French dressing desired.

Canned Fruit Salad.

On a bed of Romaine lettuce, which has been cut one-third the length of the head, place two inverted halves of pears, leaving a space between the halves. In this space put a row of halved and seeded grapes. Serve with spiced cream dressing.

Spicel Cream Dressing.

Take one cup of mayonnaise dressing, one-half cup spiced currants, two tablespoons minced ginger and one-fourth cup yhipped cream.

Pineapple Salad.

Dice one can of pineapple and one large cucumber. Take the juice of the pineapple and heat. Dissolve one package of gelatine in a little cold water. Mix the gelatine with the pineapple juice, to which two tablespoons of vinegar and one-half teaspoon of salt has been added. Pour this over the diced pineapple and cucumber. Set aside until jelled. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Canned Pear Salad.

Arrange the halved pears, rounded side up, on white lettuce leaves, using individual plates. Place a cube of tart jelly in the core cavity of each halved pear. Then "frost" each half with cream cheese which has been moistened with enough cream to enable it to be spread smoothly. Serve with mayonnaise dressing. If the knife used for spreading the "frosting" is occasionally dipped in boiling water the process will be much simpler.

Porcupine Salad.

Blanch, shred and brown Jordan almonds, cover the halves of peaches, with a creamy salad dressing. Place on a lettuce leaf round side up, and stick the shredded almonds in to form rows.

USE EVAPORATED MILK

Use It for Cream Sauce for Vegetables.

Creamed vegetables must combine a delicious cream richness with the full flavor of the vegetable—and yet how often all the "taste" of the vegetable is cooked off and thrown away!

A certain amount of the mineral salts and other valuable properties of the vegetable escape into the water in which the vegetables are cooked. In many kitchens it is the wasteful practice to drain off and throw away this liquid. Thus there is a loss not only of some of the nutritive value, but of those very elements which give zest and flavor to the vegetables.

The difficulty in retaining this liquid arises from the fact that ordinary milk is the creaming agent in many kitchens, and it is not rich enough to permit dilution. If the vegetable liquid is reduced to a state of wateriness from which nothing can rescue it. Hence it has become a general practice, as the lesser of two evils, to discard the vegetable liquid in favor of greater creaminess.

Evaporated milk, however, enables the cook to retain the flavor and the nutritive value of the vegetable, and still achieve the delicious richness on which the tastiness depends. Because of its more than double richness it can be diluted with an equal quantity of water and still be richer than ordinary milk—diluted with two parts of water it is better than the milk usually used for cooking. The combination of evaporated milk and the vegetable liquid produces a savory sauce with the full value of both vegetable and whole milk richness.

Few foods equal canned salmon in convenience of preparation. It comes to the housewife in pound or half-pound cans. It can be kept indefinitely when unopened and is quickly prepared in an emergency.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

The Family's Health Depends Upon Nutritious Food and Balanced Meals.

By way of still another slight change in the general plan we have served cereal for the first three days of the week and none for the last three. Notice that samp appears on Monday. This is a coarse form of corn, or, as it is sometimes termed, coarse hominy. The dish is still known in the South where it is considered rather inferior to fine hominy. In that section samp is used mostly as a vegetable in place of potatoes. Northerners are more apt to like it with cream and sugar for a breakfast cereal. The housekeeper should be very careful to cook this form of corn very thoroughly as otherwise it will prove indigestible.

Remember that cabbage is one of the less expensive vegetables that is to be had for a large proportion of the year. Served in the form of a cream soup, it adds body building, three of the most important vitamins and several of the indispensable mineral salts to the dietary. Served as a cooked, hot vegetable it does all the above things with the addition of providing a reasonable quantity of roughage. Best of all, when it is served crisply cold and uncooked, it is a real rejuvenator of the stomach. If there is one quality more than another that stands out as most important in the case of cabbage, it is the power possessed by this vegetable to correct stomach disturbances. It contributes alkaline material so that if there is any tendency to acidosis, emphasis is at once put on the proper place in the dietary.

The squash pie served at Sunday dinner is really a very toothsome left-over after having been served as a Saturday night vegetable Speaking of leftovers, Sunday night main dish is plain cold sliced chicken and the Monday dinner soup is a cream of chicken both derived from the roast of Sunday dinner. Then there is the veal loaf of Wednesday's luncheon which is the second appearance of Tuesday's roast.

It is suggested that another very desirable way to serve veal or chicken loaf is with a mixed vegetable salad. Such a combination makes a meal in itself.

Jack Straw salad served for Thursday's luncheon brings up recollections of our childhood days when we were not allowed to eat raw carrots. Times have changed We know that raw scraped and finely sliced carrots are not only harmless, but very beneficial used judiciously as a salad.

Crushed pineapple is ready for use the minute you open the can. It eliminates all the trouble of cutting or grating.

CANNED ASPARAGUS OFFERS VARIETY

This Aristocrat of Vegetables Adds New Zest to Any Meal.

There is no end to the number of ways in which canned asparagus may be served to put variety and delicacy into everyday meals. There are the cool, refreshing salads and appetizers especially suited for the summer. For either summer or winter, soups, hot vegetable dishes, meat substitutes, and unusual main course combinations, all offer opportunities for putting distinction into the menu with the use of asparagus.

Here are some suggestions for asparagus dishes suitable for special occasions:

Asparagus Canape or Cocktail Louis, served as an appetizer, may be the first course for a formal luncheon or dinner.

Asparagus Ring with Chicken Salad is a very attractive guest luncheon or supper dish. This ring may be made a day in advance, adding chicken salad before serving.

Asparagus Salad in Aspic Rings looks very dainty and professional. It really is easy to prepare and can be readily made by the novice in cookery. The rings should be prepared a day before required.

Asparagus Hollandaise is suitable for the most elaborate banquet or formal dinner.

Creamed Asparagus in patty shells or bread cases can be used for the entree course for a company dinner or luncheon.

Asparagus Polonaise is a very fine dinner dish when rich sauces are not wanted.

Noodle Ring with Creamed Asparagus is suitable for the main course of a luncheon or the entree course of a dinner.

Asparagus and Cheese Souffle can be used as a dinner vegetable or a luncheon main dish.

Salmon Salad.

Measure one pint boiling water, remove two tablespoonsful, and use two tablespoonsful lemon juice instead. Add one-fourth teaspoonful salt and dissolve a package of lemon gelatin in the hot liquid. Place a little clear gelatin in the bottom of any shape mould (an ordinary glass bowl will answer the purpose) and set in ice box or, if possible, pack in ice. When like molasses in consistency press in one cup of red salmon and let this layer harden. Then add another layer of gelatin and while thickening, one cup green peas. When again firm add last layer of gelatin and one cup carrots, diced. Set away to mould for at least two hours. Serve garnished with green leaves and salad dressing.

CANNED VEGETABLES COMBINE WELL

Modern Cooks Combine Canned Vegetables as They Do Fresh Vegetables.

How many housewives are awake to the possibilities of combining canned vegetables into savory dishes of great food value? Now that America is specializing on canned products, the wise cook will not only have her kitchen closet shelves loaded down with canned tomatoes, soups, beans, spinach, sweet potatoes, sauer kraut, hominy, pease, mushrooms, artichokes, salmon, prunes, beets, lima beans, corn and Brussels sprouts but she should also make combination dishes out of them.

For instance, one of the best food combinations comes already canned. This is a succotash, corn and lima beans combined. If your household professes a fondness for succotash, try a new kind which combines corn and stringless beans, a can each, well flavored and baked for a few minutes in the oven.

A Ragout.

For an entree or side dish, try spaghetti ragout. Empty a can of spaghetti, medium size, and a can of thick meat soup, oxtail, mulligatawny or mock turtle, into a baking dish. Add seasoning, cover with bread crumbs and brown in the oven.

Kidney Beans.

A vegetarian dish that is excellent for fall campers is made of a can of spaghetti, a can of kidney beans and one of tomato sauce. Mix the three and let them warm slowly together. The mixture of flavors and the satisfying nature of the dish will make you want to try it again.

Spinach Dish.

Another excellent dish which contains needed food elements is spinach and rice, to which cheese is added to give flavor and protein content. Put the boiled rice, canned spinach and grated cheese in a baking dish in layers, add some of the water from the can for moistening and make cheese the top layer. This is an unusual dish that should find immediate favor with the housewife's jury of critics, her family.

Bean Croquettes.

Drain liquid from a can of beans press through a coarse colander. Add one tablespoon of melted butter and several tablespoons of crumbs, mix well. Shape into croquettes and dip in egg yolk diluted with a little cold water. Roll in seasoned crumbs and fry in hot fat. Add to the diluted liquid from the beans, three tablespoons ketchup and thicken with one tablespoon of flour. Serve as a sauce for the croquettes.

Vegetable Meal.

Lima beans, for instance, are rich in protein and carbohydrate and when a can of beans is combined with a can of tomato, which has such a large mineral content, a balanced meal is found in that one dish. Heat them together and add white sauce, if necessary, to thicken, and season with salt and pepper.

NUTRITION NUGGETS

Chunks of Wisdom Concerning What We Eat.

Such desserts as trifle with its variations are especially good for children. They represent considerable food value because of the custard which makes up a large share of their composition. When fruit is added in the form of sauce or jelly, this also increases the energy value of the dessert without interfering with its digestibility.

Although they do not contain a high percentage of body-building material, broiled or cooked mushrooms may be looked upon as an acceptible meat substitute. Usually when they appear as part of a vegetable dinner or as the main dish of supper or luncheon other nourishing dishes appear on the menu such as cheese or custardy desserts.

Parsnips are one of the less popular of the vegetables, and it is worth while to put considerable thought on preparing them in such a way as to make them toothsome. They are not especially high in food value, but they do afford a good bulky dish to add to a vegetable dinner. The cellulose that they contain is useful in furnishing part of the necessary bulk.

To Cook Cereal.

Fill the lower part of a double boiler one-third full of water. Place over the fire. Measure the water needed for the cereal and pour it into the top of the double boiler. Place over the fire, and when the water begins to boil, add the salt and the cereal slowly and let boil over the fire 10 minutes. Place over the lower part of the double boiler containing water, cover and let steam until ready to serve. If more water is needed during cooking, add boiling water.

Add cereal mush to meat loaf mixtures in place of bread crumbs, or both may be added.

Add cereal mush to croquette mixtures.

USE CANNED MILK

It Never Varies in Quality and Richness.

Milk—besides serving as a most necessary item in our daily diet—plays a very important part in modern cookery. A large number of recipes nowadays call for milk as an important ingredient. Every experienced cook knows, however, that there is a big difference in milks. Quality and richness vary greatly.

If you have experienced the disappointment of having one of your favorite recipes go wrong for no apparent reason whatever, you may be reasonably sure, assuming you followed directions carefully, that the milk used was not up to standard.

Thousands of expert cooks use nothing but canned milk in their kitchens because they have found that it never varies in quality and richness and, therefore, is always dependable.

Canned milk is just pure, fresh milk brought to double richness by the evaporation of approximately 60 per cent of its natural water content and kept safe by sterilization in hermetically sealed containers. It contains no sugar or other preservatives. It stays fresh and sweet in the can indefinitely until opened—and for several days after the can is opened if kept in a cool, clean place.

The contents of a tall size can, when diluted with a little more than an equal part of water, gives an overflowing quart of pure milk. This is about the proper consistency for use in all recipes that call for milk.

Parisian Cream.

SAVORY SEAFOODS REGALE THE PALATE

For Main Dishes Seafoods Are Both Appetizing and Delicious.

Canned seafoods are increasing in popularity every day as the housewife is given the opportunity to educate the family taste to the culinary delights of canned shrimps, canned salmon, canned lobster, canned sardines, canned tuna fish, canned crabmeat, canned oysters and the other less savory canned ceafoods.

Here are several recipes for using canned seafoods which will appeal to the lover of this type of food.

Shrimp Wiggle.

One-half teaspoon salt, four teaspoons butter, two tablespoons flour, pinch cayenne pepper, melted together, stirring constantly, then pour in gradually one and one-half cups milk as soon as it thickens. Add one cup shrimps broken in pieces and one cup peas after draining from liquor. Cook after adding shrimps, only enough to heat through well.

Scalloped Oysters.

Take one pint of oysters, four tablespoons oyster liquid, one cup of rich cream, two cups cracker crumbs, one-half cup melted butter, salt and pepper.

Place crumbs in a bowl and pour melted butter over them, and blend thoroughly. Put a layer of crumbs in the bottom of shallow baking dish, cover with oysters and sprinkle with salt and pepper, and one-half each oyster liquor and cream, another layer of crumbs and oysters, then a final layer of crumbs, salt and pepper and milk and liquor; bake 20 to 30 minutes in hot oven, and serve very hot in same dish in which it is cooked.

Sardine Croquettes.

To make sardine croquettes, remove the skin and backbone from two dozen small sardines. Drain off the oil, season with plenty of paprika, then mash to a paste. Add two beaten eggs and enough cracker crumbs to form little balls. Fry in hot, deep fat until brown and serve with sliced lemon or tomato sauce.

Crabmeat Croquettes.

Take a pint of solid crabmeat. Put a pint of cream in a small saucepan. Rub together one table spoon of butter and three rounding tablespoons of flour, add to the cream and stir until you have a thoroughly thick, smooth paste; add the beaten yolks of two eggs, take from the fire, and add two hard-boiled eggs, chopped fine, and tablespoonful of chopped parsley, an even tablespoonful of salt, a dash of red pepper and half a teaspoonful of onion juice. Mix, stir in the crabmeat and turn out to cool. When cold form into tiny pyramids, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry in smoking hot fat. Serve with a white sauce.

Salmon Chowder.

Prepare and shred salmon and add to a thin white sauce—half cup salmon to cup sauce, which was first cooked 20 minutes. Cook two together 10 minutes. Vary in many ways with onion, salt pork, etc.

Salmon Hash.

Take fish from can, pick over carefully, shred, add to it an equal measure of mashed potato, a little salt and pepper and enough cream or rich milk to make the whole of a creamy consistency. Bake in a thin cake and serve in squares. Can be varied with crumbs, etc.

Lobster Salad.

Take four cups canned lobster, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup celery, diced, one-eighth spoon paprika. Dice the lobster. Mix ingredients together and marinate in French dressing. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves with the lobster piled in the center of dish. Decorate with slices of hard cooked egg, capers and pickles. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Tuna Fish Salad.

Take one and one-half cups of canned tuna fish, one and one-half cups celery, diced, three tablespoons capers, two tablespoons chopped pimento, one teaspoon salt, two hard cooked eggs and one teaspoon parika. Combine the ingredients and marinate with French dressing. Before serving moisten well with mayonnaise dressing. Serve in lettuce cups with garnish of eggs, capers and pimento.

Cooking Prunes.

The essence of this rule is to cook gently and not too long. The skin may be too soft to be agreeable, and the whole too ragged or mushy if overcooked. Inspect fruit discard ragged pieces to use otherwise, wash and rinse. If extra dirty let a second water stand on them a few minutes, then rub each prune from it as before. Soak from 12 to 24 hours in water to cover. Bring slowly to a boil and cook gently for half an hour or merely till tender. The kind of utensil used, and the size of the prunes determines the amount of water to use to soak and then cook them in. The average is two cups. The prunes should be kept covered both while they are soaking and while they are being cooked. Prunes correctly cooked are agreeable without any addition of sugar and may be disagreeable with it. One of the many ways to finish them is to drain them from liquid, cook it down considerably, or until it is sirupy and then pour it over the prunes, from which the seeds have been removed and the cut edges folded in. Left on a plate, covered, for a day these will dry slightly and the skin will be as bright as though glazed. Used for garnishing desserts or even meats.

HINTS ON FAT FRYING

Temperature Testing and Care Assure Good Results.

Use deep kettle, preferably of iron or heavy cast aluminum, so that there will be no danger of overturning on the stove.

Use enough fat to completely cover the food to be cooked, but be careful not to have the kettle more than two-thirds full or the hot fat might bubble over the top during the frying process.

Heat the fat to the proper temperature, as gauged by a termometer or by the standard bread test. Special deep frying thermometers can be purchased at a very reasonable price, but the bread test serves very well, if you have no thermometer.

Drop an inch cube of bread into the hot fat. When it browns in a certain length of time, the fat is ready to cook certain types of foods. Foods which have been previously cooked naturally do not need as long a cooking in the fat as do those which are put into the kettle raw. The previously cooked foods simply need browning, so the fat can be very hot. The following table gives both the thermometer and bread tests:

Kind of food.	Temperature (F.) Degrees.	Time for Bread. Seconds.
Fritters	365—75	60
Croquettes, Codfish balls, etc	385—90	40
French fried potatoes	400—10	20

Always save all sour cream and use it in place of milk and shortening in muffins, cake, cookies and waffles. Half a teaspoon of soda should be added to each cup of the cream.

WILSON'S
UNSWEETENED STERILIZED
EVAPORATED MILK
Save the Blue and White Wilson's Milk Labels

WHEN you buy Wilson's you get PURE FRESH MILK—sealed and sterilized in cans for your convenience. True, Wilson's is richer—double-rich in fact—because part of the water is removed by evaporation. Otherwise it is unchanged. Nothing added—nothing taken away but the water. All evaporated milks are not the same. Try Wilson's and you'll see the difference.

A FULL QUART OF RICHNESS
in Each Large Wilson's Can

Because it is double-rich you may dilute a large can of Wilson's Milk with an equal amount of water and you will have a full quart of whole milk, that is richer than the legal standard. Diluted in this proportion, Wilson's serves every milk need—economically. And for all cream needs you use the double-rich Wilson's Milk just as it comes from the can—and save half the cost of cream.

CREAMED CHIPPED BEEF

½ lb. dried beef—2 tablespoons butter—1 cup Wilson's Milk diluted with 1 cup water—2½ tablespoons flour—pepper—1 tablespoon butter.

WHITE SOX SIGN RAY SCHALK TO REPLACE COLLINS AS MANAGER

Diminutive Backstop Says He Will Continue Catching; Is 5th New Leader Chosen

Comiskey Offers No Explanation of Change, but Declares Ray Is "Entitled to a Chance to Handle the Club Because He Has Been One of Its Hardest Workers."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Ray Schalk, diminutive backstop, who has accumulated a mitt full of records in the 1600 games he has caught for the Chicago White Sox, will be out to capture a few managerial records next season. Schalk is the fifth new major league manager to be signed this fall.

The fiery backstop, who couldn't find a Sox uniform small enough to fit him when he joined the team 14 years ago, has been named pilot of the South Siders by President Charles A. Comiskey, succeeding Eddie Collins, manager the last two seasons.

Collins, once a member of the famous $100,000 infield of the Philadelphia Athletics, probably will be given his unconditional release, and may return to the team he left 11 years ago. Waivers have been asked on the former keystone king.

Comiskey offered little comment on the change other than a statement that "Schalk always gave the game his best efforts and has been one of the hardest workers on the club, and I feel that he is entitled to the chance of leading the club which he has served so well."

Schalk Will Do the Receiving.

Schalk said he expected to be working behind the bat as usual next season, besides handling the team. "I feel that we have a pretty good ball team now," he said, "but of course we will try to build it up still stronger.

"I can see where we need some building up on the infield and perhaps on the pitching staff, but those things will be taken care of later." His contract is for one year.

Collins, reported to have received $25,000 as a player manager, was out of the game much of last season because of injuries. He received word of the change at his home in Lansdowne, a suburb of Philadelphia, where he had just returned from a hunting trip, declared the news was a surprise to him and said he would have no statement to make until he had received official notification.

Connie Mack "Surprised and Shocked."

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, spoke of the action as a "great surprise and shock," but declined to say whether he would try to get Collins to return to the Athletics. Gossip here named Collins as a possible manager of the Athletics, while rumors also were current that he might become leader of the Boston Red Sox.

In 1920 Schalk hung up a record for catching 151 games, and he was behind the plate in 100 or more games for 12 years, 11 of them consecutive. He also holds the record for greatest number of games caught, topping the mark of "Chief" Meyers of the Giants.

Schalk was purchased from the Milwaukee American League club in 1912 for $12,000, a large price at that time. He had joined Milwaukee in 1911, after playing his first professional ball with the Taylorville, Ill. club. He is 32 years old.

The White Sox change of managers is the fifth to be announced since the close of the baseball season. New pilots will guide the Phillies, the Pittsburg Pirates, the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Browns next season.

Five New Leaders Named, Two More Are 'On the Iron'

SINCE the major league season closed six managers have been deposed, five new managers have been announced, and one more is expected. In addition, another American League club is expected to depose its leader.

The new managers are: "Stuffy" McInnis, Philadelphia Nationals; Donie Bush, Pittsburg Pirates; George Moriarty, Detroit; Dan P. Howley, St. Louis, and Schalk. The Boston Red Sox have released Fohl, but have not chosen a new manager.

Tris Speaker of the Cleveland club is slated for release, according to news items published some weeks ago.

Greenleaf Can Gain Lead Today

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—With Erwin Rudolph of Chicago idle today, Ralph Greenleaf of New York had an opportunity to tie him for first place in the world's pocket billiard championship tournament at the Elks Club.

Neither Rudolph nor Greenleaf has lost a game, but the Chicagoan has played one more than the New Yorker, the former having five victories to his credit and the latter only four. Greenleaf was scheduled today to meet Arthur Ponzi of Philadelphia, who has won only two of his five matches.

The standing:

	Won	Lost
Erwin Rudolph, Chicago	5	0

GUS KLEMME AND CARL DIETZ SHINE IN HORSESHOE PLAY

Carl Dietz and Gus U. Klemme of the champion Curlee team of the Municipal Horse Shoe League, with 153 and 136 points respectively, have moved into third and fourth places in the standing of the qualifying round of the individual horseshoe pitching tournament, being held in connection with the Horse Show at the Coliseum.

The Sunset players are Jack Claves, Frank Meyer, Luke Bieler, Norman Cleeland and "Bud" Horton, while Leo Reilly is the Curlee player. Howard Ennis of the Sunsets and James Putman of Mokane, Mo., will pitch their qualifying shoes tomorrow afternoon.

The finals which will consist of a round robin of match play among the eight players totaling the highest in the qualifying round, will start at 5 p. m. tomorrow. Each of the eight players will meet each other in one 50-point game, with total games won and lost to decide the championship. The eight players will divide $125 in cash, while a trophy will go to the winner.

PITTSBURG-LAFAYETTE RELATIONS ARE OFF FOR YEAR AT LEAST

By the Associated Press.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 12.—Football relations between the University of Pittsburg and Lafayette have been discontinued, for a year at least, after seven successive meetings on the gridiron.

Authorities at Lafayette announced that Pitt had refused to journey to Easton for a game next year, and that Lafayette was unwilling to go to Pittsburg again, as six of the seven games since 1919 had been played there.

No ill feeling exists between the institutions, it is stated.

This is the third break of the season between Eastern elevens. The other ties cut were Army and Syracuse, because of roughness, and Harvard and Princeton, because of general ill feeling.

Will Defend Title.

The Internationals, last year's champions, will defend their title in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Playground Ball League against the Wabash Club tomorrow afternoon at Sherman Park at 2:30.

Three Big Football Games To Be Broadcast by KSD Direct From Playing Fields

A PLAY by play account of three of the most interesting football games this season will be broadcast by the Post-Dispatch direct from the gridirons. These contests are:

Yale vs. Princeton, Nov. 13.
Harvard vs. Yale, Nov. 20.
Army vs. Navy, Nov. 27.

Just as the world series baseball games were broadcast by KSD direct from the diamond and made real to every listener what was taking place in the ball park, so these football classics, the college songs, the cheering, the bands, and a description of the plays, will come to followers of the game by radio. The announcer and his microphone will be right along the playing field.

Cleveland Loses Coover But Still Is Favorite To Win From Central

Football Captain's Collarbone Broken in Practice—Roosevelt Expected to Defeat Rebuilt Beaumont Eleven in Game This Weekend.

The league-leading Cleveland High School football team will attempt to dispose of another claimant for the 1926 championship in the second and feature game of tomorrow's doubleheader at Roosevelt Field, when Bert Fenenga's eleven meets Central High. In the first game Roosevelt will tackle a rebuilt Beaumont team, the North Siders having used a two weeks' layoff to good advantage in recuperating from pre-season injuries.

Cleveland nosed out Roosevelt last week, but in the game Joe Hahn, 190-pound Cleveland tackle, suffered a fractured shoulder and the loss of this aggressive linesman, possibly for the rest of the season, made the victory costly to Coach Fenenga.

And Cleveland's strength was further lessened yesterday when Capt. George Coover, one of the most valued members of the backfield, suffered a broken collarbone in scrimmage with the seconds which, according to Fenenga, definitely ends Coover's gridiron activities for this season.

Although the loss of these two men will be keenly felt, Cleveland has reserve strength to take care of the vacated positions. Hayden will fill in for Coover at left half, and Hahn will be replaced by Gunther. Groetke will take the other tackle, Joe Mowry returning to left end and Braznell to the bench. Beckmeier, the 250-pound guard who covered himself with glory in his first full game last Saturday, will again start at left guard. These shifts reduce Cleveland's weight advantage somewhat but the boys from Carondelet still average 170 pounds, while Central's mean weight is only 156.

Central's Lineup Unchanged.

Other Cleveland ailments include two broken noses, belonging to Wilson at center and to Bob Graham, the speedy halfback. These complaints, however, apparently worry these men not at all, at least in so far as is evident in scrimmage against the scrubs. Altogether, the altered lineup seems to have lost little of the effectiveness of the original, and Cleveland is generally favored to subdue the wearers of the Red and Black.

The same Central lineup that played a 0-0 tie against Soldan last week will face Cleveland. Rossen, halfback, who was not in uniform last Saturday, is not very likely to see action this week, the injuries of this backfield star having been slow in healing. Bohringer will again show at Rossen's position, with Crumford sharing some of the burden. If Mike Walker's team can surprise by defeating Cleveland tomorrow, the contenders for the championship will be increased to three—Central, Cleveland and the winner of the Roosevelt-Beaumont game. Coach Cook's Soldan High team is out of the running, having lost one game and tied another.

Roosevelt Plays Beaumont.

The Roosevelt Rough Riders were pretty generally bruised last week but the injuries are not very serious and the regular lineup will start in that team's game with Beaumont. Sauselle suffered most of the damage but is mending fast and is likely to be in good shape for the opening whistle. The showing of the Rough Riders a week ago in losing to Cleveland, although outplaying their opponents from every angle, gives Carlson's team an edge over Beaumont, the North Siders having lost to Cleveland, 18 to 6.

Beaumont, however, has added strength for this game through the return of men who were injured before the league opening. Schneider, Mueller and Brodage are back in good shape, and their return enables Captain Neil and Kuhlmann to relinquish their backfield positions and return to the ends. Korkorian, after working in the backfield, is also back at right tackle.

Geraghty, Hurt In Nevers Game, Out of Hospital

Slev Geraghty, captain of the St. Louis Blues, professional football team, who was injured in last Saturday's game with Ernie Nevers' Duluth Eskimos, has been discharged from St. John's Hospital.

Geraghty was forced out of play in the second half of the contest and after being taken to the hospital, it was found that two of his ribs had been fractured. He has recovered sufficiently to go home and is ready to direct his men from the bench Sunday in their game against the Benld, Ill., Independents at Handlan's Park.

The Blues' field director never before was injured, although he played a full term of college football at St. Louis University and Georgetown. When at St. Louis U., he established the unusual distinction of playing in every position except quarterback in a single season.

For Sunday's game, the Blues expect to present their full strength. Last Saturday, four of the seven regular linemen were out from the start, and when Geraghty was hurt, it meant that only two were in the game.

Also for the contest with the Benld team, coached by Boise Pott-Hoff, the Blues are hoping to show in the backfield Ben Hobson, who made a hit with the fans here last season in the Red Grange exhibition, arranged by "Bud" Yates, promoter of the Blues. In that contest Hobson, the only player on the field wearing white sox, made himself conspicuous by his frequent clean tackles, stopping the Chicago Bears' best men every time.

Notre Dame Coach Comes to Defense of Forward Pass and Shift, Declaring They Have Developed a Different and More Intelligent Type of Athlete.

By Knute Rockne,
Coach of Notre Dame University.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12.—Much has been written this fall regarding shifts and the forward pass. Some of the coaches of the old school want them both abolished. They speak of the forward pass as being basketball and as though every shift play were illegal. I will not waste time defending the forward pass; but a few remarks on the shift might not be out of order.

ROCKNE

Notre Dame has been using the backfield shift for some time. Eight out of 10 teams in the Big Ten use a shift. In the Middle West, the South, and Far West, quite a few teams employ the shift in their attack.

In the last 10 years Notre Dame has played from coast to coast, and has played before the cream of the officials nationally. Eckersall, Birch, Tufts, Quigley, Crowell, O'Brien, Swart, Hackett, Masker, Magedson, Lipp, McCarty, Berry and the two Thorpes and others have found the shift meeting with their approval when properly executed. Certainly there have been penalties. Any aggressive team is bound to be penalized now and then. But when they say that the shift makes officiating too difficult, I would call their attention to the fact that officiating anything is difficult.

For an official to determine whether a shift is legal or not is no more difficult than an umpire behind the plate calling balls and strikes. It is no more difficult than catching a team holding—it is no more difficult than watching ineligible linemen going up the field screening on a forward pass—it is no more difficult than determining whether wing backs are a foot, two or three feet behind the line of scrimmage.

Change Builds Game.

On a set formation if a back leans just a little he is a dub and known as a "flipper." On a shift play, if the back, after coming to a stop, bobs his head or wiggles his ears, it is momentum and is a terrible advantage. Many teams coming out of the huddle sometimes charge too quickly. However, a good official has no trouble determining when they come to a stop and when they don't.

I ascribe most of the popularity of our modern football to the pageantry of shift plays and the thrill of the forward pass. The popularity of the modern game of football as played now has brought forth a different type of athlete than we had in the old days. The finesse of timing in a play, subtle deception, the weaving run, the resiliency of an alert mind, the multiplicity of tactical situations, the beauty of rhythm and grace of the shift, the skill necessary to execute a forward pass have all helped to make the modern game what it is. What will we have if we eliminate the shift and the forward pass? We will probably have mass on tackle, wedge plays, assault and battery, mayhem and other forms of skill and fun that made football such a by-word up until 1906. We can play the old game here at Notre Dame just as well as we can the modern game. The nifty clever boys I have on the first and second teams won't be able to play. However, my fourth and fifth team, big, powerful boys, with bull necks and suffering from "charley horse" between the ears, will all be available next year in case the rules are changed.

Picks Michigan to Win.

The headliner in the Middle West tomorrow is the annual Michigan-Ohio State game, which will be played at the Columbus Stadium. I look for Michigan to win, but only after a bitter struggle. Ohio State has always been able to stop Michigan's passing attack, and Michigan has been quite successful in stopping Ohio State's. It will be a battle between the two lines, and in this respect Michigan has a slight advantage.

Northwestern, which seems headed for a clean slate in the Big Ten, plays Chicago at Evanston. If Thistlethwaite can keep the boys from getting over-confident, if he can keep them in there driving, Northwestern will maintain its fine record. Wisconsin plays Iowa at Madison, and I favor Wisconsin. Illinois, Purdue and Minnesota should not have any trouble winning their nonconference games.

In the Missouri Valley the big game of the week-end will be the Nebraska-Kansas Aggies tussle at Lincoln. Nebraska has the edge, but the Kansas Aggies boys are liable to go on a passing spree at any time. If Nebraska lets up for even a minute, it will have nothing but regrets. A win for Nebraska will make it look like a three-cornered tie for the valley championship.

Drake should win from Iowa State, and Missouri should not encounter any difficulty in defeating Washington. Grinnell, which has been playing fine football all this year, ought to take Oklahoma A. and M., though the latter team has been coming strong the last few weeks.

I saw the Army play last week, and it is the finest looking Army team I have seen since the war. They have power, speed and deception, they handle the ball cleanly and play smart, "heads-up" football. Even if the four or five of our regulars who are injured were able to get in the game, I don't see how Notre Dame could win. However, we are going to give them a fight.

Loyola U. Backs Are Expected to Feature Tomorrow

Two Have Played Four Years; Stampfli Back in St. L. U. Lineup.

Coach Roger Kiley and 25 football men representing Loyola University of Chicago arrived here this morning for their annual game tomorrow at Sportsman's Park with St. Louis University. Shortly before noon Kiley took his men to Sportsman's Park and gave them a workout.

A special train carrying about 300 student rooters is due to arrive this evening with a special delegation bent on recovering the billy goat mascot which was kidnapped from its Chicago home earlier in the week by St. Louis U. students and shanghaied back here. The goat has its quarters here in the basement of an unnamed fraternity house and yesterday made its appearance at the Freshmen-Scott Field contest. Tonight the mascot will appear at a rally in the quadrangle at Grand and West Pine.

Loyola and St. Louis have met for the past three years, the Billikens taking the first two games by a margin of one touchdown and the Chicagoans winning last year by the same margin.

St. Louis U. Homecoming Day.

Interest in the St. Louis game, always the contest for which the Loyolans "point," will be intensified by the fact that it is Homecoming day for the Billikens, who will want to look their best before the alumni.

Loyola has beaten a number of middle-class colleges and was defeated by Mississippi and the Haskell Indians, but not before it had counted a touchdown on the latter. St. Louis has beaten Drury, Springfield Teachers and Rolla and lost to Detroit, Boston College and Marquette.

The visiting backfield is expected to furnish most of the fireworks on the part of the Chicago team. All the backs, Johnson, Norton, Griffin and Cronin, are veterans, Cronin and Norton playing their fourth season and Johnson his third.

Mathews' team is in good shape and the line may be reinforced by the return to center of Gail Stampfli, who has been out for some time due to a minor operation.

The probable lineups:

LOYOLA U.	Position	ST. LOUIS U.
Lamont (c)	L.E.	Kahle (c
Gilmore	L.T.	Crecelius
Lederer	L.G.	Butler
Witry	C.	Stampfli

Brennan	R.E.	Browning
Johnson	Q.B.	Jordan
Norton	L.H.	Hanratt
Griffin	R.H.	Kearn
Cronin	F.B.	Fe

Italy will have seven bike riders in the six-day race at Madison Square Garden, starting Dec. 6. They will include Girardengo, whose summer income for road-racing abroad is placed at $25,000.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—Misuri Valley Conference campuses re agog today over the comek of the Kansas Jayhawkers, ich in view of their past record s season rendered yesterday's to 9 victory over the Oklahoma oners little short of sensational. he Sooners had been touted to decisively and the most ardent hawker supporters only hoped Sooner score would be low. Jayhawkers had lost every ference game. The Kansas win s a blow to Sooner hopes which d mounted after last week's triph over the Missouri Tigers. e Sooners are eliminated now m all championship consideran.

Kansas Outplayed by Sooners.

Cold statistics show the Sooners passed, outscrimmaged and outyed their opponents in every dertment of the game but punting. t the fact remains that the Kans had the scoring punch, just the Sooners last week came ough in the pinches against the ers, who had them outplayed oughout. The Jayhawkers took y 15 yards from scrimmage, exsive of passes, against the Soon- 91 yards. Three Kansas passes led 71 yards, while eight Oklaa heaves brought 153 yards.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Autumn Tragedies.

THIS is time that the leaves begin to fall.

Ditto the heads of major league managers. Eddie Collins' fell, last night; at least one more neck will feel the guillotine ere the December meeting of the American league.

Thus far Lee Fohl, Bill McKechnie, Art Fletcher, Ty Cobb, George Sisler and Eddie Collins officially have been beheaded. The ax still hangs heavy over the neck of Tris Speaker, gray-haired player-leader of the Indians.

It has been written that he, too, is doomed.

It would be rather astonishing to see this, however, since Speaker had a team that was fighting for the flag to the last ditch, and only missed it by a hair line.

What Happened to Eddie?

MYSTERY surrounds the passing of Collins, a Kohinoor in a diamond world of rhinestones.

Collins, the greatest "money player" of his day, was slipping as a second sacker, it is true. It is also true that he did not win the pennant. But—

Connie Mack voiced the baseball world's sentiment today, when he said he was "surprised and shocked" to learn of the passing of Eddie.

Unless there is something against Collins more than has appeared, he ought to be a wonderful man for somebody's coaching staff. Eh, Phil?

Just in Time.

FROM the top to the bottom takes only the time required in falling. Last year the American League honored three veteran players with the "most valuable" distinction—players barred by the rule against managers, under ordinarily conditions. For their wonderful services to baseball however, the rule was suspended and Cobb, Collins and Speaker were decorated with the well-known certificate of merit.

That was in mid-summer. Even at the time the awards were made it probably was known that at least two of the men were doomed for the skids.

Speaker has not yet felt the rollers. It is believed in many quarters that his release is just a matter of days or weeks.

In baseball the climb is slow, but the descent—oh, man! She's quick!

Just Football.

THE Kansas Jayhawkers had not won a conference game this year when they stepped upon the field to face the powerful Oklahoma eleven, conquerors of the Tigers, yesterday.

But they beat the prospective Valley champions!

That's football of today. It opens a field of hope for the lowliest. Even Washington, now in Columbia to take on the Missouri Bengals, feels its ambition swell and its morale take on bulldog aspects.

Once upon a time Washington pulled one on Missouri that outdid Kansas' dirty work against Oklahoma. That was the year (1923) when after the despised Bears (then Pikers) were thrust into the mire by 62 points by Oklahoma, 54 points by Ames and 83 points by Kansas, they actually beat the Tigers!

And as if to hang the BEWARE sign on all football dope, the Tigers then turned around and tied Kansas, 3-3, in their final game of the year!

Rumor "Big 3" Split Will Bring New "Big Five"

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Speculation as to possible new athletic alliances for Harvard and for Princeton is rife.

Rumors of a new "Big Three" made up of Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth, and a "Big Five," with Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania and Columbia as its members, were to be heard wherever football followers gathered yesterday. From Cambridge, however, came the announcement that no such new "Big Three" was contemplated, and the proposed "Big Five" was a matter of speculation, although both such alliances might be brought about before the 1928 season rolls around.

It may develop that Harvard will resume negotiations with Michigan for the home and home series, discussion of which re-aroused the feeling between the Crimson and the Tigers early last fall; but those mindful of the relationship between Harvard and Dartmouth during the Princeton-Harvard break prior to 1911, expect to see the Green resume its old place as second to Yale on the Harvard schedule.

Mid-West Game Possible.

Relations between the Crimson and the Green since they were resumed in 1922 have been most cordial and as both institutions have a large New England as well as national following, their game invariably packs the Cambridge stadium—tickets for the contest being scarcer, except for one or two years, than has been the case in Harvard-Princeton games.

Princeton, like Harvard, may take on a Middle-West foe for the vacant date. It had a home and home arrangement with Chicago which was ended when the "Big Three" authorities voted down extensive out-of-town football trips and now, without such regulations guiding its schedule makers, it is possible that series may be resumed or some other series with a Middle West foe instituted.

Tigers May Meet Penn.

Pennsylvania and Cornell also appear as potential late-season opponents for the Tigers. Relations with Cornell are to be resumed next fall, and some believe the Itahacans ultimately will be given the date formerly saved for Harvard. As to Pennsylvania, efforts have been made for several years to bring about a resumption of football relations between that school and Princeton, and if no Middle West series is contemplated or Cornell is not moved back to the former Harvard date, Princeton is assured of success if it negotiates with Pennsylvania.

Actor Boy Is Withdrawn From Madison Derby

Corbett's Dog Suffers From Sore Feet; Billy Philson Also Scratched.

With the closing set for Monday night and the $2500 fall derby scheduled for tomorrow, the Madison Kennel Club gets into the final stages of its fall meet tonight with some of the best talent at the track entered. Day passes will be honored tonight but will be void Saturday and Monday it was announced. Season badges will be honored as usual.

Training of the eight candidates for the derby at present is occupying the time of the eight camps which have representatives to start. It became known yesterday that two of the eight dogs would not be starters, Billy Philson and Actor Boy. Actor Boy had trouble with his feet following his elimination Tuesday night and Trainer P. W. Wolfe decided he would not send him to the post.

White Pop Eligible.

White Pop, which finished fifth in the first elemination, will become eligible as a substitute. Wang Wang Blues will take the place of Billy Philson, having finished next in order in the other elimination. Billy strained a shoulder yesterday, while being worked out.

Long prices also have been a feature of the racing in recent days, 10 and 20 to 1 shots popping down at frequent intervals, causing a random play over the various fields by fans who like to "shoot at the moon." This also has resulted in favorites paying from three to two to three to one. Only two odds on choices have been seen in the speculation in the last 10 days, both winning.

Tonight's program consists of the regular eight races, but Secretary Hayden, in view of the impending end, has called upon the fastest dogs at the track and a high order of racing will be seen during the last days of the meeting.

Washington U. Squad of 25 Men Off for Columbia To Play Tigers Tomorrow

Students Will Follow With Concern Only Over Their Team's Defense in Biggest Football Engagement of Their Season.

Twenty-five Washington U. football men, conditioned as at no previous point in the season's progress, entrained this morning for Columbia in a frame of mind which may mean anything tomorrow afternoon when they play the University of Missouri eleven on the new stadium field. The squad arrives in Columbia this afternoon in time for a practice workout on the field.

A third-string reserve eleven will also make the trip, athletic officials have announced, leaving the local university by bus tomorrow morning. They will be accompanied by the freshmen squad and the university band. Thirty-six Washington U. grid men will gather in the Bear dressing room before the game, a number of which will approximate that on which Coach Gwynn Henry will be able to call.

Fans to Depart Tonight.

Later in the day the biennial exodus of Pikeway fans to Columbia will begin. By special train, by bus, by motor, and in the case of a few more adventurous souls, by foot, the enticing hopes of a Bear victory will draw undergraduates and graduates of Washington to Columbia for the week end. More than 200 had engaged passage on the special train Thursday, indicating that the total number who will compose the Washington cheering section may near a thousand.

Even the lowly football worm may turn, sang the Bear rooters over their coffee this morning, as the tension on the Pikeway tightened to a a point reached only when Washington meets their Tiger enemy. While for Missouri, the rivalry against Kansas is more intense than against Washington, the St. Louisans hold to their particular passion with a determination not outdone by any century-old grievance.

Kansas turned back Oklahoma, chanted the same Pikeway students as they gathered in their classroom on the hill. It is believed that few classes will answer roster tomorrow morning without great gaps in their ranks.

The great question for the Hilltopper men concerns the effectiveness of the local defense. A confidence in the Washington offensive strength, aided by the knowledge that good playing conditions are virtually assured, is generally evidenced. The passing attack of the Missourians and the strategic, heady game which they always play, is giving rise to the greater part of the "and if" discussion.

Whether the Bears will be sufficiently wary when one of the half-dozen Tiger passers drops back; whether Bert Clark, former Principia star and main cog of an aerial attack of great menace, can be successfully covered, are on the tip of the Washington rooters' tongues. The general feeling is that passes tell the story of the game. It is known that Coach Higgins has centered most of his offense-building of the past week on a smothered overhead program, and the efficiency of the Tigers in this department is not doubted for a minute.

That the Missouri line will greatly outweigh the local forwards does not appear to present a problem of great concern to the Bears. They have seen evidences of defensive strength against lines equally as heavy and they are counting on a good day, a good game and a good score.

Alfano Loses To Steve Adams

Steve Adams of Chicago defeated Ray Alfano of East St. Louis last night in a 10-round featherweight encounter at the Avenue Theater, East St. Louis. Alfano, former National A. A. Walter "Red" Rowland and Lou Terry fought an eight-round draw in the semifinal. The weight was 130 pounds.

Digger Nelson of East St. Louis won the referee's decision over Billy Cain of St. Louis in a six-round preliminary at 112 pounds. In the curtain-raiser Vic Windle beat Monroe Nelson, the referee stopping the bout in the first round after Nelson had been twice floored. The weight was 145 pounds.

YALE AT TOP STRENGTH FOR PRINCETON

KLINE, NOBLE EXPECTED TO BE IN LINEUP

Notre Dame Will Be Reinforced for Army Game Tomorrow, but Cadets Still Rule Favorites.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Princeton is hopeful of winning another football championship tomorrow in its last game in a big three series. The Tigers beat Harvard last week. Tomorrow they play Yale and close their season. Having broken relations with Harvard, Princeton will be a competitor for a big three title tomorrow for the last time. Harvard and Yale meet next week.

Coach Bill Roper of Princeton is smiling. "I am not much on this prophesying business," he said, "but I think we'll have a hard, interesting game. I don't see why the team should have a let down. There have been no evidences of over-confidence, and all we ask is clear, cold weather."

Kline and Noble Available.

Yale men were heartened today by news that two star backs, Bill Kline and Larry Noble, might take part in the conflict at the Palmer Stadium, Princeton. Kline, who was called away by the death of his mother, is expected to rejoin the squad tomorrow. Noble, the team's most brilliant ball carrier, gave indication of being sufficiently recovered from injuries to play at least part of the game.

Coach Tad Jones is uncertain of his starting lineup. During the last week he has been using two players in the backfield who never before have opened a game for Yale—Holabird and Failing. Among other backs available are Ordway, Foote, McGunigle, Stone, Hoben, Garvey and Cox.

Slagle in Good Shape.

Slagle, Princeton's backfield ace has polished off his booting toe by hoisting a lot of drop-kicks. The team in a practice has had the same lineup that downed Harvard.

Army and Notre Dame meet tomorrow in a colorful intersectional struggle at the Yankee Stadium involving national supremacy, with the Army a slight favorite.

There are signs of eleventh-hour changes in the Army lineup. In yesterday's drills, Brentnall was sent in at left end, replacing Harbold, while Hewitt alternated with Murrell at fullback and Jones, Cammack, Seeman and Waldorf took turns in the guard positions.

Notre Dame's chances were considered improved by announcement that O'Boyle, fullback, and Smith, right guard, would be in physical trim. Hope for a dry field was voiced by Coach Knute Rockne. He believes the Hoosiers would be greatly benefitted by secure footing in their use of shifts and aerials.

Georgetown to Test Navy.

Georgetown will be called upon to crash through Navy's strongest lineup. Coach Bill Ingram announced he would have Caldwell, Hannegan, Hamilton and Goudge in the backfield, while Osburn, Navy's best center, will replace Hoener in the line.

Harvard's chances of stopping unbeaten Brown were weakened today by an injury which was expected to shelve Hepburn Strong, varsity right end. Henry Chauncey of Columbus, O., whose drop-kick provided the Crimson's margin of victory over Brown last year, is ready to repeat his performance tomorrow. He booted 10 consecutive goals over the bar in practice yesterday.

One Round Against Greb Convinced Tunney Harry Was a Buzz Saw

Determined After Getting Through That Opening Stanza That He Must Show Stuff and See It Through —Superstitious About $2 Bills.

By Gene Tunney,
World's Heavyweight Champion.

CHAPTER XV

I HAVE recounted in previous chapters how I won the American light heavyweight title from Battling Levinsky. That victory occurred on Jan. 13, 1922. I lost that title on May 24 of the same year. My conqueror was Harry Greb. That battle—the only one I ever lost—was enough to discourage many fellows had they stood in my shoes that painful evening.

Harry Greb was regarded as one of the toughest, roughest, readiest of fighting men of the decade. He was called "The Pittsburg Windmill." Part Irish and part German, Greb inherited the go-and-get-'em, sock 'em, crash 'em features of both races. Although Greb stood about five feet eight and one-half inches above his shoe soles, when he started his winding, driving, pin wheel blows they seemed to be raining from the shoulders of some phantasmic giant. He could move like a phantom and had ring cunning far beyond estimates made of him in the press. Greb began his colorful career in 1913 and only a few months ago dropped his middleweight title to the solemn-visaged "Tiger" Flowers.

The first time I saw Greb was in 1921. He was battling Charlie Weinert at the Garden. At that time Weinert was big, strong and a good boxer. He towered above Harry's head. Weinert seemed to be preparing to smear a lashing left on Greb's jaw when Harry bobbed under the wallop and landed a right hand on Weinert's face. Down went Charlie with such a thump that it seemed as though the subway builders were using an over-supply of dynamite. When I saw Greb lay Weinert out like a carpet my respect for him as a fighter grew. Weinert got up and managed to stick out the 15 rounds but he never saw so many boxing gloves before or since.

Story of Two-Dollar Bills.

WHEN I was matched with Greb I knew that I was meeting no ordinary man. I trained at Red Bank and tried to put myself in wonderful condition. If I had not trained with the utmost care, I don't think I could have withstood the beating I was destined to take and not slip back to the ranks of the also rans.

We weighed in in the afternoon. I was a pound under the stipulated 175 pounds. Greb's poundage was 162. I was confident of victory and Greb was reported in great shape. Greb sent out this statement:

"I will make the pace so fast that Gene won't know where he is."

I am not exactly superstitious, but I will give this anecdote and you can draw your own conclusions. It was Friday the thirteenth. I took a taxi from Red Bank and the fare was $4. I gave the driver a $10 bill. He gave me my change in three $2 bills. When I put away my street clothes in the dressing room I looked at those bills and wondered a bit, because some of the boys in the room said they were worried over the occurrence. Since then I try to steer shy of $2 bills.

The Garden was packed as we came to scratch. Almost at the opening bell the "Windmill," true to his word, began to set to in a furious pace. He rushed to me and before I knew what it was all about Greb butted me in the nose, causing a compound fracture of that somewhat sensitive organ.

"Like a Buzz-Saw."

HARDLY had I gathered my wandering wit when Greb—the foxy old battler—threw his left arm about my skull, holding it firmly and then bringing his head up and butting me over my left eye. Then he did the same sort of thing and butted me over the right eye. Three clinches. Three butts. I thought I was playing with a buzz saw. I was bleeding from nose and eyebrows. The bell was a welcome sound to me. It was the longest round ever fought, in my opinion.

I shambled back to my corner, but all the time there was one sort of a voice whispering to me from inside, saying:

"Now is the time for Gene Tunney to show the stuff he's made of. That man has given you enough to make a lot of others quit. If you have stood that butting, you can stand anything he's got."

In that battle, I really believe that a future champion of the world was being made while a champion of America—myself—was being unmade for the moment.

Effingham Ends Season Without A Touchdown

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EFFINGHAM, Ill., Nov. 12.

IN the last game of the football season yesterday the Effingham high school eleven held the score down to 16 points. Newton high won 16 to 0. This was the lowest score registered against the local team which has not made a touchdown all season. Effingham was always heavily outweighed.

St. Louis U. Frosh Look Like Real Varsity Prospects

Beat Scott Field 78 to 0; Local High School Stars Sparkle in Backfield.

If St. Louis University's freshmen football players are good enough to straight arm their way through the broken field of scholastic tacklers this year it looks as if the "successful season" mirage, which has lured thirsty Billiken followers for so many dreary years, may turn out to be made of something besides ectoplasm and fond hopes. Yesterday at St. Louis U. field the frosh beat Scott Field, 78 to 0.

Scott Field is far from being a good team but the Billiken yearlings are far from being the customary type of freshman squad. It was no nondescript, loose-playing group of frosh that ran in and about the aviators but a splendidly drilled, fairly heavy, fast bunch of youngsters who, instead of being mere practice material for the varsity, have had their own schedule all season and use the same plays the varsity employs. Next year they will be ready to jump directly into varsity play without learning a new system and it will be a good varsity man who will be able to hold down a regular job in 1927 with this crowd coming up.

Two of the brightest backfield stars yesterday were local boys, Joe Lintzenich of Webster Groves High and "Red" Richardson, former Soldan player. Richardson has worlds of speed and can get away in a broken field by sheer outdistancing of the tacklers. Lintzenich is of a different type. He is less of a sprinter but runs rather flat-footed in the manner of Red Grange, dodges by going off at right angles at top speed and reverses his field many times. Lintzenich weighs 175 pounds and is perhaps the best ground gainer on the squad.

Tom Flynn 160, and Bill Parilla 150, two other good backs, hail from Youngstown, O., the home of Harvey Brown, assistant coach. Flynn is quarterback and ranks alongside Lintzenich in open field work. He is likewise deceptive rather than fast.

Titus Cornell, 175, another back, was playing high school ball in Pocatello, Idaho, when Mathews transferred and, wanting to play under the former Idaho U. coach, decided to attend school here.

Lyle Drury, 180-pound end, a tall, rangy and heady player, also comes from the Northwest, his home being in Portland, Ore. Vic Daubner, 155, the other regular end, comes from Youngstown, O. Carl Gusosky, tackle, 175 pounds, played on Maplewood High; Jim McDonald, probably the best of the tackles, weighs 180 and comes from Springfield, Ill.; Barney Miller, who has been out with injuries, played at Normandy High and one year with the Washington U. varsity.

Ed Brown, a brother of Harvey, holds down a guard position. He weighs only 155 pounds but Harvey weighed only 160 when he made Camp's second All-America team while at Notre Dame. Gene Schwartz is a brother of the famous Leo Schwartz, one of the best tackles in Billiken football. He is a 170-pounder and hails from Paola, Kan. GLO-CO

LIQUID HAIR DRESSING

WHERE is the prosperous business or professional man who isn't well-groomed? Glo-Coing the hair is a regular morning practice with successful men everywhere. It keeps the hair neat and in place all day.

Glo-Co Hair Dressing is a liquid, not a sticky, greasy paste or cream. Good for the scalp too. Your doctor would recommend it. Stimulates the roots of the hair to new growth and helps keep dandruff away.

Watch out for dandruff, if you don't want to be bald. Take a Glo-Co treatment each week. Apply Glo-Co Hair Dressing to the scalp to soften the scurf, then wash with Glo-Co Shampoo. The cleansing, antiseptic lather of this marvelous shampoo frees the scalp from every trace of scale and bacteria.

After the shampoo, comb your hair with Glo-Co Hair Dressing to keep it in place.

Sold at drug and department stores and barber shops. If your dealer cannot supply Glo-Co Hair Dressing or Shampoo, a full-sized bottle of either will be sent for 50c. Glo-Co Company, 6511 McKinley Ave., Los Angeles, California.

"HAVE A CAMEL" INVITES YOU TO THE WORLD'S MOST POPULAR SMOKE

CAMEL
TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES

In popularity with smokers, no other cigarette is within a thousand miles of Camel. Camels have been rewarded with the greatest favor any cigarette ever enjoyed. In all the history of smoking, there was never such a growing preference as for this cigarette.

There is but one reason for the increasing fame of Camels — tobacco goodness.

From the beginning, Camel has made its way by quality. The choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos and endless care for perfection are the meaning of Camels, and Camel quality. As new millions try them all, as they become experienced smokers, they come home to Camels.

Camel mildness and mellowness are made for your taste. . . . They will bring you the utmost smoking pleasure. Try them now. For a smoke that never tires the taste, literally never leaves a cigaretty after-taste—"Have a Camel!"

90,000 to Watch Ohio State Play The Wolverines

Undefeated Rivals for Big Ten Championship to Battle at Columbus O.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Michigan descended on Ohio State today in the van of a swelling invasion of Columbus marking the climax of the year in Western Conference football.

The train bearing the Wolverines blazed the trail for more than a score of special trains from all directions, pouring in a throng that promises to crowd 90,000 by game time tomorrow.

The big stadium today became the mecca for a homecoming Ohio crowd, Michigan fans and thousands of non partisans looking for the battle of the fall in the meeting of the titans undefeated in the fight for the Big Ten championship.

Among the arrivals was a flying squad of Federal agents in search of ticket scalpers reported to be offering seats at prices ranging from $15 to $100 and at that only a handful left.

Yost Refused to Name Lineup.

Yost brought 34 Wolverines, plenty of reserve material for his line and a general air of grimness. In pursuit of a new policy he declined to guess at a starting lineup and was highly taciturn.

In the Ohio camp there is all the excitement of a homecoming and a dash among the Buckeye varsity, who have had the benefit of a week's rest before the game, which will be the last home appearance of Capt. Karow and several of his mates. Wilce's final word was of the value of offense as a defense against Michigan in the war in the air.

Of secondary interest in tomorrow's Big Ten games is Chicago's stand against Northwestern, the third undefeated entry in the title race, but today there was a clamor for tickets to Northwestern's new stadium, with its capacity of 45,000 or more. The return of injured men heightened spirits at Chicago but the Purple is a decided favorite to down the battered Maroons.

At Wisconsin it is a battle with Iowa to keep out of the cellar and another homecoming event. The possibility of Kutsch not playing adds to the Badgers' hopes of turning back an ancient rival deprived of its spectacular ground gainer.

Other Big Ten teams play nonconference foes.

At Illinois, Minnesota and Purdue the day's encounters with Butler, Wabash and Franklin, comparatively weak opponents from outside the conference, serve as preliminaries to the final Big Ten a week away.

SPORT SHORTS

College football has nothing to fear from the professional gambler, in the view of Wall Street brokers explaining that the game is too complicated to "dope out." One firm estimated week-end wagers at only $200,000, as compared with $3,000,000 bet on the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

At the request of Jess Sweetser, first American-born amateur to win the British championship, golfers will hold a tournament next month at Absecon, N. J., for the National Tuberculosis Association. Sweetser is making a fight for health at Ashville, N. C.

Harry Wills, his injured right arm on the mend, has decided to make a comeback, says Tex Rickard. A fight between the veteran Negro and Harry Persson, Swedish heavyweight, is planned by Rickard.

Notre Dame, home of mighty football teams, also has become a school for coaches. Twenty-seven products of Knute Rockne's genius are acting as coaches at various universities this season.

A new 75-foot, waterline racing sloop, the largest to be constructed in this country since the Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance, will cruise Atlantic waters next season. An order for the craft, which will cost $200,000, has been placed with the Hereshoff Co. The owner is not disclosed.

The Yale Bulldog and the Princeton Tiger will receive about $5000 per minute for each of the sixty seconds of the annual scrap tomorrow. The seating capacity of Palmer Stadium is 60,000, the price of each ticket is $5.

Tod Morgan has three pounds to work off before he enters the ring at Madison Square Garden Nov. 19, to defend his junior lightweight crown against Carl Duane of New York. Morgan now tips the scales at 133 pounds, or three above the junior lightweight mark.

The drive on football goal posts has shown thus far that the posts are not in condition to withstand the rush line of enthusiastic students. There are no records to show that the posts have been able to get as much as a draw, much less a decision. This would indicate lack of training and poor support. The problem may be solved by establishing a foundation of concrete for the uprights.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 12.—Women of Chile will have the right to vote if a bill now before the Chamber of Deputies becomes a law. The bill recommends that the electoral law be changed so that the word "citizens" would replace the word "varones," which means males. Women would be elegible to vote, under the bill's provisions, in elections for President, Senators, deputies and in municipal balloting.

165,000 DEATHS FROM AUTOS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—In a study of the increasing death rate due to automobile operation in the United States, a committee of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety has estimated that deaths from this cause have exceeded American army losses in the World War.

Approximately 165,000 persons have lost their lives in this manner in the last 20 years, and it is estimated that, if the present rate should continue for the next 20 years, the death losses from automobile operation will be 440,000 persons.

Built to make radio tubes work better and LAST LONGER!

HERE is a new "A" battery made especially for radio use. An exclusive formula used in its construction enables it to deliver steady, level voltage and gives it extraordinary long life.

Like all Ray-O-Vac batteries, it has staying power. It retains its strength when not in use, and after being used it starts to rebuild its strength the instant the current is turned off.

The best way to be sure of getting radio "A" batteries with uniform voltage and staying power is to ask for Ray-O-Vacs No. 1211 by name and number and identify them by the carton shown here.

You can buy Ray-O-Vac batteries ("A", "B" and "C") at the better radio and electrical dealers, hardware and music stores, department stores and auto supply shops everywhere.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

A. B. C.—The Maccabees was organized in London, Ontario, in 1878, by members of the order of Foresters, to provide life, accident, sick and disability fraternal insurance. It was reorganized along more permanent lines in 1881 in Buffalo and chartered in that year in Michigan, as Knights of the Maccabees. The order is nonsectarian.

MRS. J. A. — The methods employed in cultivating the common mushrooms do not offer any great difficulties. Mushrooms can be grown out of doors or where the temperature is fairly constant, as in dry cellars and caves. A bed containing at the bottom a deep layer of fresh stable manure, covered by a layer of well rotted manure, should be made. In this the spawn should be planted, after the temperature of the bed has fallen to about 75 degrees Fahrenheit. The mushroom spawn can be procured in the shape of bricks from florists and nurserymen. A brick will plant a bed about 10 feet square. When planted the spawn is broken up and distributed through the bed, just barely buried. The bed must be kept moist. After a week or 10 days the mulch should be removed and the bed covered with a good loam to a depth of two inches. The bed may be covered again with the mulch, which should be removed when the mushrooms begin to appear. The mushrooms should be gathered daily. Mushroom culture is sometimes interfered with by parasitic fungi. The removal of all diseased plants and the fumigation of the caves and cellars with formaldehyde gas are recommended as preventive measures.

INQUISITIVE.—Authorities differ somewhat concerning the origin of the custom of kissing under the mistletoe. Some are under the impression that it is an innocent survival from the Saturnalia of the ancients when riot and license ran loose. Other authorities claim that it is a survival of the ancient Druids of Britain. The mistletoe is believed to have been given to the Goddess of Love to keep, and everyone who passed under it received a kiss to show it was the emblem of love. The Druids cut the sacred mistletoe and hung it over the doorways to propitiate the woodland spirits. According to myth, only happiness could enter under the mistletoe, hence the tradition of the kiss.

INTERESTED READER.—Until August, 1775, but 12 colonies had entered the Union, but in the early part of that month Georgia signified her accession to the united colonies, thus completing the 13. A fourteenth offered itself in Transylvania, the present State of Kentucky, where one or two small settlements had been made under the leadership of Daniel Boone. This whole territory was included in the original grant to Virginia colony, and was originally a part of Fincastle County of that colony. Though the Transylvania Company, consisting of Richard Henderson and his associates, bought about 2500 square miles of the section west of the Kentucky River from the Cherokee Indians, Virginia refused to confirm the sale. In the face of the refusal, the Colonial Congress could not admit the delegate of a territory which Virginia claimed as under her jurisdiction, therefore the nation and government remained as the Thirteen United Colonies. The name Kentucky, signifying "dark and bloody ground," was given to the region in 1776, supposedly to commemorate the conflict of the various warlike tribes of the region. In 1790 Kentucky was made a separate territory of the United States and in 1792 it was admitted as a state.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

FRANK.—In most states a lawyer who is a member of the bar of another state is permitted to try occasional cases, as a matter of courtesy. In some states the statutes may provide for this.

G. B.—We would think it wiser not to take a man as lodger, under the circumstances, if you wish to retain custody of the children. See the Prosecuting Attorney or the Legal Aid Bureau, Municipal Courts Building about making your husband support the children.

MRS. L. S.—Apply to Mr. Michels, Board of Registration and Education, Springfield, Ill., for full details of requirements necessary to operate a beauty shop. A license is necessary in order to practice.

ANXIOUS T. G.—You can get a divorce in Illinois, even though your wife fights it, if you have grounds for divorce and have not been at fault yourself. Consult a lawyer. A Mexican divorce decree of the kind you mention would probably not be recognized by the Courts here.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

LEMON.—Lemon juice used as a dentifrice is not harmful but why use such an unpleasant article when there are so many preparations that are as harmless, pleasanter and as efficacious as lemon juice?

WORRIED. — The skin would have to be examined to determine the cause of the itching that bothers you. Some indiscretion in your diet in winter time, the wearing of woolen underclothing or faulty circulation might be the cause. Consult a physician for proper diagnosis and treatment.

L. C. I. — The menopause is probably the explanation of the various troubles you describe and treatment for any one of the symptoms would be of little benefit. You will have to use as much endurance and patience as you can summon to your aid until that period has passed. These conditions will stop when the menopause is completed and you will then feel healthy and well.

PANSY.—Your question is not clear; write again, being more specific.

HARD HEARING.—Home treatment for the removal of ear wax is likely to do real harm to the ear and may permanently injure the hearing. Ear wax should be removed only by a skilled person familiar with such work.

CONSTANT READER.—You are within your rights if you change doctors after losing confidence in the physician attending you. Inform the attending physician that you are dissatisfied with his work and tell him that you dismiss him, otherwise no ethical physician in good standing will take your case in his stead. You should be under the care of a specialist for the condition you describe. If you dismiss your present physician and wish us to recommend someone to treat your case, send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

diers and Republicans Clash in Armistice Day Observance.

the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—Nine persons re in hospitals today because of istice day melees between riot soldiers and Republican dlums and the police in which police freely used their batons. Some persons hurt did not require surgical treatment, although some of them were badly battered by the hefty blows from the locust sticks. Some women were caught in the clashes.

In O'Connell street, Republicans intercepted men wearing poppies in their buttonholes and tore them off. The greatest demonstration occurred while soldiers were returning from a celebration in Phoenix Park. Shouts of "Down with King George!" came from young Republicans marching along Grafton street. The youths were severely clubbed by the police.

STRIKE OF CLOAK AND SUIT WORKERS IN NEW YORK ENDED

More Than 40,000 of Them Face Task of Getting New Jobs as Result of Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—More than 40,000 cloak and suit workers, losers in an 18-weeks' strike, face the task of getting new jobs.

A three-year agreement, by which the workers give up their "right to the job," held since 1900 and demands for a 36-hour week, has been reached by one of the three groups involved. The others are expected to make a similar settlement.

Formal ratification is pending, but the strike is considered to have ended last night when representatives of 3500 employes and the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., known as the "inside" manufacturers, agreed upon terms. The new agreement calls for a 42-hour week for the first two years and a 40-hour-hour week the third. It partly follows recommendations of an Advisory Committee appointed by Gov. Smith. Wage increases over the old minimum scales of $4 to $9 a week are stipulated.

The new agreement is regarded as a defeat for the workers in the loss of the three most important points at issue—the right of discharge by employers, the 32-hour week guarantee, and limitation of contractors.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Forestry tax laws have been made possible in California, Minnesota and Louisiana, the American Tree Association announced on the basis of delayed returns from referendum in the Nov. 2 election. Pain is so often unnecessary

SUFFERED WITH PAIN IN NECK AND SHOULDERS

Following a severe attack of rheumatic fever, a New York girl suffered for days with excruciating pain in her neck and shoulders.

"After trying everything else," she writes, "my mother persuaded me to let her apply Sloan's Liniment, and after three days I felt no further pain."

It is amazing what Sloan's will do to relieve pain. This is because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the body to throw off the cause of the trouble.

Apply gently without rubbing. Instantly it sends a healing tide of fresh, new blood to the place that hurts. In just a few minutes the pain stops. So pleasant and easy to use too. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

STALIN LAYS DOWN RULES FOR TROTZKY'S CONDUCT

Threatens to Expel Him and Followers From Communist Party If They Violate New Ten Commandments.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—The term "moving picture revolutionists" was hurled at Leon Trotsky, Gregory Zinovieff and Leon Kameneff by Josef Stalin, president of the Central Executive Committee of the Communist party in Russia, at the recent party conference, according to a report of the meeting which has just been published.

Stalin characterized Kameneff as "Trotsky's porter."

Stalin also laid down 10 commandments which the oppositionists must obey if they wish to remain in the Communist party. The three men were disciplined by the executive committee for their tactics in opposing the Stalin wing of the party.

Stalin's commandments follow:

1. You must not break the discipline or unity of the party by creation of factional elements.

2. You must not take advantage of the country's difficulties to embarrass the Government.

3. You must not promise the workers greater wages than we are able to give them.

4. You must not preach increasing the prices of manufactured articles or raising taxation of the peasants.

5. You must not undermine the basis of Leninism.

6. You must not disrupt the Communist International.

7. You must not, every time you feel yourselves in the minority, shout "crisis" or party difficulties to the housetops.

8. You must not assemble the disgruntled elements of the party for the purpose of forming a new party.

9. You must not use demagogic methods of gaining popularity.

10. You must not attempt to dupe the party by urging a democratic regime in its organization.

SLOVENE DEPUTY IN ITALIAN CHAMBER HELD

News of Arrest of President of Minorities' Congress Creates Excitement in Jugo Slavia.

By the Associated Press.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Nov. 12.—News of the arrest in Italy of Giuseppe Wilfan, Slovene Minority Deputy, in the Italian Parliament, has created considerable excitement throughout this country.

For a long time there has been a strong feeling here that the Slovenian minority in Italy was being badly treated by the suppresssion of their schools, newspapers and public meetings. The Foreign Office refuses to discuss the incident, which is considered a most untimely one since the conventions recently signed by Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Minchitch soon will come up for ratification.

Dr. Wilfan is President of the Congress of European Minorities. He comes from Gorizia. At the Minorities' Congress last August Dr. Wilfan spoke of the necessity for collaboration by the minority groups to safeguard their civic, economic and political equality.

Garibaldi Accused of Plotting Assassination of Mussolini.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The latest accusation against Ricciotti Garibaldi is that he incited three Italian anti-Fascists to try to assassinate Mussolini, and then denounced them. This charge is made by the Quotidien, which said it obtained its information from the Corriere Degli Italiani, Italian newspaper of Paris.

According to these accounts, Garibaldi came to Paris Oct. 10 and asked Scivoli, who is employed in the office of Sante Garibaldi, to arrange an interview with an anti-Fascist named Menschi. The interview took place in a restaurant kept by another Italian, Refuzzi, in the presence of two workmen brought by Menschi. Garibaldi explained to them, according to the Quotidien, that the only way to get rid of Fascism was to eliminate Mussolini, and told them to find three resolute men to carry out the sentence of death, offering to finance them and give them credentials to Republicans in Rome.

A few days later Garibaldi, it is charged, called Menschi again and asked him to write a letter saying he was ready to find three men for the mission. The Quotidien asserts a document signed by Menschi was found among Garibaldi's papers and that it was in connection with this letter that the Italian police officials, Lapolla and Salla, came to Paris just after Garibaldi had received 100,000 lire from Luigi Federzoni, then Italian Minister of the Interior.

PERSIAN REVOLT LEADER TAKEN

DELHI, British India, Nov. 12.—Prince Salar ed Dowleh, uncle of the former Shah of Persia, is reported to have been arrested in Irak (Mesopotamia), where he fled after attempting to start a movement in Persian Kurdistan against the new Shah in August. It is not known here whether the Prince will be handed over to the Persian Government by the Irak authorities.

A dispatch from the Persian capital late in August said Salar ed Dowleh had reached Kurdistan and was endeavoring to stir up trouble among the tribesmen. The Government, it was added, was taking "energetic measures" to deal with the situation. Salar ed Dowleh's nephew, the Shah Ahmed Mirza, was dethroned by the Persian National Assembly because of his lengthy absences in Europe. He was succeeded by his Premier, Reza Khan Pehlevi, who was crowned last April 25.

COUNTESS KAROLYI DROPS SUIT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Countess Catherine Karolyi has withdrawn her suit here demanding that Secretary of State Kellogg instruct the United States Consul in Paris to visa a passport for her visit to the United States. The Countess is now in Canada.

Withdrawal of the mandamus action yesterday leaves undecided a court interpretation of the law under which the Secretary of State uses his discretion in keeping out "undesirable aliens."

MRS. LYDIG SCORES LOVELESS UNIONS

Declares Marriage for Money or Social Prestige Is Suicide Compact

REAL-LIFE TRAGEDIES CITED

New York, Sept. 10.—Fortune persons who have married for money instead of is told by Mrs. Philip Lydig in the October issue

Philadelphia Public Ledger

A few (of the hundreds) of the newspaper comments published all over the country on Mrs Lydig's articles.

Mrs. Philip Lydig is astounding America. At last she opens the door to her life-time of experience—her associations with the men and women of New York's ultra-smart society. Tragedies that make you gasp are given in boldest relief—and in the next breath she tells you of the ridiculous and often amusing aspects of smart New York society.

TODAY a certain woman is famed as a leader of New York social life. Her husband owns one of the world's most valuable collections of art treasures. Her home is a mecca for nabobs and billionaires. Just a few years ago the same woman was a hopeless outcast. But she learned a little secret and started on the way to social prominence. What was the price she paid? How did she finally remove the last obstacle—the man who threatened to expose her methods and even bring her husband to financial failure?

This is only one of many such incidents that Mrs. Lydig gives with astonishing frankness in her article: "Frauds of Smart Society." This article is published exclusively in the December issue of The Red Book Magazine now on sale at all news-stands.

Is the Unwritten Marriage Law Passing?

As Discussed by JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY

OUT of the hodge-podge of thousands of tangled human relationships, Judge Lindsey has evolved a philosophy so courageous, so removed from old standards—so daring—that the nation is staggered.

People, he declares, are making their own rules and laws, to suit their happiness and needs.

For example, he says—The love triangle is often a happy solution to marriage problems! One's love-life is his own and as long as he hurts no one, Society has no right to criticize or condemn.

That Infidelity is NOT at the root of marital troubles—but lack of fair play and a feeding of green-eyed jealousy.

That Freedom in love affairs, in marriage, leads to a monogamic marriage of itself. You will gasp mentally when you read his article in the December Red Book Magazine—The Moral Revolt; never before has any publication let such frankness go uncensored. You will wake up to changes in thought and action that are cropping up all about you!

It is a vital issue—and will be thrust into your own life with tremendous force, if it has not entered already. Which side of the fence are you on—have you the courage to agree with Judge Lindsey?

Who understands people in all their pretense and sham, groping and floundering, better than the author—the real author who does not exaggerate or color—but who paints word-pictures as true and realistic as any snapshot of life!

And never before have we been able to offer you a group of such popular and beloved writers as in this December Red Book Magazine—authors who write of the people of today with a shrewd understanding that is uncanny in its realism. Such as Rupert Hughes, Owen Johnson, Rita Weiman, Leroy Scott, Virginia Dale, Struthers Burt, Samuel Spewack and others—all names that mean stories that live for you, packed with the pulsating romance of Life—its ecstasies and tragedies.

Boston Wool Market.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—With mills refusing to accumulate surplus stock but buying steadily to fill immediate requirements the Boston wool market exhibits a steady tone.

Domestic prices still are below foreign parity and this has exerted a stabilizing influence during the uncertainties of the last week. Some American buying is under way in Australia but at the moment the main buying movement there originates in Bradford.

Steel Market.

Dry Goods Market Review.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Cotton goods markets continued quiet today with a price recession in print cloths at 7¼c for 68x72s off ⅛c. The quotation on 64x60s was unchanged at 6⅛c. Raw silks advanced 5 cents generally in a more active market.

Northern Indiana Public Service Company

First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds, Series C

Due November 1, 1966

Price 98½ and Interest

Dated November 1, 1926. Interest will be payable semi-annually May 1 and November 1 at the offices of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., in Chicago and New York without deduction for Federal Income Taxes now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of 2%. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

The following information relative to these bonds is summarized from a letter of Mr. Samuel Insull, Chairman Territory: Northern Indiana Public Service Company—formerly Calumet Gas and Electric Company—has acquired by merger all the properties of Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company. Its properties are employed almost entirely in the production and sale of electricity and gas. The principal territory served by the Company is the great manufacturing center immediately south of Lake Michigan. Hammond, East Chicago, Whiting, Lafayette, Michigan City, Plymouth and Valparaiso are the principal cities served with both gas and electricity. Gas service alone is rendered in Fort Wayne, South Bend, Elkhart, Bluffton, Crawfordsville, Decatur, Frankfort, Lebanon, Logansport and Wabash, and electric service in Crown Point, Angola, Culver, East Gary, Knox and LaGrange. The communities directly served total 119 and the estimated population served is 560,000. Its own generating facilities and its 132,000-volt electric transmission line, connecting with the great Chicago district power pool, together with the interconnection of its gas mains with those of the Chicago district, place the Company in an enviable position to supply the requirements of the excellent market which it serves.

Security: The Mortgage under which these Bonds will be issued will cover all fixed property now owned or hereafter acquired, subject to the outstanding divisional bonds, if any, on properties at the time of their acquisition and those thereafter issued for pledge under the Mortgage. The Mortgage will be a direct first mortgage on all fixed property owned by the Company previous to its acquisition of the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company; in addition it will share, to the extent pledged, in the lien of underlying divisional bonds on other important fixed property.

Purpose: The proceeds of these Bonds will be used to retire and cancel $2,500,000 6% Series A Bonds outstanding under the First and Refunding Mortgage and $4,500,000 Three-Year 5½% Secured Gold Notes, Series A, issued by the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company; towards reimbursing the Company for capital expenditures heretofore made; and for the expansion of its general gas and electric service to provide for the rapid growth of its territory.

Earnings: For the twelve months ended June 30, 1926, gross and net earnings before depreciation, of the properties now owned by the Company, were $10,883,635 and $3,927,983, respectively. Annual interest on the Company's funded debt to be outstanding in the hands of the public upon completion of this financing will require $1,405,620.

Management: The Company's outstanding Common Stock is owned or controlled by the Midland Utilities Company, thereby placing its management in the hands of men long experienced in the public utility field.

A circular more fully descriptive of these bonds will be sent upon request

HALSEY, STUART & CO.
INCORPORATED

These Bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that temporary bonds or Interim Receipts of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., interchangeable for definitive bonds, will be ready for delivery on or about November 22, 1926. All statements herein are official or based on information which we regard as reliable, and while we do not guarantee them, we, ourselves, have relied upon them in the purchase of this security.

Leading Industrial Favorites Reach New Top for Movement—Favorable Credit Conditions Influence — Exchange Rates Better.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"After the stimulating influence of favorable credit conditions had driven prices of leading industrial favorites to new tops for the movement in more active trading on the stock market today, supplies of stocks increased in response to profit taking and the consequent setback reduced the day's advances. An advance in call money rates to 4½ per cent from the 4¼ per cent renewal figure encouraged speculators to take profits, although it was generally believed the firmer tone in money was only temporary. Still, the recovery in some industrials had been rather substantial and traders were eager to cash their winnings before the expected technical reaction developed. Shorts were forced to cover their commitments in some shares. Heavy buying of investment securities reflected anticipation of continued easy money. Treasury issues forged into new high ground, while other Government securities and foreign issues were in demand and the general list presented a strong undertone.

U. S. Steel a Leader.

"Under the leadership of United States Steel common several of the old time favorites in the industrial group worked steadily forward in fairly active trading. Offerings by speculators for the decline and realizing sales were readily absorbed as the general list strengthened. A stiffening in call loans rates in the afternoon was regarded in speculative circles as a temporary incident and was ignored in the security markets. Banks called loans to the extent of about $12,000,000 to correct their position at the Federal Reserve Bank. Continuance of satisfactory credit conditions was anticipated, however, and professional operators acted accordingly. Baldwin soared more than four points to 135, the highest level it has reached in months, while Woolworth recorded a brisk advance and American Smelting was strong again. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe again lifted its high for the movement, while Coca Cola joined the strong specialties in anticipation of a stock split-up.

G. M. Rises Then Reacts.

"Profit taking in General Motors shares, not an unusual response to announcement of the expected $4 extra dividend, depressed this industrial leader after a strong start and it fell more than three points behind U. S. Steel. Dupont, however, was in demand at an advance of about four points in expectation of $3 extra dividend at Monday's directors' meeting. Rails shares were more active and the general trend was higher. New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line and Southern Railway led the advance while Chesapeake and Ohio was offered more freely and dipped about three points. Public utilities and oils were quieter. The failure of Standard Oil of New Jersey directors to agree on a plan for financing redemption of the $200,000,000 preferred stock issue appeared to chill speculative sentiment in the oils.

European Rates Higher.

"Trading in the foreign exchange market was fairly active and rates on European centers pointed to higher levels. Sterling was in good demand but the volume of offerings was sufficient to prevent an appreciable rise above yesterday's closing figures. French francs were strong and pushed forward vigorously, while lire recorded a substantial recovery. The remainder of the continental list, including exchange on Berlin, was firm. Chinese rate stiffened in response to the continued rise of silver prices. Brazilian rates, on the other hand, sagged.

Wheat Is Weak.

"The most interesting development in the principal commodity markets was the weakness of grain. Wheat futures falling three cents a bushel on the Chicago market to a new low for the movement at $1.37¼ for December contract. Corn tumbled about 2 cents a bushel to another bottom for the season. Cotton, on the other hand, was in good demand and rallied steadily in response to a broadening trade demand.

London Stocks Higher On Coal Strike Turn

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Prospects of an agreement in the coal dispute infused a more cheerful spirit today into the stock exchange, which for some time has been under a cloud.

Home rails were the feature with an average rise of one point. Gilt-edged industrials strengthened in sympathy.

The foreign exchange market was also favorably affected. American exchange advanced three-sixteenths to $4.85, thus removing immediate menace of gold shipments to New York. The French franc appreciated two points, and other currencies were steady.

New York Coffee.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Coffee, spot, steady; Rio No. 7, 16 9-16c; Santos No. 4, 20¾c. Futures steady; December, $15.75; March, $15.18.

COTTON PRICES IRREGULAR ON NEW YORK MARKE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 10 to 14 points on covering by recent sellers and buying by houses with Liverpool connections, supposed to be influenced by hope of an early coal strike settlement with a consequent improvement in British textiles.

January contracts sold up to 12.… 10 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Buying on the Liverpool … probably was promoted by reports of a steady spot situation in the South. The advance met considerable realizing and some Southern hedging and fluctuations were rather narrow and irregular during the first hour.

The actual settlement of the British coal strike would be expected to cause a narrowing of differences between the New York and Liverpool markets, and there was probably some buying here against sales abroad.

The Liverpool buying noted here at the opening became less active after the close abroad, but no selling pressure of consequence developed and prices held generally steady late in the morning. At midday January was selling around 12.54, with the general market showing net advances of 10 to 15 points.

The early afternoon market showed continued steadiness, January contracts selling around 12.56 at 2 o'clock when the general list was about 12 to 17 points higher on covering and some trade buying of December.

Egyptian's View of Cotton Situation

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Government plan to finance 4,000,000 bales of the American cotton will not effectively solve the cotton problem, said Nicholas Parachimonas, the Egyptian cotton cultivation expert, who has been making a survey of textile conditions in New England. With an excess of 7,000,000 bales in this country because of two bumper cotton crops, Mr. Parachimonas says the only remedy to prevent a collapse which may send cotton to 7 or 8 cents a pound is for the Government to finance the whole surplus and then take steps to prevent a recurrence of the trouble by curtailing production.

GOVERNMENT BONDS AGAIN ARE LEADERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—High-grade bonds forged ahead again today under the leadership of United States Government obligations. For the second day in succession three Treasury issues, the 4¼s, the 4s and the 3¾s, sold at the highest prices in their history. At the same time the fourth 4¼ Libertys touched 103, where they were above anything witnessed in months.

Today took more than on Thursday, prime corporate bonds participated in the buying movement. Illinois Central joint 5s duplicated the high of the year at 103½. American Smelting and Refining 5s, Consolidated Gas 5½s, American Telephone and Telegraph 5½s and bonds of this grade were in demand.

All this was continued response to the money situation. After the reduction in the quotation for bankers' acceptances on Thursday the showing of the Federal Reserve Bank statement with its rise in the reserve ratio was very significant. The prompt sale of new offerings was another indication of the abundance of investment capital seeking employment. All the new bonds were quickly taken and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube 6s sold on the Exchange above the offering price of the additional issue.

Next to the high grade domestic loans, foreign bonds were most conspicuous. Japanese 6½s sold at par and above for the first time on record and the Japanese sterling 4s went along. Part of the buying was said to be coming from Japan but part at least was easily explained by the yield the bonds offer at the market price. They were selling today at the same price they will become redeemable at in 1939. French bonds were strong, also, especially French Government and from some of the railway loans. Both issues of Belgian 7s crossed 98 approaching their previous high. Commonwealth of Australia 5s rallied from their recent low.

Railway bonds were the most active in the speculative and semi-speculative group. St. Louis-San Francisco incomes and adjustments were notably strong, while Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s and the Eries were fractionally higher.

WEAK TONE TO WHEAT ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Wheat had a weak tone during most of the session today because of liquidation and pressure due to the weakness in Liverpool and the bearish Canadian crop reports. The anticipated early settlement of the British coal strike also had its effect.

Wheat had a further sharp break in the last hour on selling caused by the break in corn and more reassuring news from the Southern hemisphere. The close was 2⅜c to 3c lower. December $1.37⅝ to $1.37½; May $1.42⅝ to $1.42½; July $1.34⅝. Corn dropped to a new season's low on further liquidation and closed 1⅞c to 2c lower. December 68⅛c to 68¼c; May 77⅛c to 77¼c; July 80c. Oats were ½c to ⅝c lower. December 42c; May 46⅜c to 46½c; July 45½c. Lard closed 17½c to 32½c lower, ribs unchanged and bellies 15c lower. Local cash sales were 67,000 bushels wheat, 149,000 bushels of corn, 97,000 bushels of oats and 9000 bushels barley.

General commission house selling featured the opening of the wheat trade. Resting orders at $1.39 for December and $1.44 for May were uncovered and proved sufficient to stem the decline around those levels. At midday prices were: December $1.39⅝; May $1.44 and July $1.36⅛.

Liverpool closed ⅛c to 1⅜c lower. Australian exportable surplus was estimated at 112,000,000 compared with 67,000,000 bushels exported so far this season. Argentine shipments for the week were 392,000 bushels. Broomhall's reports from Argentine told of a better European demand but that high ocean freight rates restricted heavier transactions. The Canadian Government crop report yesterday estimated the wheat crop at 405,000,000 bushels, compared with 399,000,000 bushels in September and 405,000,000 bushels last year. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 275,000 bushels for the week. Milling demand for wheat was better but export demand remained slow.

Liquidation and stop-loss selling was dominant in the corn trade most of the day and carried prices to lower levels. Buying against indemnities checked the break and at midday December was 69⅜c; May 78¼c and July 81⅜c. The Wednesday Government crop report was bearish, indicating a yield of 2,693,000,000 bushels while the carry over was 181,000,000 bushels. Country offerings and shipping demand were slightly heavier, but in the aggregate were small. Vessel room was chartered for 230,000 bushels to load and sold at an Erie Lake port.

Oats were fairly steady. The Canadian Government crop report estimated at 207,000,000 bushels against 322,000,000 bushels a year ago, was regarded as bullish. At midday December was 42⅝c; May 47c and July 46c.

The weakness in hogs and grain reacted in the provision market causing low prices for the season. At midday lard was 10@25c lower and ribs and bellies 15c lower.

BROADER AND HIGHER MARKET ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Bullish activities continued to show pronounced broadening tendencies throughout the day, a long list of stocks being established at still higher records and nearly all the important changes where there was active trading were to higher prices. Various factors entered into the situation in helping along advances, but about the most important factor was the unexpected pronounced ease in the money situation and the general indisposition to exchange securities for cash. Many stocks that had been inactive for a long time came into prominence because of vigorous buying, among them being Phelps Dodge & Co., which was up 7 points to 137. U. S. Gypsum made a further gain of 5 points to 166 and then declined 4½ points.

Oil stocks had a special moving force in the action of Humble Oil in advancing crude oil prices and that stock moved up about a point. Continental Oil held firm after its recent advance and Standard Oil of Indiana made a new high for the movement, selling above 65. Caribbean Syndicate moved up more than a point and Venezuelan Petroleum also made an additional gain.

Both classes of tobacco stocks were active and strong and some made new high records. Continental advanced 3⅝ points to 30¼ and Phillip Morris moved up to above 15. Sugar stocks also were in demand. National Sugar made a new high record on an advance to 132 and Central Aguirre advanced about a point. Johns-Manville moved up 9 points to 162. Glen Alden had an early advance of nearly 3 points.

Utilities moved with the other groups. American Light & Traction advanced over 8 points. Electric Investors was heavily traded on an advance of 2 points. United Light & Power was a feature in the lower-priced issues. American Light & Traction preferred again made a new high record.

Berlin Electric Elevated and Underground Railways Company

(Gesellschaft für Elektrische Hoch- und Untergrundbahnen in Berlin)

Thirty-Year First Mortgage 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

$3,000,000 Bonds of this issue have been withdrawn for sale in Holland by Messrs. Hope & Co., Teixeira de Mattos Brothers and Deutsche Bank, Amsterdam.

The City of Berlin, as stated below, owns a majority of the Company's capital stock. The City has entered into an agreement with the Company providing that fares will be maintained adequate to ensure earnings which will cover operating expenses, interest and sinking fund on all loans and proper provision for depreciation and other necessary reserves and that if for any reason, the fares should not be maintained at rates adequate to ensure sufficient earnings available for such purposes, the City will provide the funds necessary therefor.

Dated October 1, 1926, due October 1, 1956. Interest payable April 1st and October 1st. Principal and interest payable in New York City, in United States gold coin of, or equal to, the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any present or future German taxes, at the office of Speyer & Co., Fiscal Agent for the Loan.

Such principal and interest shall also be collectible, at the option of the holders, in Holland at the offices of the above named Dutch banking houses, at the equivalent in Guilders, the rate of exchange being fixed from time to time by such houses. Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal.

Cumulative Annual Sinking Fund sufficient to repay the entire issue at or before maturity, to be applied to the purchase of Bonds at or below par and interest, or, if not so obtainable, to redemption by lot at par and interest. The Company reserves the right to call for redemption on any interest date, upon not less than three months' notice, all or any part of the Bonds then outstanding, at 102½% and interest, up to and including October 1, 1931, and thereafter at par and interest.

Deutsche Treuhand-Gesellschaft, Trustee; The Equitable Trust Company of New York, Co-Trustee.

Dr. Karding, Treasurer of the City of Berlin, and Messrs. P. Wittig and H. Dettmar, Managing Directors of the Company, have summarized their letter of November 11, 1926 (copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned), as follows:

CAPITALIZATION
(upon completion of present financing)

Thirty-Year First Mortgage 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, due October 1, 1956	$15,000,000
Unsecured Loan from City of Berlin, repayable with interest at 6½% through cumulative annual sinking fund by April 1, 1950, 15,000,000 Reichsmarks	$ 3,571,000
Mortgages on real estate not used for railway operation, about 420,000 Reichsmarks	$ 100,000

including 62,000,000 Reichsmarks ($14,761,905) par value, capital stock, 50% paid, the balance subject to call.

There are also outstanding 1,250 profit sharing certificates (no par value), the holders of which are entitled to one-quarter of the net profits after payment of dividends at the rate of 8% on the stock of the Company.

The Berlin Electric Elevated and Underground Railways Company, now controlled by the City of Berlin, was organized in 1897 as a private corporation and began operation in 1902. The Company owns about 28.7 miles of elevated and underground lines and operates a total, including connecting lines, of about 33.1 miles. These lines constitute the entire electric rapid transit system now in operation in the City of Berlin, the third largest city of the world, with about 4,000,000 inhabitants.

SECURITY: The City of Berlin directly or through a corporation wholly owned by the city, now owns more than a majority of the 175,244,000 Reichsmarks ($41,724,762) capital stock of the Company, viz., 97,000,000 Reichsmarks ($23,095,238) par value, including 62,000,000 Reichsmarks ($14,761,905) par value on which 50% has been paid, the balance being subject to call. The City has entered into an agreement with the Company providing that fares will be maintained adequate to ensure earnings which will cover operating expenses, interest and sinking fund on all loans and proper provision for depreciation and other necessary reserves and that if, for any reason, the fares should not be maintained at rates adequate to ensure sufficient earnings available for such purposes, the City will provide the funds necessary therefor.

The Bonds will be issued under an Indenture to the Deutsche Treuhand Gesellschaft, Trustee, and The Equitable Trust Company of New York, Co-Trustee, and will be secured by a direct first mortgage on all the elevated and underground railway properties of the Company, including equipment and power plant, subject only to charges under the laws enacted to give effect to the Dawes Plan payments in respect of which (on the basis of present assessments) are conservatively estimated as not exceeding $225,000 in any one year. It is estimated that the principal amount on which such charges are computed will not exceed $3,750,000. The Company covenants to extend the lien of this mortgage to all property hereafter acquired with the proceeds of Bonds issued thereunder.

The total authorized amount of Bonds is limited to $25,000,000 (or equivalent in Reichsmarks). There will be presently issued $15,000,000 Bonds. The remaining Bonds may be issued for additions, betterments, extensions, etc., under restrictions to be set forth in the Indenture.

The rapid transit system owned includes 6 miles of elevated and 22.7 miles of underground lines with a total of about 71.5 miles of track. The Company owns its power plant which generates most of the electric current required, the remainder being supplied chiefly by the Berlin City Electric Company, all the capital stock of which is owned by the City. The equipment of the Company includes about 800 cars. The cost of the existing properties was over $60,000,000 and the cost of reproduction is estimated at over $100,000,000.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of this issue will be used for the payment of floating debt incurred in the construction of lines acquired from the City and of extensions recently placed in operation, for the redemption of 13,463,700 Reichsmarks ($3,205,261) par value of the Company's outstanding Bonds, betterments, additions and equipment, and other obligations and for other corporate purposes.

EARNINGS: The gross revenues of the lines now owned by the Company were for the year 1925 $7,867,000 and the net earnings after operating expenses, maintenance and taxes, were $3,290,000, equal (after deducting the above Dawes Plan charges) to over three times the annual interest on these Bonds. For the year 1926 gross revenues are estimated at about $6,891,000, and net earnings about $2,911,000, equal (after deducting the above Dawes Plan charges) to about two and three-quarter times such interest requirements. The decrease in earnings for 1926 is mainly due to diversion of traffic to the surface lines owned by the City, in consequence of the lower fares still maintained on these lines. There is, however, impending a general revision of fares on all the transit lines now controlled by the City (including also the bus lines) which it is confidently expected, will result in increased traffic and earnings for the elevated and underground lines. Furthermore earnings should be materially increased through the operation of over 4 miles of important extensions, service on which began during 1926.

Annual dividends have been paid since 1903 (the first complete year of operation) with the exception of 1923; the dividend rate was 5% for 1924 and 7% for 1925. The stock of the Company is quoted on the Berlin Stock Exchange at about par.

All conversions from German to United States currency have been made at 4.20 Reichsmarks to the Dollar.

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

All proceedings in connection with the issuance of the above Bonds are subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, New York, and Messrs. Albert & Westrick, Berlin.

We offer the above Bonds for subscription, if, as and when issued and received by us, at

94½% and accrued interest, to yield about 6.95%

We reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application and to allot a smaller amount than applied for. Amounts due on allotment will be payable at the office of Speyer & Co., 24 & 26 Pine Street, in New York funds on or about December 6, 1926, as called for, against delivery of Interim Receipts exchangeable for Definitive Bonds when ready.

The Gray Phantom's Romance

The Astonishing Adventures of a Lovable Outlaw.

By HERMAN LANDON

(Copyright, 1926.)

Synopsis of Preceding Installment.

Late one night PATROLMAN PINTO is called into the shop of SYLVANUS GAGE, recluse tobacco dealer just off the Bowery, New York. The old housekeeper, who had summoned him, fears foul play to her master, who had recently received a threatening letter signed "Gray Phantom." Breaking in the door, Officer Pinto finds Gage dying from a knife thrust and is just in time to catch the words, "Gray Phantom" from the murdered man's lips.

CHAPTER II.

The Missing Bauble.

Just then a youngish man with a slouching gait and a dead cigar between his teeth pushed through the little knot of spectators at the entrance and leveled a mildly inquisitive glance at Pinto and the housekeeper.

The patrolman, after introducing the new arrival as Lieut. Culligore, of the Detective Bureau, told briefly what he had discovered.

Culligore doffed his dripping raincoat and banged his soggy slouch hat against the counter. His dull face and sluggish manners gave the impression that he was never quite awake, but now and then a furtive little gleam in his cinnamon-colored eyes betrayed a saving sense of humor. He seemed unimpressed until Pinto reached that point in his story where the dying man had told the name of his assailant. Then Culligore curled up his lip against the tip of his nose, as was his habit when interested in something, and motioned the patrolman to follow him into the inner room.

There was an indefinable air about the chamber that vaguely suggested the abode of one whose life is hidden from the world. The ragged carpet and the ancient wallpaper were of neutral tones, and the atmosphere was stale and oppressive, as if seldom freshened by sun or wind. Lieut. Culligore's drowsily blinking eyes traveled over the scene, yet he appeared to see nothing. The safe in a corner seemed rather too large for the modest requirements of a tobacconist. Near by stood an ink-stained writing desk and a chair. The clothing on the narrow iron cot looked as though the occupant, suddenly disturbed in his sleep, had sprung from it in a hurry.

In the center of the room lay a curiously twisted figure, garbed in pajamas of pink flannel. Over the heart was a dull stain, and the right arm lay across the chest in a manner hinting that the dead man had used his last ounce of strength to ward off a blow. One of the legs was drawn up almost to the abdomen, and the eyes were fixed on the ceiling in a glassy stare.

"Well, Pinto?" Culligore looked as though he expected the patrolman to do the necessary thinking.

"The corpse told me the Gray Phantom did it," said Pinto in a tone of finality. "Don't you think we'd better start a general alarm, sir?"

"Corpses are sometimes mistaken, Pinto." The lieutenant fumbled for a match and slowly kindled his cigar. "I'll bet a pair of pink socks that the Phantom had nothing to do with this. The Phantom always fought clean. I'd hate like blue blazes to think that he pulled off this job.

Pinto scowled a little, as if he couldn't quite understand why Culligore should reject an easy solution of the mystery when it came to him ready-made.

"By the way," and Culligore fixed an indolent eye on the electric fixture above the desk, "was the light on or off when you broke in?"

"It was off, sir, I turned it on myself."

Culligore thought for a moment. "Well, that doesn't mean much. The murderer might have switched it off before he made his getaway, or the room might have been dark all the time.

"I'd give a good smoke to know whether the murder was done in the light or the dark."

Pinto's eyes widened inquiringly.

"You see, Pinto, if the light was on we can take it for granted Gage saw the murderer's face. If the room was dark, then he was just guessing when he told you it was The Phantom. It would have been a natural guess, too, for he would be very apt to suppose that the murderer was the man who had sent him the threatening letter. Since we can't know whether Gage was stabbed in the light or the dark, we'd better forget what he told you and take a fresh start." His eyes flitted about the room, and a flicker of interest appeared in their depths. "How do you suppose the murderer got out, Pinto?"

The patrolman looked significantly at the single window in the room. Culligore took a spiral tape measure from the little black box he always carried when at work on a homicide case and measured the width of the narrow sash.

"Too small," he declared. "You'd have to yank in your belt several notches before you could crawl through a window of this size, Pinto. Anyhow, it's latched from the inside."

A look of perplexity in his reddish face, Pinto turned to the door. He looked a bit dazed as he noticed the damage he had wrought in forcing it. One of the panels was cracked in the center, and the slot in which the bolt had rested had been torn out of the frame.

"You see, Pinto." There was a grin on Culligore's lips. "The murderer couldn't have got out of the window, because it's much too small, and he couldn't have walked out through the door, because it was bolted from the inside. There's no transom, so he could not have adjusted the bolt from the other side. Nobody has yet figured out a way of passing through a door or window and leaving it bolted on the inside."

Pinto stared at the door, at the window, and finally at Culligore. The problem seemed beyond him. Then he took his baton and, tapping as he went, explored every square foot of floor and walls, but no hollow sounds betrayed the presence of a hidden opening. He shook his head in a flabbergasted way.

"It's possible, of course," suggested the lieutenant, "that the murderer was still in the room when you broke in. He might have made his getaway in the dark while you were hunting for the light switch."

"The housekeeper would have seen him," Pinto pointed out. "She was standing just outside. And there was a crowd at the entrance. Say," and a startled look crossed his face. "Do you suppose Gage killed himself?"

"That would be an easy solution, all right. But if he did, what was his idea in telling you that The Phantom had done it? And I don't see any knife around. Gage wouldn't have had the strength to pull it out of the wound, and, even if he had, how did he dispose of it? No, Pinto; Gage was murdered, and—hang it all!—it's beginning to look as though The Phantom did it."

"But you just said—"

"All I'm saying now is that it's beginning to look as if The Phantom had had a hand in it. Things aren't always what they seem, you know. I'm not taking much stock in what Gage told you just before he died. There are other reasons. One of them is the size of that window. Another is the fact that the door was bolted on the inside.

"Together they show that the man who committed this murder accomplished something of a miracle in getting out of the room. The Phantom is the only man I know who can do that sort of thing."

He grinned sheepishly, as if conscious of having said something that sounded extravagant.

"Stunts like that are The Phantom's long suit," he went on. "He likes to throw dust in the eyes of the police and keep everybody guessing. But he was always a gentlemanly rascal, and it takes something besides a bolted door and a window latched on the inside to make me believe he has gotten down to dirty work. Wish the medical examiner would hurry up."

He took a cover from the cot and threw it over the upper part of the body. A chance glance toward the door made him pause. Just across the threshold, with hands clasped across her breast and eyes fixed rigidly on the lifeless heap on the floor, stood the housekeeper. She awoke with a start from her reverie as she felt the Lieutenant's steady gaze on her face, and she shrank back a step. With a puckering of the brows, Culligore turned away. His eyes fell on the safe.

A pull at the knob told him it was locked. He took a magnifying lens from his kit and carefully examined the surface. Then, with a shake of the head signifying he had found no finger prints, he crooked his index finger at the housekeeper. She advanced reluctantly, and Culligore studied her with a sidelong glance.

"You needn't talk unless you want to," he said gently. "The department isn't offering you any immunity. We've known for some time that Gage was running a fence, though we never got the goods on him."

The woman, standing in a crouching attitude and studiously avoiding Culligore's gaze, swept a tress of moist gray hair from her forehead.

"We've also suspected that you have been in cahoots with him," continued the Lieutenant in casual tones. "Oh, don't get scared. We won't go into that just now. All I want is that we understand each other."

The woman raised her head and looked straight at Officer Pinto, and there was a hint of dread in her eyes as their glances met. A puzzled frown crossed Culligore's face as he noticed the strange exchange of glances; then he pointed to the safe.

"Know how to open it?"

The housekeeper shook her head. "Mr. Gage kept only cheap junk in it, anyhow. All he used it for was a blind."

"A blind?"

"He had to keep a lot of valuables in the house all the time, and he was always afraid of burglars. He kept a lot of phony stuff in the safe, thinking if burglars found it they might be fooled and not look any further."

"Ah! Not a bad idea. Where did he keep the real stuff?"

The woman hesitated for a moment; then, with a quick gesture, she pointed to the old writing desk.

"Gage was a shrewd one," observed the Lieutenant. "With a safe in the room, nobody would think of looking for valuables in a broken-down desk. Now," drawing a little closer to the woman and trying to catch her shifty eyes, "I wish you would tell us who killed him. I think you know."

A tremor passed over the woman's ashen face, and she fixed Pinto with a look that caused the Lieutenant to lift his brows in perplexity. Finally, she pointed a finger at the patrolman.

"You heard what he said, didn't you? Mr. Gage told him the Gray Phantom did it. Isn't that enough?"

Culligore regarded her narrowly, as if sensing an attempt at evasion in what she had just said. Then he nodded and seemed to be searching his memory.

"Let me see—Gage and the Phantom had some kind of row a few years back?"

The housekeeper's "Yes" was scarcely audible.

"What was it about?"

Her lips curled in scorn. "That's what I could never understand. They were quarreling like two overgrown boys over a piece of green rock. Imitation jade was what Mr. Gage called it. I never got the story straight, but it seems the Phantom had been carrying it around as a kind of keepsake for years. He lost it finally, and somehow it got into Mr. Gage's hands. The Phantom wanted it back, but Mr. Gage was just stubborn enough to hang on to it. They had an awful rumpus, and I think the Phantom threatened to get Mr. Gage some day."

"All that fuss about a piece of phony jade?" The Phantom must have had some particular reason for wanting it back. What was it shaped like?"

"It was a funny kind of cross, with eight tips to it."

"A Maltese cross, maybe." Lieut. Culligore whistled softly. "The Phantom's a queer cuss. Likely as not he thought more of that piece of imitation jade than most people would of a thousand dollars. What I don't see is why Gage wouldn't give it up. Unless," he added with a shrewd grin, "he knew how badly the Phantom wanted it and hoped to make him cough up some real dough for it. Wasn't that it?"

A shrug was the housekeeper's only response.

"And the Phantom, of course, balked at the idea of paying good money for his own property. But it seems Gage would have given it up when he saw that it was putting his life in danger. I suppose, though, he thought the Phantom was only bluffing. He didn't believe anybody would commit a murder over a thing that could be bought for a few cents."

Again the housekeeper shot Pinto a queer glance. "If you don't want me any more, I think I'll—"

"Just a moment," interrupted Culligore. "I want you to show me the letter Gage got yesterday."

With a sullen gesture she stepped to the desk, fumbled for a few moments among the drawers, then drew forth a letter and handed it to the lieutenant. Culligore examined the envelope and the superscription under the light, then pulled out the enclosure.

" 'The Gray Phantom neither forgives nor forgets.' " he read aloud. "Short and to the point. Now let's have a look at the Maltese cross. But wait—here's the medical examiner. You're late, doc."

"Car broke down." The examiner, a thick-set, bearded, crisp-mannered individual, put a few questions to Cullingore and Pinto, then uncovered the body, explored the region of the wound with an expert touch, and finally jotted down a few notes in a red-covered book. As he rose from his kneeling position, the lieutenant gave him a signal out of the corner of his eye, and the two men left the room together.

"Just one question, doc." Culligore spoke in low tones, as if anxious that Pinto and the housekeeper should not hear. "About that wound. How long did Gage live after he was stabbed?"

"Not very long."

"Long enough to tell Pinto the name of the man who stabbed him?"

The examiner looked startled. "Yes, in all probability. Say, you don't suspect that cop in there of——"

"Not after what you've told me." Culligore wheeled on his heels and re-entered the inner room. His upper lip brushed the tip of his nose, signifying he had learned something interesting. Pinto was replacing the cover over the body, while the housekeeper, standing a few paces away, was regarding him with a fixed, inscrutable look.

"Now let's see the Maltese cross," directed the lieutenant.

The woman jerked herself up. Her eyes held a defiant gleam, but it died away quickly. With evident reluctance she approached the desk and pointed.

"There's a hidden drawer back there in the corner," she announced. "I don't know how to open it. You'll have to find that out for yourself."

Culligore, after looking in vain for a concealed spring, took a small tool from his kit. To locate the drawer without the woman's help would have been a difficult task, for it was ingeniously hidden in an apparently solid portion of the desk. With a few deft twists and jerks he forced it open and poured out the contents, consisting of a great number of small objects wrapped in tissue paper. Each of the little wads contained a diamond. Unwrapping one after another, Culligore gathered them in a glittering heap on the desk. The stones varied in size and brilliancy. Occasionally he raised one of them to the light and inspected it keenly, satisfying himself of its genuineness.

The housekeeper's face went blank. She stared at the diamonds, then at the empty drawer.

"It was there day before yesterday," she declared. "Mr. Gage showed it to me."

There was an odd tension in the Lieutenant's number. "Did the Phantom know about the secret drawer and how to open it?"

The woman, one hand clutching the edge of the desk, seemed to ponder. "I don't know. He might have. The Phantom called on Mr. Gage several times after they started quarreling. But"——

"Well, it doesn't matter." There was a strain of suppressed disappointment in Culligore's tones, and his face hinted that an illusion was slipping away from him. "It looks as though the thing was settled. The Gray Phantom is the only man I know who would pass up some $50,000 worth of diamonds after taking the trouble to steal a gewgaw worth about two bits."

With dragging gait he left the room, stepped behind the counter outside, and spoke into the telephone. In a few moments now the alarm would go out and a thousand eyes would be searching for the Gray Phantom. Culligore, tarrying for a little after he had hung up the receiver, looked as though he were in a mood to quarrel with his duty and with the facts staring him in the face. Then he shrugged, as if to banish regrets of which he was half ashamed, and his face bore a look of dogged determination when he stepped back into the bedroom.

"We'll get him," he announced with grim assurance. "Inside 15 minutes there'll be a net thrown around this old town so tight a mouse couldn't wriggle through."

He picked up his hat and kit, and just then his eyes fell on the housekeeper's face. In vain he exercised his wits to interpret the sly gaze with which she was fixing Patrolman Pinto.

Did it mean fear, suspicion, horror, haste or all four?

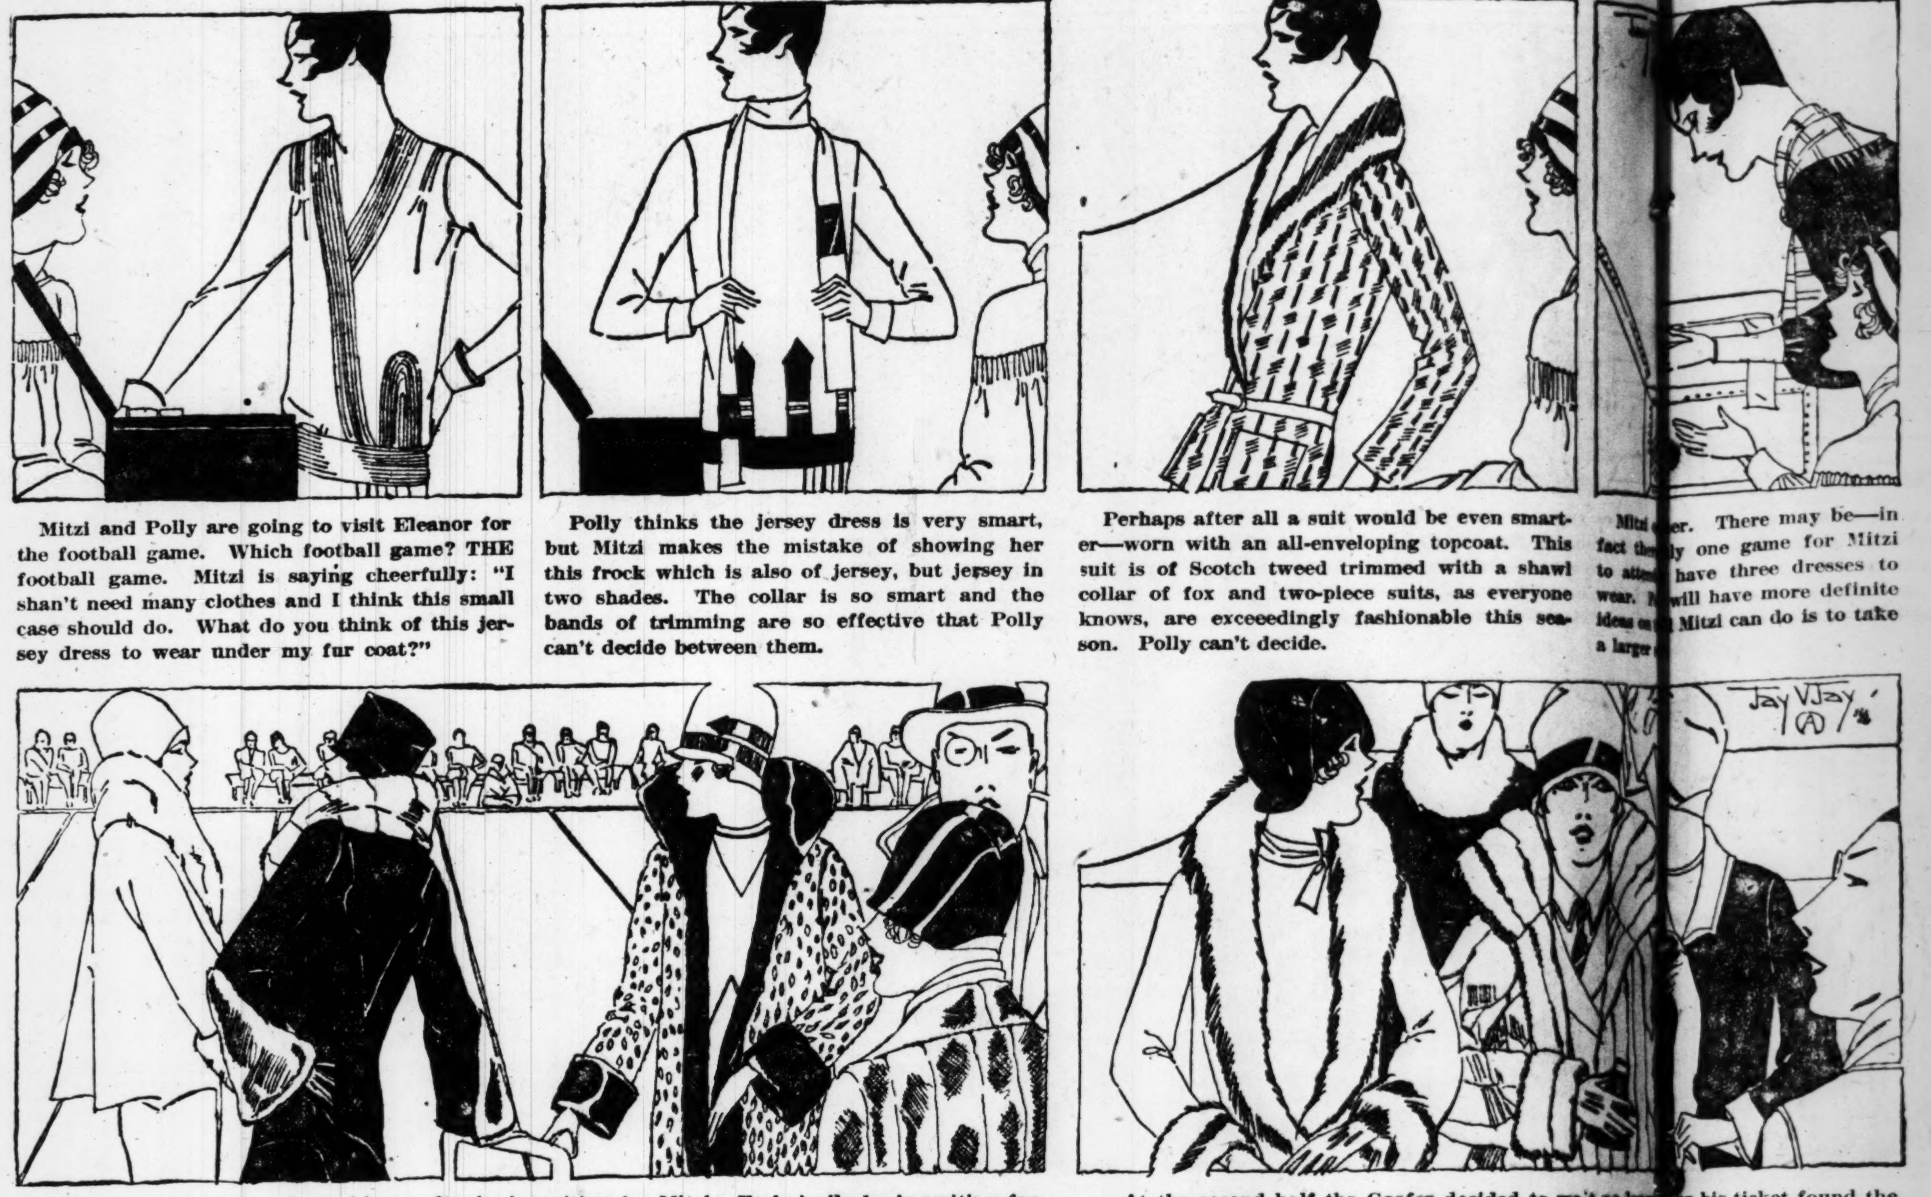
MODISH MITZI — Three Dresses But Only One Game

By Jay V. Jay



Mitzi and Polly are going to visit Eleanor for the football game. Which football game? THE football game. Mitzi is saying cheerfully: "I shan't need many clothes and I think this small case should do. What do you think of this jersey dress to wear under my fur coat?"

Polly thinks the jersey dress is very smart, but Mitzi makes the mistake of showing her this frock which is also of jersey, but jersey in two shades. The collar is so smart and the bands of trimming are so effective that Polly can't decide between them.

Perhaps after all a suit would be even smarter—worn with an all-enveloping topcoat. This suit is of Scotch tweed trimmed with a shawl collar of fox and two-piece suits, as everyone knows, are exceedingly fashionable this season. Polly can't decide.

Mitzi er. There may be—in fact the ly one game for Mitzi to atte have three dresses to wear. will have more definite ideas on Mitzi can do is to take a larger

The Goofer—he has done this so often!—is waiting for Mitzi. Technically he is waiting for Mitzi and Polly and Eleanor, but why be technical? He finds very little to interest him in the fair young things near him—cape coats, wide sleeves, reversible coats notwithstanding. You, yourself, will probably notice that these are smart garments—the first coat is of fabric with a fur collar, the second of seal trimmed with nutria, the third a leopard coat trimmed with seal. End of the first quarter and they haven't come yet!

At the second half the Goofer decided to wait no long up his ticket found the three young ladies—all very reproachful because he is coat is trimmed with a long collar of fox and wide fox cuffs. Mitzi wears a musk standing collar to keep her ears warm. Eleanor has a seal coat outlined in fabric ort of collar (hidden by the collar of her dress). "Never mind," Mitzi tells the Go een very exciting. Second half and the score is 0 to 0."

Milton Work's Pointers On Auction Bridge

By MILTON C. WORK.

"IS the lead of a singleton ever permissible?" or "Is the lead of a singleton ethical?"

One of the standard questions that I always expect to have asked when I am conducting an "open forum" is one concerning the lead of the singleton. The question is phrased in various ways: "Should you lead a singleton?"

Some Bridge players seem to entertain the idea that any unusual play is unethical. Nothing could be more absurd. Any lead or play is ethical unless its maker has some secret understanding with his partner concerning its meaning.

Assuming, however, that the question about the permissibility of a singleton lead refers to its tactical rather than its legal aspect, and also that no bid of that suit by partner or adversary affects the situation, I can best answer the question by saying that against a No Trump contract the lead of a singleton would be unthinkable, but against a trump contract it is probably the biggest gamble of any play made at the Bridge table, as it may readily be either the only lead that will save the game, or the only lead that will lose it. It is the former more often than it is the latter and therefore, it is a favorite lead, unless the leader has some advantageous high-card sequence to open.

There is one important point, however, about the singleton lead that many players are prone to disregard. The only object of the lead is a ruff and when the hand does not desire a ruff, it is the limit of folly to ask for it. When strong in trumps, a ruff is the last wish of an adversary of the Declarer. In that case this game should be to force the Declarer and to try to reduce the Declarer's trumps to a number equal or less than his own. Almost invariably with five trumps, and generally with four, there are pregnant possibilities for a defending hand, but the advantageous trump position that it holds may be jeopardized—if not ruined—by an early ruff. Therefore, with four trumps, unless they are all "babies," a ruff should not be asked for, and consequently a singleton should not be led. When the trumps are all so small that there is little chance of their being of service in capturing any held by the Declarer it may be good play—even with four—to ask for a ruff; but if the top trump be as high as a Ten or Jack, asking for a ruff is as a rule playing the Declarer's game.

With the hand given yesterday: Spades: Jack-x-x-x. Hearts: Queen-Jack-10-x. Diamonds: King-x-x-x. Clubs: Jack the Queen of Hearts—not the singleton Jack of Clubs—should be led. The hand, with Jack and three other trumps, does not wish to be forced.

The pointer for today is:

Against a trump declaration, do not hesitate to lead a singleton if you desire a ruff; but with four trumps headed by a ten or higher card, you should not desire a ruff and should not lead a singleton.

Tomorrow's pointer will be upon an important point in play.

MAKING YOUR GIFT LISTS

By Emilie Hoffman

PERHAPS you are not prepared to do your Christmas shopping quite as early as this but surely you are planning your gifts and making up your Christmas shopping lists?

This is often the hardest part of the shopping if you are giving presents in the right spirit, which is to impart pleasure. One will admire a beautiful gift and may appreciate the generosity prompting a handsome present but real pleasure and satisfaction is imparted by the gift that is actually wanted—something that has been longed for. The cost of the gift has nothing to do with it.

The woman who needs a pair of gloves or silk stockings will be more pleased if you invest $3 in this practical gift that she really wants than she would a $20 gift that is a mere ornament.

So before making out your lists make efforts to ascertain the desires of those whom you intend buying for. Between now and the real shopping trip you will hear many desires expressed. Make a note of each one.

The girl who earns her money and can satisfy her wants will be gratified with something she would not be apt to buy. For instance: one of those colored and decorated magazine carriers that she can carry wherever she wanted to read—provided she is a reader.

Habits, disposition, environment and taste should all be considered in selecting a gift. The woman who is too busy to sew would not appreciate a sewing machine, even if it is an electric one. It would be foolish to buy a table newspaper holder for the man who never reads at the table. The practical woman would be pleased with handkerchiefs or warm stockings but would not "give a rap" for the most exquisite boutonniere.

So put yourself out a bit, if necessary, and fill your list with gifts that "fit."

Guard their Health
—Yet Save Fuel

The Charter Oak Parlor Furnace shown in the illustration above is regulated and controlled by a patented automatic damper and heat equalizer which keeps the fire from burning too fast or too slowly. When the fire begins to burn too rapidly, the damper checks the drafts and prevents excessive heating. When the fire cools and begins to burn too slowly, the damper opens and lets the fire burn more rapidly again.

Even, steady heat—the only kind that is truly healthful—is assured if your home is heated by this Charter Oak Parlor Furnace.

But that's just one advantage. By controlling the fire as it does, this damper saves fuel and makes your Charter Oak Parlor Furnace an economical heating unit as well as a healthful one.

Now, before you buy any stove, see the Charter Oak.

By Thornton W. Burgess

The Secret Storehouse

The secret that with one you share,
You might as well put on the air.
—Mother West Wind.

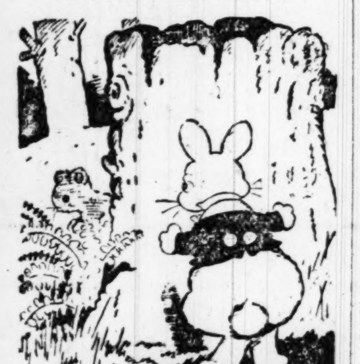
HAPPY JACK SQUIRREL knows the truth of this. He knows that the only way to keep a secret is to keep it. That is why he is very careful never to tell where his storehouses are. Happy Jack wouldn't tell his best friend. People are queer. They mean to keep a secret, but they can't. A secret is the slipperiest thing in the world. It is forever slipping out when you think you have it all bottled up tight. The only way to keep a secret is to keep it and not share it with any one.

This is why Happy Jack wouldn't tell Peter where he was storing away those hickory nuts. He knew that if he should tell Peter, Peter would tell some one else. He wouldn't mean to tell any one else, but sooner or later he would let it slip. So Happy Jack wouldn't tell Peter where he was storing those hickory nuts.

The thing that provoked Peter was that he would see Happy Jack enter one end of a hollow tree trunk that lay on the ground. He would enter one end with a nut in his mouth and pretty soon he would come out without the nut. Yet, though Peter went inside several times, he couldn't find a single nut. It was a most tantalizing mystery. If Happy Jack suspected that Peter was spying on him, he didn't say a word. He just went on about his business of finding fat hickory nuts and storing them away.

Now it all aggravated Peter very much, indeed, but what could he do about it? It seemed to him that those hickory nuts must be in that hollow tree somewhere. But though he looked and looked and looked, he couldn't find a single nut. Finally Peter gave up. It was getting late in the afternoon and he knew that Happy Jack wouldn't work much longer. So Peter bade him good by and went off to see what the other Squirrel cousins were doing.

It wasn't until afternoon of the next day that Peter returned to see how Happy Jack Squirrel was getting along. As he approached that lone hickory tree it occurred to Peter to steal up quietly, not letting Happy Jack know that he was coming. What he really did was to sneak up, which is never a nice thing to do.



Peter caught a glimpse of a gray coat

Now Peter came from a different direction from the one in which he had come before. He presently came to a stump. It was an old, partly rotted, hollow stump. Peter sat down behind this stump to rest. Then, too, it was a good place from which to peek out and watch for Happy Jack. He hadn't yet seen Happy Jack, but he felt sure Happy Jack was somewhere about. Peter had been sitting there only a few moments when he heard a rustling. Peter peeked around the stump and discovered that right on the other side there were some ferns growing. One of these ferns moved ever so little. Peter caught a glimpse of a gray coat. He knew it instantly. It was the coat of Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel. Then Peter made a discovery. Those ferns grew up around the end of a long, hollow, fallen tree Peter held his breath and watched. Presently out of the farther end of that tree he saw Happy Jack Squirrel pop. Happy Jack sat up, looked all about, then scampered away.

Peter remained where he was. Happy Jack appeared presently with a nut in his mouth. He looked about in all directions, then disappeared in the end of that hollow, fallen tree. In great excitement Peter waited. Presently Peter saw those fern leaves right close to him move. Happy Jack had come out at the other end of that tree. He was under the ferns. Peter waited until Happy Jack had returned the way he had come. Then, when Happy Jack was out of sight, Peter carefully peeped under those ferns. Between the roots of that old stump behind which he had been hiding was a hole. It was quite a good-sized hole. Peter peeped down in it. It was more than half full of fat hickory nuts. Peter had found the secret of Happy Jack's storehouse. Happy Jack was running through that hollow tree and hiding the nuts in this snug little storehouse between the roots of the old stump.

Wonderful what Nature did for man in making the whole wheat grain. It contains every element the human body needs. More wonderful still is the process by which SHREDDED WHEAT is made. No one has ever been able to improve upon our process, or even approach it, for making the whole wheat grain digestible. No other cereal food can be compared with it. Each and every crisp shred of wheat is full of health and strength. Nothing so good for youngsters as these little loaves of oven-baked shreds of wheat, toasted and served with butter, or served with hot milk or cream. Black Shoes Disappear.

Mauve, rose, pale blue, gold and silver, were the predominating colors in women's shoes seen at the exposition of the "Paris Leather Week." Black shoes were greatly in the minority.

The exposition represented firms from Germany, Scandinavia, Great Britain, France and the United States.

For street and afternoon wear two distinct trends were noticed—one toward very simple models in snakeskin, the other being strapless models in three and four pastel combinations with cubistic designs.

TOUGH LUCK.

THERE was a man in our town
And he was wondrous keen
To be among those present
When we entertained a Queen;
But, when he'd donned his soup and fish,
With all his might and main,
He found he couldn't go because
He had no laquered cane!

Lyrics by Limerick Luke.

THERE was a young fellow named Gratz
Who always looked swell in high hats;
Though his full dress he wore
He was stopped at the door
Because he'd forgotten his spats.

HIT 'ER UP, BABE!

See where Col. Ruppert is going to increase the seating capacity of Yankee Stadium to 90,000. Babe Ruth will have his work cut out for him but those three home runs in one world series game will help a whole lot.

Those 90,000 seats will have to be filled pretty often if Babe is to drag down $150,000 per annum.

However, if Babe tackles any more of those football guys he stands a gaudy chance of being thrown for a loss of a year's wages.

"Dog Saves House From Fire."

TY SHOULD WORRY.

T. RAYMOND COBB
Now has no job,
They tendered him the air;
But he should fret
And wrinkles get,
As he's a millionaire.

With vim and speed
He held the lead,
And, after twenty years,
His days are spent
In sweet content
While hunting bears and deers.

NIZE BABIES.

"German at 76 Is Father of 84 Living Children."

Must be going after the record of George Washington, the father of his country.

GOODBYE, RUSTY — I'LL NEVER FORGET ALL YOU'VE DONE FOR ME. IF I COULD PAY YOU WHAT I OWE YOU, IN YOUR NEXT GAME YOU'D BE WEARING A SOLID GOLD HEAD-GUARD!
ELLA, IF YOU EVER NEED A FRIEND, GIVE ME THE SIGNAL AND I'D CRASH THROUGH A LINE OF BRONZE STATUES AND SCRIMMAGE WITH A NEST OF TIGERS TO GET TO YOU —
